

三

三

三

三

Star Sea Lord - Chapter 01-04

Table of Contents

1. Chapter 1: Ambush \(1\)
2. Chapter 2: Ambush \(2\)
3. Chapter 3: Recovery \(1\)
4. Chapter 4: Recovery \(2\)

Chapter 1: Ambush (1)

Series Details

Chapter 1: Ambush (1)

A spacious and clean crystal porthole, beautiful stars could be seen through the blue energy shield projected, everything was covered in thick motes of light, making it look like a dreamy fairy tale scene.

Looking out through the porthole, the vast expanse of the star sea occupies the entire field of vision, like an unmoving gorgeous painting, the star sea was a magnificent place, mysterious, with profound truths to be shown to every soul.

This is a new kilometer-long deep space probe research vessel, belonging to the ministry of the Imperial Army. Around it, there are sixteen similar probes. Hundreds of large warship vessels were guarding the area surrounding the probes in the center, all types of detection equipment on the ships have been activated, warily scanning the surrounding void for trouble.

This modest fleet was at the moment hidden at the edge of a massive neutron star's gravitational field, where pieces of wreckage have gathered to form a planet hundreds of thousands of kilometers in diameter within a meteorite cloud belt.

The ship's onboard detection equipment could glimpse into the distance, there was a neutron star. There were also a number of stars of different sizes, group of old stars in the red giant phase, and the ships onboard optical brain, after a lengthy probe analysis, found that within a modest cluster was a hidden small black hole.

So many "fierce objects" existed together here, all kinds of gravitational fields tangled, interfering with each others influence, coupled with violent bursts of radiation, gravity tides, occasional episodes of high-energy particle storms, etc., so that this dangerous place has existed millions of years without any intelligent life setting foot here.

For two years, the imperial fleet expedition paid an unimaginable price, only by going through numerous disasters were they barely able to detect a relatively secure path, that they could successfully enter the depths of the star's gravity field.

In a conference room, sitting at the head of the table was a young major general, looked at on both sides by the attending leaders. About half among them were soldiers, and the rest were researchers wearing silver overalls, both men and women, were elite military scientists from the Imperial Academy.

After a gentle cough, he began:

“Gentlemen, we have stayed in this place for almost two years, and now can count the required tasks to have been completed. So I have decided, the fleet will depart in three hours, and return along the same route, do you have any advice?”

Everyone else exposed a look of relief on their faces. After staying in this hell-like place for so long, how many comrades and colleagues have been buried here, the sadness in their hearts, could not be expressed in a few words!

Twenty thousand newly made special warships, plus hundreds of specially modified deep space probe research ships, and a large number of highly skilled soldiers, of which less than a tenth survived.

Of course, although it was a heavy price to pay, but compared to the things they gathered and the adventure the experienced some may say the loss was too great. On the contrary though, everyone here believed that their gains were great, though it was at the expense of their colleagues lives they will be given generous rewards! Before looking to Major General Yu, everyone secretly thought this to themselves.

At this time, a thin, middle-aged scholar looked up and asked: “General, right now our power is limited, and we don't know if the route we took last time is still safe. Do you have any better way?”

Several officers showed a questioning look in their eyes, as they looked to the man with the highest rank.

In fact, though the route they followed is dangerous, they would only be leaving a single area, yet after they would have to go through thousands of wormholes and stargates. After longer than a three year voyage would they arrive within the scope of imperial power, the smallest of the star sea dominions! Only when they are can they truly be considered safe.

During this long voyage, in addition to a variety of unpredictable traps, there are many many powerful and strange creatures roaming, as well as some unusual horrors, that even someone as strong as the Ares Empire are unwilling to provoke.

Even worse, if the empire fights with hostile alien civilizations, leading to their siege, they may really be in trouble!

Major General Yu nodded: “Professor, you don’t need to worry I have already taken that into account. Please be assured that, as early as ten days ago, I was contacted by use of the secret Imperial Army communication unit, and was informed that the empire’s, Lonely Star and Northwest Theater will jointly send a large number of their elites to come assist us, they are even going to guard us until we get to the northwest border of the empire by changing the cruise route of ‘Frost’ to provide temporary support! So that isn’t something we need to worry about!”

Everyone was relieved after hearing the news, it wasn’t as though they were stupid imperial executives, they were aware of the extraordinary significance this mission’s harvesting strategy had for increasing the empire’s future strength! As long as they reached the safe zone within the empire, everyone would receive unimaginable rewards whatever their rank is, not to mention promotions and the aspects of getting rich!

After Major General Yu saw everyone understood, they began to arrange the final preparations before leaving, as he thought of the mysterious bird box, decided to hand it over to the defense minister himself.

After three hours, the fleet began in accordance with the predetermined plan, an orderly retreat.

Every warship gathered together to for a sphere, with energy shields at maximum, the remaining research ships closely guarded in the center, and then along the predetermined course, carefully moved forward.

.....

“..... His Excellency the Minister, are you aware what the consequences of this command means?”

Northwest Theater command center, located somewhere in the top-secret planetary contact room, a middle-aged man dressed in uniform was staring at a three-dimensional image in front of him with an angry look on his face:

“You damn people don’t know how crazy it is over here, we’ve recently seen more and more fierce offensives, our defenses throughout the Northwest have received harassment in addition to countless enemy fleets, Yue Chi said that even with a strong level of command, the troops available are simply not enough!”

“Yet at this critical juncture, you want ‘Frost’ including a large number of elite defenders to perform a top-secret mission, I just want to ask how are we going to maintain our defenses here? How do we keep the empire’s northwest border secure?”

In the image was a grey-haired old man, who revealed a hint of majestic rage, wore a spotless golden form fitting marshal uniform, on his chest he wore a few huge medals, which were sparkling with a brilliant shining light.

