Chapter 1 - Mind Control

In a room of Sanjiang Municipal Public Hospital, a guy named Wu Hao was lying on a bed. At this very moment, both his eyes opened. He mindlessly stared at the dust particles floating on the glass cup in front of him. To his amazement, the supposedly pain on his body had mostly disappear.

“What’s going on here?! Don’t tell me that after hitting my head hard from the fall, my brain starts to mutate? I was just thirsty and wanted to drink some water. All of sudden the glass cup which originally placed nicely on the table started floating and arrived in front of me.”

Actually Wu Hao who just woke up from coma was feeling thirsty. Because of his body and head injury, nearly whole body of his was wrapped in gauze and plaster. That was the reason why he couldn’t move. Even the ward nurses were not in the room

He did not expect that just with his thought that he wanted to eliminate his thirst, the glass cup on the table next to him would float towards him.

Luckily, there were no other patients in the room and the nurses had left too. If not, anyone who see such incident will surely get scared to death.

The injury on Wu Hao could be considered work related. However, the main reason was still because of his own carelessness.

Actually the real situation was like this. Last night Wu Hao received a message from his girlfriend who currently works at a nearby city. They had dated for 3 years since university and eventually she wanted to break up now.

The reason was very simple. After both graduated, they found their work in different cities. Even though they were separated from each other not even more than 3 months. their relationship was getting worse. Until last night, his girlfriend finally asked him to break up officially.

This morning, Wu Hao whom his broken heart still haven't recovered, went to work absent mindedly. That was why when he went together with his colleague to the construction site for inspection, he accidentally slipped from the steel frame. From 2 floor height high steel frame, he fell. His body and head hit back and forth like a pinball between the steel frame before landed. As soon as the landing occurred, he instantly fainted.

After the shocking accident, his colleague rushed him to the nearest public hospital. A detailed and complete examination of whole body had been done. It seemed that Wu Hao only suffered from minor concussion. Besides those injuries on his limbs, there was nothing else worth mentioning. After ensuring that he was not in any danger, his colleague left him there.

The company and hospital notified Wu Hao's family regarding this. It was just that Wu Hao came to Sanjiang city not too long ago. Thus, he had no friends and family in the city. All family members of his stayed at the rural area of Sichuan. His parents were just ordinary farmers. Even if his parents receive the news now and start to rush over to Sanjiang city, it will take at least two days to arrive.

Lying on the bed, Wu Hao started experimenting. His original shock turned into amazement instead.

Escaping a great calamity and you will find yourself a fortune. Because he was now a 'mutant', this seemed to confirm the rumor. After the accident, he surprisingly could use his thought to control object. The legendary telekinesis.

Not only that, when he closed his eyes, he was able to see anything ahead within radius of five meters. Coincidentally, five meters was the range of his mind control too.

“O shit! Is it because I used my mind control too long?” After a few minutes of continuous usage of mind control, the originally amazed Wu Hao now felt weak suddenly. He felt a pain inside his head that wanted to burst.

This pain was not from his head injury but rather from a certain region deep in his brain. This sudden pain immediately made Wu Hao to stop having any idea to continue using this ability.

In addition to his earlier experiment of manipulating the cup and also those small objects which were readily available on the table, he vaguely felt that controlling those large objects won't work though. Thus, he did not have any desire to test that out.

His sixth sense told him that he currently could only control up to about 100 catties weight item. If the range is too large, for example 1000 catties, logically this won't work.

Moreover, Wu Hao was still getting used to mind control. This ability seemed weak and very limiting. Even controlling small objects for just a few minutes already made him so weak and painful in his head.

Soon Wu Hao just lay down on his bed with eyes close. After closing both eyes, he took deep breath for few minutes to rest himself. Sense of tingling pain in his brain gradually weaken.

“Seems that my mental strength is really weak, just such a short duration and I could already feel the strain on my head.” With these changes, Wu Hao somehow started to understand more of his ability.

While he was concentrating on his breathing, that moment he sensed his mind was now in a unique place. This region has an endless night sky with stars sparkling beautifully. It then started to form thread of some particle which then condensed into a violet airflow.

Wu Hao was actually using a breathing technique at that moment. When he was still in college, he stumbled upon it from Internet. This breathing technique is a way of practicing Qigong.

It was absolutely simple to practice. Whether sitting or lying down, he could still practice it effortlessly. This type of deep breathing technique can actually enhance internal organs and strength.

Too bad Wu Hao did not have much perseverance. When he came into contact with this method, everyday he would practice it during morning and evening for two consecutive months. Then the next few years in university, he would just practice it randomly without any schedule. Whenever he thought of it, then only he would practice it for a few minutes.