Hearing the implicit anger in the questioning, he intentionally smiled, slowly with authority:

“Admiral Fenglin Bo, regarding the unreasonable command, I have no need to explain to you that this matter involves a top-secret of the empire! So as an imperial soldier, your duty is to fully implement this military command, understand?”

“Of course I won’t forget my duty!” Fenglin Bo gritting his teeth said,

“But at the moment if such important combatants are taken, the northwestern border will be fragile enough to make defense against the next attack impossible, you should not forget, that behind the back line of our defenses lies the dominion of the empire, if we let those beasts that treat humans as food rush in, then the consequences not even mentioning me, even someone with your identity, would inevitably go to military court! Are you sure this must be done?”

The Minister said with authority: “I know better than anyone the consequences and the things we gain will make this loss seem insignificant, so long as you execute these commands!!!”

“You must be insane, this is related to the fate of tens of billions of imperial citizens safety! You actually say that these are insignificant losses!?” Fenglin Bo finally unable to repress his anger, roared with a livid face:

“This unreasonable command, I will never execute it, even if I have to quit my job, I will not do it!”

“Admiral!” the minister looked coldly, stressing each syllable with authority:

“You can question my orders, and afterwards send an appeal to the highest imperial court. But for now, you have to perform your duties to the letter! Otherwise, I will immediately order someone to replace you!”

“.....” Fenglin Bo glared at his former boss, grinding his teeth and said nothing.

The Defense Minister sighed, then relented: “Xiao Feng, how many years has it been, you not changed your stubborn temper a bit nor have you had a good disposition towards me!?”

“This is a secret you are not qualified to know. But I assure you that within three days, the two main forces guarding the empire’s central territories, ‘Thrill of Climbing’ and ‘Fu’ will immediately head to the northwest to reinforce your defenses, along with all the various logistical supplies needed will soon be in the appropriate place! So are you satisfied now?”

“If this is so, then I have nothing more to say!” Fenglin Bo looked at ease, with a standard military salute.

The three-dimensional image gradually faded, the Minister stared at the two documents on his desk, and inadvertently a bitter smile emerged on his old face.

It was his well-prepared, military budget for the next fiscal year for the empire. The other document’s content was about solutions to the increasingly serious security situation on the empire’s periphery, and a set of special military expansion plans created from joint assessments of military advisers.

Undoubtedly, these two programs will cost a huge amount of financial and material resources from the empire, even far more than the highest ruling class could spend, in the next budget council, he really did not hold many expectations for the two programs getting passed.

Although he is the highest governing member of the council, even though he has the highest decision-making authority in the empire, the power of the military isn't dominant, those who hold power wanting the approval of financially great men, is easier said than done?

Thinking for a long time, he let out a tired sigh, put the files away, and then left his office intending to discuss something with some relatively close colleagues.

.....

In the immense void, a fleet hurried along.

After ten days of sailing, the Empire's sphere of influence was getting closer, ship officers and various people who had taut nerves could not help feeling let down.

"General, a group is ready to provide assistance, we are being contacted by the Imperial Army!"

In the cockpit of the flagship, the officer in charge of communications liaison excitedly reported to the Major General.

"Where are they?"

"A distance of about seven hundred light years, opening up a wormhole, with up to more than an hour of effort, we can join them!" the officer replied. (Note: It was originally seven hundred years not light years, so I changed it.)

The Major heard the news and nodded, his spirits slightly lifted.

Warship would generally not take the time to go through a wormhole, as the time consumed to open one usually took the time taken to reach the destination. Since the imperial legions were already in close proximity, they really didn't worry too much.

However, the time closest to success is when accidents tend to occur.

.....

In space, hundreds of giant flying saucers have been quietly tracking the fleet for a while!

UFO nearly 10,000 meters in diameter, had a dark purple body clean and smooth like a mirror with a ten meter thick purple energy shield, from time to time the shield swept away space debris which was easily blocked, so it could not have any impact on its existence in any way. (Note: Switched out 'ontology' for existence.)

“Dear revered elders, everything is ready, do we grab them now?” A soft voice echoed inside the ship.

“You are certain the object has fallen into the hands of the human race?” the dignified voice sounded muffled.

“Of course, when the human expedition fleet entered the Yue Long ancient ruins my family’s valiant men found their trail!” the previous voice replied.

“Now that they have finally left the absolute domain of that place, they seem to have lost a great amount of strength, which where my family is concerned, is undoubtedly a great opportunity.”

An obviously much more sedate third voice: “But even so, it can not be determined whether that thing is in the hands of mankind, after all the dangers in the ancient ruins, my family of warriors have never been able gain anything! Nothing at all.”

“If we rush things and they do not have what we need, but anger the humans, leading to renewed fighting between our two societies, would be too uneconomical! Do not forget my family is still in a stage of recuperation, a Human and Han war is by no means a wise move.”

“Dear elders, on this point we can confirm that there is sufficient certainty!” a voice explains,

“We have used repeated screening, on the flagship in the central regions of the human fleet there are some subtle energy fluctuations, very similar to our observations many years ago, so we conclude that they’ve got something from the cache of relics.”

“Now that we have confirmed, it seems we must take a chance!” the elders were silent for a moment.

“Elders, this is what we should do!” Another sharp sounding voice,

“The human family has grown more powerful in the last hundred years, the number of clashes between our peoples are countless, although we are evenly matched with each other, and nothing can be done, but you should understand what the results will be.”

“If this thing fell into the hands of the human civilization, it means they solved the mystery, and given time they can train higher-end strategic forces, which will make my family’s situation more difficult, so no matter what the consequences will lead to, we now have no choice! Our highness the great dragon, has led the army to the northwest frontier of the human empire, we should finish with our side of things as soon as possible and catch up if we want to participate in the battle! Understand?”

The inside of the UFO was silent, with the presence of great thinkers.

“..... Well! Since it is so, lets go grab it!” an elder said slowly, “But the human empire’s reinforcements are very close, so we must deal with this quickly!”

Chapter 2: Ambush (2)

Series Details

Chapter 2: Ambush (2)

“General! There are enemies” a monitoring group duty officer spoke in a severely panicked voice, so that Major General Yu who was leaning against a chair with his eyes closed, awakened.

Outside the windows, the originally dark void had become bright as day, thousands of bands of purple lights were quickly streaming over to the fleet!

“..... Fight back!” He hesitated only a moment, before giving a decisive order.

The thousands of blue lights showed an unexpected appearance, it was a fleet of gunships ready to fire, fear filled the surrounding space.

“Attack, do not leave the group!” When the Major General saw the amazing size of the UFO’s, as well as the power levels of their ships, his heart sank as he understood today’s odds.

The other side was prepared, and looking at the situation at least ten or more command-level warships, this is not a firepower his fleet can stand against.

The only measure available was to use all means to fight back, dragging their enemy fleet into a mutual destruction is the style of the Imperial Army! Of course, it would be ideal if they could survive until reinforcements arrived.

“You want what our Imperial Army regiment grabbed from that place? You’re daydreaming!” Major General Yu touched the treasured box wearing a cold smile, and removed his combat armor.

The people in the first round of the offensive did not achieve the desired results, and in addition to the outermost circle of warships being damaged on the outer hull, the inside of the ships did not immediately collapse, so the next moment, tens of thousands of lights suddenly shot out as blue light beams, towards the area of space the group of UFO’s came from.

While several of the UFO’s in the forefront tried to dodge, they were instantly destroyed by the volley!

“Well, now they’re trapped!” The elder had a cold smile as he ordered all the ships for a strong comprehensive attack.

“Whoever can get that thing, will make his highness extremely happy, and be promoted to a major command!” he promised.

Hundreds of UFO’s suddenly exuded a strong blood-lust, and scrambled towards the heart of the imperial fleet.

However, their flagship Kankan appeared out of thin air in a burst of silver-blue flame, dashed forward slightly ahead of the others and unceremoniously rolled in, a series of shrill screams sounded out immediately then went completely silent.

Ten groups of glaring balls of light rose from the core of the imperial fleet, each group had a ball of light inside that exuded an awe-inspiring majesty.

“Really, you’re just a group of filthy beasts!” Major General Yu coldly laughed,

“Over the years, have you not become afraid of fighting the imperial army? You actually dare to recklessly come to pick a fight?”

His body was protected by a tight black armor, in his hands he carried a blood-red double-edged spear, which required a high amount of skill to handle.

The elder hesitated for a moment, then a deep voice resonated in Major General Yu’s mind: “Humans, let us make a deal if you hand over your harvest from the ruins, I will allow you and your subordinates to leave, and I will no longer make things difficult for you!”

“A deal?” Major General Yu laughed contemptuously,

“I thank you filthy beasts for this kind offer, but you also want to make a deal with a soldier of the Empire, you’re daydreaming! What I most dislike is disgusting trash like you!”

“..... Ungrateful guy, you insult the great Gang Binuo family, you have to pay!” the elder was truly angry.

From the aesthetic point of view of humanity, their appearance was not flattering, if someone wanted to make a comparison, they looked close to a combination between a bear and a crocodile, brown-black skin covered in layers of weird folds, and a protruding mouth with giant conical teeth in the starlight was gleaming with a dense coldness!

Especially noteworthy were their tails, a full four to five meters long, which was twice their height, and covered in very thick thorny alloyed scales, there were sharp barbs, it held the core of the bodies energy, but was also their strongest attacking organ!

“Kill them all, and then look for the treasure!” the elder fiercely commanded.

Around hundreds of Gang Binuo spread out, slowly approaching while outflanking them!

The Major frowned, seeing the strength of the enemy, he had troops available, but there were only less than fifty different fighters, and of them the ones at a strong energy level including himself were only three, just one-tenth of the enemy, let alone winning, just surviving would be very difficult to do!

However, the location of Imperial reinforcements are very close, if they can persist for a while, then maybe they won't be too late, right?

Within a moment, he had made up his mind, in his hands the war spear Huatai Sheng, flew out dozens of spear shadows, headed toward the elder! In the presence of such a powerful enemy, if he could get in the first hit, there was hope of a comeback.

.....

On the main route YH-c706, a huge legion hurried along.

An array of giant warships were lined up neatly, with ink black yet flexible thick hulls, smooth movements, there was a gorgeous atmosphere similar to a golden dragon was clearly visible. In the sky filled with shining stars, a majestically deep, sharp, and unparalleled murderous aura spread out!

The two main armies “Bingfeng”, and “Fu”, each with three hundred thousand new warships, their combat power in the imperial army is A class and can be ranked in the top twenty, but the two commanders Li Weizhong and Stephen Wyatt were more into the empires youth crowd that were ready for the next war, such were the reinforcements from the Northwestern Frontier.

“.....this trick again?! You guys dare to be so shameless?”

In the cockpit of the mothership “Days Ge”, a pair of young men and women are playing chess, in which a tender faced, kept together, short-haired woman resentfully lost and readily swept away the board, making a mess.

On the opposite side a simple and honest looking man was the commander of the “Fu” corps, in charge of the famous elite fleet of three hundred thousand, did not mind the girls accusations, shrugged his shoulders and smiled to his aide and said: “Fairness in war, and strategies whether they are old or new is unimportant, what matters are results!”