Even though this breathing technique did not grant him any extreme qigong skill, at least his body and health did indeed improve compared to last time. As long as you use this technique, even when encountering small cold or body feel uncomfortable, tomorrow you will surely recover.

In Wu Hao's opinion, even if he disliked those people who try to learn all those nonsense magic or achieving whatever "soul" realm in internet, learning some skill to improve his body health was already sufficient for him.

After all the breathing technique which he gotten from internet, with all those benefits verified by a Taoist monk, he did not believe them entirely. Even so, it was not like he could practice continuously everyday.

However, this technique had been proven that it could quickly restore his weaken mind. By practicing it everyday, such problem should have been solved then.

When you have the power, the telekinesis power which is so imbalance, if you do not diligently train on how to use it, then such ability on that person is really unjustified.

“I did not expect with such method, the thread forming the airflow in the brain at such great speed. Just about 10 minutes, I already near full recovery.”

“Don’t tell me this accident on my head had any relation with the breathing technique? Why previously I couldn’t feel a damn thing?” The violet thread in his brain at this moment had started to form quite a bunch. They almost reached the point of saturation. Wu Hao started pondering about the origin of the violet airflow.

Unfortunately, even cracking his brain million times won’t get him to find any answer. It was better he just put it aside instead of stressing on such matter. He allowed himself to continue the recovery before using his ability again on the small objects in the room.

However, this time Wu Hao did not use it like before carelessly by flying the objects around here and there. After all this was still a hospital ward. Even though the bed beside him was empty, who knows when the doctor or nurses will come and open the door suddenly!

Thus, Wu Hao hid himself at the corner of the bed to prevent himself from being seen by anyone who enter into the room.

This time he not only tested the manipulation of object to float but also the maximum weight of item he could control. Finally now he could control up to three different objects simultaneously. Weight was about five kg while the control range was about five meters.

After continuous usage for two minutes, the violet airflow in his brain nearly depleted. His head started to swell slightly. Obviously now was the limit point.

If Wu Hao was to continue using his ability, he was certain that previous weakening will happen again. By experienced it himself, of course he won't repeat the same mistake again.

Anyway, as long as he practiced the breathing technique, he would recover back in roughly ten minutes. Then, he would continue practicing his ability. Wu Hao closed his eyes like before and breathed deeply using the technique.

At this very moment, the door was pushed open. With a medical trolley, a twenty plus year old young nurse with face covered by mask came in.

“You regained your consciousness? Anything uncomfortable?” It was a young nurse doing her routine inspection. Wu Hao with his eyes opened widely started to evaluate her.

Looking at the nurse, although with a mask and Wu Hao couldn't observe full feature of her face, he could still estimate that her beauty level was not really that high. Her looks can only be considered ordinary. After all, in reality, those high standard nurses are still rare.

Although this hospital did indeed have those kind of nurses, maybe they were responsible in those VIP room. Since he was currently staying in general ward, of course he won't have such privilege.

Also he did not think that he could attract any attention from the nurses here. After all, he was not a guy who earn a living with his face. His height was only about 1.75m nor having any good body figure with eight abs. Even worst, he was a nobody without any rank.

The only thing he had? Something very common, a degree in construction management. A few months before he graduated, he found a construction company with extreme difficulties to do his internship. Now, a few more days left before the internship ends. Whether he could stay in the company or not, it was still unknown.

“Nope, everything is fine. I am feeling quite good.” Wu Hao smiled. Of course he was in a good mood. In the past 20 years he had never been in such a cloud nine before.

Chapter 2 - Discharged And Planning

After the ward inspection nurse had some brief enquiry with Wu Hao and left the room, a moment later, a middle aged doctor wearing white coat with spectacles came into the room together with two nurses.

“Your situation now is not in any sort of danger anymore. However, to completely recover, you need to be hospitalized for quite some time.” The middle aged doctor began to speak after finished his inspection on Wu Hao.

“All right, seems that I am in your care, Dr.Wang.” Wu Hao who was in a good mood looked closely at the doctor’s nametag and smiled while replying.

Although this injury seemed serious from the outside and even caused him not being able to move his body at all currently, it was a blessing in disguise. Thanks to this accident, he obtained the magical telekinesis. He could totally forget about the accident.

Moreover, there was no any serious illness on his body now. Not being able to move was also because of the bandage and plaster on his limbs. In fact, Wu Hao thought that if he removes the bandage and plaster now, he will be able to walk freely like he used to.