“And that’s how you fight?” the female aide said,

“You can not call me a fresh recruit! I taught you to and fro on a few routines, you will one day see through them! Do not think that there would be no powerful group of aliens!”

“Unfortunately, I haven’t seen any so far! I really did not find anybody, though I marked a few times of good battles! Of course, they weren’t some army of old guys!” Li Weizhong laughed.

The adjutant glanced at him: “I have seen the day, where you became the corps commander and everything was coming to an end. It was difficult to say whether you would survive, so you went to the military to seek a safer position!”

“Ah! There is such a day!” Li Weizhong said in authentic seriousness,

“When I brought troops to wipe out the group of monkeys, they would groan such a handsome man, and I naturally learned that those old guys actually like to go to the military to enjoy life! How about you? It would be nice for me to be at home with the children! Hey!”

“Leave, how come you won’t die?!” Adjutant Hongxia sounded, kicking past severely, he was well prepared to easily escape.

“Lord Commander, General Meng Yue Quan sent over requirements for video call, and said there would be a new military command taking over!” Attention is suddenly turned to the table, the distribution group duty officer’s voice came over.

They got down to business, they look up at once seriously, the female aide replied: "I understand, we'll be right there."

After a few moments.

"Who is that groups old military guy again, with the crazy hair?"

In the communications room, Li Weizhong frowned, puzzled and asked:

"We have almost arrived, a command was sent down, but also allowed us to mobilize Yang Sing Yuan to take over there, coming back to this, is the energy reactor not burning money?"

"That old stuff, Huahua Changzi has more to him than you understand!"

On the screen, with skin white as snow, a cold faced woman slowly finishing with golden ribbons on her uniform, calmly said:

"And you have to figure it out, this time is a command from the highest governing conference, that had bypassed the military and issued it directly to us!"

"What do you mean?" Li Weizhong looking for a change, on the surface was honest, but in reality was shrewd, sleek, and no stranger to politics, he has vaguely guessing something.

Meng Yue Quan spoke with a cold tone: "I do not know, of course, you'd do better not to know but if you're really tempted by your curiosity, you can ask your house afterwards who that old man is!!"

"Thatthe northwest defense, how does it stay secure?" Li Weizhong asked, frowning.

"It is said the military will send a separate corps take over!" Meng Yue Quan sighed, "Anyway, we have something to do with this!"

.....

The Gang Binuo family, is a huge pan-nomadic alien civilization that two hundred years ago discovered the Empire's fleet in an area between the two civilizations, since then the war continued on, the outcome was uncertain.

But since sixty years ago, the Imperial Army personally led dozens of Shinki Yunfeng to break Gang Binuo's Ting Legion, which almost butchered their ruling class, which made the once very tyrannical alien civilization become badly wounded, then in the dozens of years since, apart from the occasional border skirmishes, they no longer were a challenge to the Imperial Army's strength.

Only this time, it has been quiet for half a century and their civilization seems to have recovered a lot of strength, yet did not seem foreboding, and therefore with this sudden offensive, the scale far beyond anyone's expectations!

Imperial border, Jie London star.

The Fengyun affiliated Siloam Dominion administrative planet, for the northwest border of the Empire was an important supply center for decades, countless explorers from the civil fleet were here together, adding the necessary materials, and then would departure for tours, leaving the border of the empire to far-flung strange wild star fields, opening pathways, finding resources and new life-filled planets.

After years of rapid development, the Fengyun planet's surface has been very prosperous, the settlers population has exceeded more than six hundred million, there is a floating population many times greater, making it one of the most popular, and most prosperous planet of the Empire's Northwestern star fields.

Just today, a misfortune befell the planet!

Shrill air raid sirens sounded, so that the busy citizens invariably turned their attention to the sky from the ground, and then they saw and unforgettable scene!

Ethereal purple clouds shimmering in that moment, did not wait for everyone to see its origin, it shoots out a very thick destructive beam, blazing down from the high sky, its targets were densely packed cities!

The emergency energy shields providing cover, were unable to stop the destruction by this fortress-class full bombardment gun, it took just a few seconds to directly crash down! As a consequence of the beams actions, everything is consumed in hundreds of thousands of high-temperature flames! Endless piercing screams, the whole city had turned it into a hell on earth!

"Qin Weigeng you dog, is this how your mother raised you?!"

In the interplanetary fortress, Fenglin Bo looked desperately in front of a huge screen, cursed through his teeth.

Above the flood of giant flying saucers with almost boundless margins, the whole scene was shocking, it was like the gate to the depths of the hell were open, breaking free of their shackles, the demonic legion spread destruction and despair worldwide!

Faced with an alien fleet exceeding expectations by a size of more than thirty times, the Northwest theater of the Imperial Army regiment, despite desperately resisted relying on defense, but was also unable to reverse the trend, while holding on until four days later, was finally torn apart by the Gang Binuo legion, the endless fleet immediately influxed like locusts.

The entire northwestern frontier, having included the provinces of Siloam, including nearly a hundred overseas dominions, the tens of billions of imperial subjects, as well as the staggering amount of wealth, had thus become the aliens property!

“General, we’ve tried!” His deputy with a bitter face Na Ermeng advised,

“This other large-scale offensive, even if the other two corps arrive in time, the results will also not have any change! We can now only continue to retreat, while trying to move away part of the citizens, among other things, will have to wait for the military to deal with!”

“But there are two legions, at least we can insist on fighting a few days more, so more people can be given the chance to retreat!” Fenglin Bo authentically livid,

“Today the Northwestern Zone has been finished, I’d like to see how that bastard, can account for the lives of a trillion people!”

In Na Ermang’s heart, for this times raid event, the scale is far beyond the imagination of the Imperial Army’s side, but from beginning to end it reveals a strange taste, though he did not understand politics, he could feel as though he was drowning inside deep water.

The matter was referred to this point, this has been out of control, the next step would be how the Empire reacts, who would take responsibility, only God knows!

.....

“Human, you still refuse to surrender it?”

In the void, the elder proudly said:

“As long as you hand over that thing, I will be particularly merciful, you will not be treated as food, but I will let you become my slave in the future as I grow stronger! How about it?”

Major General Yu who had more than a dozen wounds, broken light armor, a body energy shield bleak, could collapse at any time.

He looked around, his men have become casualties and exhausted soldiers, all the warships were destroyed, on his side those who are still alive are less than five!

“General, what do we do now?” A wounded dying under the struggling asked.

The Major shook his head, pulled the bird from the arms of Yu He, and to the elder said: “You want this right? Come and collect it!”

“Yes, that’s it! From the Holy Yue Long ancient civilization!” A strong glint in his extremely greedy eyes cropped up.

“Quick, hand it to me!” The elder roared, could not wait rushed over, paw reaching out.

Major Yu’s eyes flashed slightly, then suddenly the spear Huatai Sheng flashed out: “Damn you tricked me, I nearly got hit with it!”

In the void, a one kilometer in diameter cloud of light was quietly blooming, a tangible presence was forming in the nothingness!

But no one noticed that in the depths of that cloud of light, a small reed flower blooming brightly.

Chapter 3: Recovery (1)

Series Details

Chapter 3: Recovery (1)

Sand Source Star

Fengyun, after nearly a century of human construction, has been an extremely prosperous planet, is the capital of the starfield, and an important commercial hub of the Siloam overseas dominions.

But now the once glamorous commercial pearl has been reduced to a devastated, dilapidated junk planet! The natural, relaxing, beautiful, and magnificent atmosphere of the city has become a ruin, in the deserted old main street, from time to time you can see the destroyed tanks and a variety of air defense facilities.

From a large space station in synchronous orbit, as well as a connecting grounded orbital elevator tower, various types of floating buildings, urban agglomerations, or even in the ecological residential area, there were traces of war left everywhere!

In other words, the planet has been fundamentally ruined! Wanting it to be restored to a state of prosperity, in addition to the amount of capital investments, more importantly, healing the critically injured, and the rebuilding of the imperial army regiment, required a significant amount of time to complete.

Somewhere in a neighborhood that has been reduced to ruins, two Gang Binuo soldiers were walking on the desolate streets, thick tails were dragging behind, a set of alloy infused claws and hind legs that stepped on the floor tiles, issuing a dull “bang bang” sound.

Their backs each carried a human, with the intent to bring them back to their camp as evening snacks.

The two beastly people walked side-by-side, casually talking, voices dull, hoarse, like two rusty blades constantly colliding.

“Shaq, tonight we can have a feast!” one of them said gratefully.

“Ah, yes! After so many years, my family has finally reached the territory of civilization!” The other one carefully put away the high-frequency oscillation particle knife in his hands, as he spoke in affirmation.

The Gang Binuo peoples’ individual strength is generally more powerful, but their level of equipment manufacturing is very unflattering, so each time when harassing a human world, they make sure to plunder the goods and equipment of every human soldier. The standard equipment seized from an Imperial Army regiment would be sent to their elite soldiers.

“To be honest, these humans taste really good too, more than those meats we used to eat before! Just like that last time we ate those human infants, the taste was really.....” Shaq smiled, one slimy red tongue protruding, licked his thick lips, with a faraway look.

They did not notice the purple brilliance in the air above their heads, slightly flashing for a moment, then quietly enter into the back of the apparently fainted juvenile human body.

“Of course, who told us they are intelligent beings? Ah, maybe we should look again, there should also be hidden humans we didn’t find, try to grab a few more within the next few days so we can eat delicious.....” He said, and began to look around.

Shaq hesitated, then followed behind, walking for some time along the sidewalk: “Okay!! You look here, I will go over there and hope we get a good harvest.”

Then, the two people began to split up.

Shaq searched everywhere along the streets tens of meters away, then his flat ears suddenly moved, and seemed to have realized something. His hideous ugly head turning left and right a little, big bloody eyes staring at a dilapidated roadside building.

He waited a few seconds, slowly put down the teenager that was on his back, hiding the body in a pile of debris, then extracted the particle knife, closing carefully on the suspicious area and began a thorough search.

The planet was captured within several days, basically all the humans had entered captivity, as a rare delicacy stockpiled for the superior nobles to enjoy. And their underling soldiers were left behind, they could only search the city ruins repeatedly for a lucky find, in hope to discover a few who slipped through their net, to sneak a fresh taste.

Just after Shaq turned around, the eyelids of the boy on the ground suddenly moved, his eyes opened and looked at the creatures back, then immediately closed them.

About half an hour later, it happily came back, its hands carrying an unconscious middle-aged man, blood trailing from the knife on his waist.

‘Today’s luck is really good, I can go back for a feast!’ It was happily thinking, hand stretching to grab the teenager on the ground.

At this point, the young man suddenly opened his eyes, a glaring red flower shot from his eyes.

Caught off guard, Shaq felt dizzy, its body became very stiff, unable to make even the most basic reaction.

‘Damn, it’s a spirit attack!’ It only had time for that thought to emerge in its mind, before it felt its waist become loose, the particle knife had been grabbed by the boy, followed by a heartrending pain coming from its abdomen.

The pain stimulated its nerves, and its rigid body began to recover its freedom.

Shaq made a howling sound, then fiercely tossed its stout tail, with a ferocious momentum heavily sweeping over! Its enemy had a weak human body, as long as it hit, the fight would be over!

The juvenile withdrew the knife, but because it soon regained consciousness, even though its physical coordination could not keep up, its giant tail is fully lethal had lightly rubbed him, immediately his blood reversed out!

The boy just felt stars, his brain made a “buzzing” sound, a burst of powerlessness hit, at any time he was likely to faint!

But he also understands that if he really wants to faint, he’s completely finished! So he bit his lip hard, trying to force himself awake, hands clutching the knife, forcing himself towards the Gang Binuo soldier.

Looking at the blue skin, and body with a set of simple metal armor, it could be concluded that this guy's status is not high, it should be the lowest level of soldier, at least with a first level Yuanxing strength. But because of the inherent advantages of its constitution, if ordinary soldiers do not rely on powerful Imperial equipment, then one can not be its opponent.

What to do? Right now he is just an ordinary person, also seriously wounded, with only a knife in his hands, wanting to kill the other is impossible. The other side is also injured, but Gang Binuo have a huge body type, and a tough tenacious vitality, so trying to make him fall through effort alone is impossible! The pale juvenile wiped away the blood on his mouth, his mind rapidly thinking up countermeasures.

“Abominable human, you actually did not die!” Shaq looked at his huge belly wound, and could not help feeling angry, fiercely growled:

“When I kill you, I will definitely make sure to tear you apart slowly, and then soak you in your blood as wine to drink!”

The juvenile coldly smiled, although he knew the Gang Binuo understood human language, but he was too lazy to talk to the other, just used his eyes, watching carefully, looking for opportunities to attack.

Shaq seeing he did not speak, tossed his tail, and once again rushed forward.

If you can, let's see you attack me! When the teenager managed to dodge the attack, his heart felt some regret.

As many people involved in the war fought against Gang Binuo, he was naturally familiar with the habits of their race, concerning the lower soldiers, about the location of the brain and neck, and where the vital organs are located, this was also a source of strength, as long as he imposes a heavy blow to those two places, it would be bound to immediately lose their combat capability!

Shaq had attacked a mere few rounds, then the teenager felt the situation was becoming unsustainable.

In desperation, his eyes lashed out a reed flower. The other painfully roared, covered his head, the body became stiff slowing down again!

Right now!

The juvenile quickly went behind it, aiming at its neck portion, then suddenly leaped, severely slashing the knife down, taking advantage of the situation, the high-speed blade cut through like tofu, easily breaking open the inferior alloy armor on its neck, leaving a half-meter long terrible wound, spurting out purple blood!

The shattering sound lasted only a few seconds before it halted! The tall body finally fell, its eyes heavy with resentment and anger!

Looking at the man lying beside him, the teenager hesitated, then checked him, he found the other had his mind shattered, and could only regretfully give up.

After casting two spiritual attacks, together with his original injury, the juvenile's body was at the point of being burnout, but had to leave immediately, following his mind's memories, quickly stumbled to his original sanctuary.

.....

Deep in the basement, Xiao Jun Ling slowly opened his eyes.

After regaining consciousness, he did not hurry to stand up, but first extending his spiritual sense, began to scan all around.

For a short time, he carefully checked the underground space again, finding no abnormalities. He then ventured with his spiritual sense, revealing strata, and slowly expanded to the open surface.

Ten minutes later, stopping the observations with satisfaction, his taut nerves relaxed a little.

It seemed those damn Gang Binuo have temporarily left this neighborhood, so he is now somewhat safe.

He closed his eyes and rested for a few minutes, because of the psychological stress, the consumption of spiritual power was exceptionally a lot more than normal, more than 30 points each time, equivalent to one third of his body's total spiritual power!

“This boy's body, is really fragile isn't it.....” He thought in his heart, with a slightly wry smile.

In the depths in his consciousness, a cube covered in patterns of quirky runes was slowly spinning, sheathed in a touch of brilliant purple colored aura, moving unsteadily along a particular track, as if it was life in general.

When using spirit sense to focus on the runes, you can see on the surface of the mysterious rune patterns were numerous small irregularities that were extremely complex and delicate, it seemed to have an exquisite, gorgeous atmosphere.

As the runes rotated, the surrounding space was a wonderful place free of interaction, but occasionally there would be the slightest nuance emerge from the 'Crystal Mountain' rune, quietly entering his body. Immediately, he felt a sense of warmth, as if he soaked in warm water, it was extremely comfortable. The recovery rate of spirit power was also several times faster than normal, and would soon again reach full status.

Gently touching the switch on the left hand side, the translucent hatch silently slid open. The place is a nearly abandoned hospital accommodation, and it was his refuge now, from which would guarantee his survival!

After more than ten hours sleep, his body's injury was basically restored, his feet once again set foot on the cold floor. Sensor lights on the wall would automatically light up, a soft orange glow bathed every inch of the interior.

The interior furnishing were simple, a steel bed, two chairs plus a little square table, on it were some fragmented objects, there was also a small cabinet made from an extremely common material. It could be determined that this was not a wealthy family, or even poorer.

As Xiao Jun Ling took some clothes to wear around, his eyes inadvertently glimpsed at the table mirror, which shone a pale, slightly decadent face, could not be called handsome, at best, only somewhat handsome looks, but looked like a thirteen-year-old.

He shook his head, in concentration, thought for a moment, sitting down on the bed.

He had been hiding here for more than thirty days, in addition to sneaking out twice, to an abandoned supermarket in a nearby neighborhood, bringing back food and drinks, other times basically hiding here to recuperate.

However, this was not the right way to go, eventually all the food would have been consumed one day. The planet has been fully occupied, if the Imperial Legion delays to fight back, he did not know how long he would still be able to survive here.

Because of the war, he decided to die with determination, thus detonated the residual energy in his body, in the siege he dragged his enemies to hell together with him, but as it was about to end at that crucial moment, a single rune on the artifact of the ancient ruins finally reacted!

The energy of the explosion was easily absorbed by the mysterious rune pattern, together with his body that had lost consciousness stored inside, when he finally opened his eyes again, he found himself sitting at the administrative planet Fengyun on the northwestern border of the empire, and became a thirteen-year-old juvenile.

He was seriously injured and dying, the Gang Binuo person was carrying his body back to camp, it seemed to have intended to have him as a delicious meal that evening.

Although this body was extremely weak, without any genetic enhancements, but with his solid experience and thorough memory, he aimed for an opportunity, launched a violent attack, and finally killed the disgusting creature!

Of course, he was able to escape from from death, mainly due to the magical rune pattern, he was exhausted often at the time, but there was always a warm energy that passed through him, continuing to support him! Otherwise, he really cannot imagine that he would have the strength to defeat an elementary Yuanxing level Gang Binuo warrior, and be the one to live in the end.

Dying he found the old station close to the medical retirement space in the basement, he barely got through this weak period, but with the power of the mysterious rune, he fully recovered in a short time.

Then he practiced crazily, though the foundation on the body was really bad, but in order to survive, he can't let go of any chance to become strong! Last time he was lucky, there was only a single Gang Binuo, but if there were two or more than he could give in to the fate of being food!

But there was a surprise, the rune pattern occasionally released bursts of strange energy, integrating with his body. After observing, he found when he regained consciousness his physique had improved significantly, of course the biggest change was in his spiritual force.

Next Chapter

Chapter 4: Recovery (2)

Series Details

Chapter 4: Recovery (2)

Before he fell, his strength though tyrannical, did not include spiritual powers. And now, his growth rate is unusually fast, it was not known if this body itself had this gift, or if this was the role of the mysterious runic pattern.

Just a few days ago, because the food was running out, he ventured out once, the result was he could not get food. He was extremely unlucky enough to run into two patrolling Gang Binuo soldiers, and after an arduous struggle was injured again, killed the two of them, then crawled back into the shelter, struggling to recuperate!

What was even more unexpected is that after this desperate struggle, the in vivo gene went through a slight adjustment, had accumulated its own optimization point in a gene. This means that whenever there is a suitable agent, or the ability to induce a specific genomic form with new first order capabilities.

A gene point refers to a specific location on a chromosome. There are many genes, but the number of chromosomes, which can contain a number of genetic codes on each chromosome is limited. The number of gene points, the ability to determine the number and rank of the gene itself and carrying more points would mean a more powerful genetic enhancement of strength!

The imperial elite, because their genome is stable enough to withstand loading a large number of gene optimization points, can access a variety of high-end abilities, which have created groups of powerful special forces!

Since the first branch power agents were induced in the lab, human evolution was given a new direction, with ongoing financial and material resources, a variety of new agents and high-end abilities were discovered one after another, in the different groups there are also those who can afford the increasing price!

After the Empire had a millennium of continued expansion, the huge number of abilities to strengthen the Empire's Legion played an irreplaceable role in human civilization, their strength qualified them to stand on equal footing with other powerful alien civilizations!

Especially later, when the Empire established a temple on the reputed Death Star world devoted to research, and thus with the formation of the Empire, the force with the most powerful abilities: Polar Star Knights. The Empire opened up a larger amount of living space, the most important strategic force guarding human civilization!

Xiao Jun Ling gently breathed, to be able to get gene points proves he still has hope, though in the current situation, he could not get the ability inducing drug, but as long as he lives, until the Imperial Army regiment fights back, after all these disgusting bastards are thrust back, he naturally knew there are ways to make himself grow stronger, re-entering the ranks of the high-end elites!

There are many ways to get gene points, including fierce fighting, hovering at the edge of life and death in battle, is the most efficient, side effects are minimal this way, of course, the risk to bear is the greatest!

It can be followed by an injection of a gene evolution drug, although this is simple, many ordinary people are also able to apply, in the addition to investing huge amounts of money, otherwise the risk to bear is about the same, but if the gene injected is not stable enough it would lead to a variety of unpredictable consequences, the most common is genetic collapse, ranging from being ridden with various diseases to becoming useless against the slightest kick!

He thought maybe he should move around, to gain more battle experience, in order to quickly increase his strength.

Although risky, but he would not have to die, as he is about to run out of food, in order to survive he had no choice!

He slowly sorted out the clothes, picked up the high-frequency knife on the table, then went to the door, moving away the sandbags blocking the door.

Again, he probed the outside environment to confirm that there was no abnormal movement, and he finally opened the door. Outside, there were various piles of debris, masking the basement entrance.

With the residential ground floor long since destroyed, the ruins became the best form of cover.

At the end of the stairs was a somewhat deformed alloy door, a huge force had torn the door frame off, just barely kept anchored at the top. Moving away the door, outside is a lot of waste clothing, furniture, machine parts, and other debris.

Just past the debris, the streets appear to have been abandoned, but Xiao Jun Ling did not know the situation outside.

He intended to use his spiritual power to probe, when suddenly his body trembled a moment, the mysterious rune in his body flashed light a few times, immediately popping out a brief message:

“First-order capability: environmental sensors, can generate its own origin, real-time monitoring of all enemy targets within a radius of fifty meters, the number of gene consumption points: 1.”

He could not help but be surprised, in accordance with the empire’s established ability grading system, environmental sensors is a first-order skill, it can do real-time monitoring of the external environment for a radius of twenty meters, but this skill effect this has obviously been strengthened by a lot! Almost catching up with the second-order perception skill “Perspicacious”!

And more importantly, he was not injected with the ability to induce any agent, but was able to generate his own such an enhanced version of the first-order skills, it is contrary to what he expected!

Obviously, if in the ensuing battle there is a new generation of a gene point, then getting more power comes more apparent, in the future he does not need to think about how to go and get abilities at a lab!

The next thing is a lot easier, in his mind, an image forming slowly of his surroundings, though not very clear, but for the situation its good enough at this stage.

In this field of perception, even only slightly large animals can not escape it.

He felt relieved, slowly passing through the debris appeared on the street.

Looking up at the sky, at the moment it was already close to dusk, the orange sun hung low on the horizon, the light and heat, sprinkling the remaining few on the war-ravaged planet of Fengyun!

More than seven hundred meters in front of his location, there is a modest supermarket, which did not have a very adequate amount of goods, but finding some emergency food and water should not be a problem. However, his newborn perceptual skills, an enemy can be found ahead of time, Xiao Jun Ling had a new idea.

Perhaps he could go farther to scout, walking along the streets not too far away, eventually arrived in the neighborhood's largest supermarket and distribution center, which not only had a much richer variety of food but there are a variety of highly concentrated nutrients, clean water, emergency medicine and other basic necessities, he is now at a shopping center.

If he is lucky enough, he also hopes to get some energy blocks, and the most important was an ecological food synthesizer, even at the new hospital accommodation it was not possible to find.

On the spacious quiet street, everywhere is a mess of debris, almost disintegrated coasters, twisted metal railings, semi-molten metal lampposts, there are large areas already solidified, and dark red trails of blood! On some high-rise buildings there is light artillery on the scene!

Occasionally one or two small animals quickly ran around, they were mostly homeless pets. Of a whole city of people, those left have been kidnapped by the sick Gang Binuo as food! Few people had the opportunity to escape from their repeated raids.

Xiao Jun Ling slowly walked, high frequency oscillation knife in his hands, environmental awareness continuously open, the slow decline of spiritual power, consumption of about 1/30th every minute, the total amount of support can now count for about half an hour. But the mysterious runic rock issued a faint heat from time to time, so that his mental strength would slowly recover. Integrated consumption and recovery faster than he can maintain, this capacity could be extended close to one hour with no problems.

After a short time, at the supermarket.

The door has already been sent flying by bombers, walls facing the street have fallen by more than half, inside were rickety shelves, all kinds of goods scattered everywhere, several energy depletion machine attendant paralysis on the ground motionless.

The once clean and bright scrubbed floor was beyond recognition covered with knawed human bones, dark brown blood is still emitting a pungent smell, no need to ask, certainly some people survived the first wave of raids, came here for food when they were tracked by the Gang Binuo, and locked in falling into their clutches.

“These damn beasts!” Xiao Jun Ling secretly cursed, began to rummage his own hands through various goods.

Although many packaging has been damaged, which led to the spoilage and deterioration of food, but after some searching, he found a lot of good stuff, including a half-tank of concentrated nutrients, two boxes portable energy blocks, one emergency kit, a few bottles of wine, and a large package of biscuits, cake food, and so on.

Finally, he found a big box, all of the goods loaded into it, to go on his back and shoulders, on the way took some clothes along leaving the deserted store.

It made him feel incredible, that on returning to the road it was actually surprisingly quiet, environment sensing capacity had been opened, but it did not find anything suspicious! This neighborhood seems to have been completely forgotten by the Gang Binuo.

Of course, there can be no reason to tell him that such a good thing has happened, unless the Imperial Army regiment has fought back!

Back home, after categorizing his loot, he spent a few minutes thinking, then finally decided to go out to try his luck. After all, this harvest is only enough to maintain for a week.

On the street, a lonely figure emerged and after a moment started walking.

Under the night sky, the old downtown city become increasingly very quiet, the silence was terrible!

Jun Xiao Ling suddenly turned rigid, his thin body suddenly leaped and threw himself on the roadside inside a half collapsed room, hiding his own body.

Over his head, three small Gang Binuo UFO skirted along dark gray clouds, passing at high-speed.

Waiting until those guys were far enough away, he dared to come out slowly and continued toward the established goal.

Twenty minutes later, he finally arrived at a tall large supermarket, and it seems that this place had not been too severely damaged, and exterior doors were at least substantially intact, without much debris and blood.

A wide variety and range of goods stood neatly yards away, he was in no hurry to choose, but instead in the innermost layer found a hidden position, sit down and rested for a while, to be restored to the best physical condition, then began operations.

There must be something unusually dangerous about this place, his gut instinct told him that this time things will not be so smooth!

This time he did not take on those foods taste good, but specifically chose highly concentrated nutrients, which contained a special high-energy food, a huge demand for energy is essential for his abilities!

He is now regarded as a beginner of an elementary stage, having just stepped into the threshold of practice, the body needs energy far beyond the ordinary amount, so this is an inevitable choice.

In the area of thousands of square meters of the commodity area after turning a few times back and forth, then went next door to the logistics and distribution warehouse finding two boxes of compressed energy blocks, as well as a set of tools, a smart optical brain, and a few miscellaneous odds and ends.

In the depths of the warehouse, he got his wish to find several unopened intelligent robots, ecological food synthesizers, as well as new sealed medical cabin, but with the larger size of these things, him wanting to bring back everything at once is clearly unrealistic.

As Xiao Jun Ling was making plans, suddenly his heart started pounding to a burst of danger, so he with a quick decision, hid sideways behind a pile of tall containers.

After a few breaths, a burst of heavy footsteps came from far away neared, then leisurely leaned over.

Next Chapter