Wang Wendong smiled back at him since Wu Hao was so polite to him. “Well young man, rest well. If you have any problem regarding your body, just let Nurse Zhang know about it. She will inform to me immediately then.”

Wu Hao heard that and then nodded as a sign that he understood. Wang Wendong and the two nurses then left the room. Only the nurse who was previously in charge of Wu Hao's room remained. She helped him to change the infusion bag and gauze.

Soon, when the nurse left the room too, Wu Hao continued his experiment regarding his telekinesis. He used his mind control for few minutes and waited till his mind power near depletion. Closing his eyes, he began practicing the breathing technique to recover himself.

After several cycles of training and recovering, his maximum duration to use his telekinesis had increased tremendously compared to first time.

“Apparently my telekinesis could improve somehow. As long as I keep repeating this cycle of training and recovering, my mind control duration will surely increase bit by bit.” With this proven hypothesis, Wu Hao's heart was getting more pump up.

After all, although he had this power now, the manipulative force was not strong at all. Only five kg of weight within radius of five meters.

If his ability remained static as it is now, then it won't help him much in his daily life.

However, now he had found out that he could improve his ability by repeating his training and recovering cycle. Then, the current situation will be completely different.

“I wonder what is the limit of my telekinesis. If I could be as powerful as the protagonist in the movies, my life will be so wonderful.” Wu Hao stared at the ceiling with his eye lit up, murmuring while lying on the bed.

At the same time, his mind began to fantasize that one day, his telekinesis was as strong as the protagonist in the movie. Controlling his own body to fly or even car and tank.

Thinking of the scene, Wu Hao’s facial expression shown a bright smile.

However, Wu Hao quickly recovered back himself to reality. He began to quietly repeat the cycle of training and recovering again.

The next day, after continuously repeating the cycle for whole night, his original ability to control five kg weight item had increased till about ten kg.

It just took him a night to double his mind control ability. Of course Wu Hao felt very excited right now as his ability grew so fast.

Surprisingly, Wu Hao found out that after spending one whole night time of repeating the cycle, he did not feel sleepy even at the slightest. Instead, he could feel that he was even more spirited than ever.

Thus, Wu Hao diligently practiced with excitement. Since he could use his supposedly sleeping time to train and restore back his mind with the breathing technique, if his telekinesis was able to maintain this growth rate, it shouldn't be long before he is able to control his body with his mind and fly right?

“This is great! I did not expect my mind control to grow that fast. Since I am now trapped in hospital, why don't I use this time to keep practicing?” Wu Hao thought.

Flying is always a man's dream since ancient time. Wu Hao was not the exception too.

In today's modern society, human mankind had created technology like airplane to soar in the sky.

However, this method did not provide the true feeling of flying with his own body.

And now, as long as Wu Hao continuously strengthen his mind control, then he will one day be able to achieve the true feeling of flying in the sky.

Just like that, Wu Hao stayed in the hospital for a week and thus, the injury in his body were close to full recovery.

With such recovery speed, Wang Wendong who was in charge of him was greatly surprised. This was the so called 100 days to recover injuries. Although Wu Hao's limbs were just suffering from minor fracture due to the fall, according to the usual circumstances, usually it will take at least one or two months to fully recover.

However, Wu Hao only took one week duration to fully recover.

Of course Wu Hao knew that to be able to recover at such fast rate, his heart naturally was aware that this only happened due to his continuous repeat of the cycle during this period of time.

But of course Wu Hao would not tell the truth to others. He just mentioned that he was always in a good health and he recovers much faster than average human.

As for them to believe or not, he did not bother much about it.

Even about this telekinesis ability that he had acquired, he did not dare to tell about it to his dad who came to visit him all the way from home.

After all this ability was too amazing. Until he had enough power to protect himself, he will temporarily not tell anything about this even to his close relatives. An additional man to know will only bring more trouble to himself and his family members.

“Dad, I had completely recovered. You don't have to worry about me anymore. This 5000 Yuan compensation from my company you just keep it to improve your living back home. Sister had already now in secondary school. I am sure she need a lot of expenses now for her school.” Leaving the hospital, Wu Hao said to his dad, Wu Hongguo. At the same time, 5000 Yuan given by his manager were inserted into his dad’s hand.

“This money you just keep it yourself, you just recently started working. It is not easy to live outside alone by yourself. Our current condition even though having some difficulties, I am sure we can manage somehow. Temporarily you don’t have to worry about us. Both me and your mum are still healthy and able to work. Supporting your sister all the way to college shouldn’t be a problem.” Wu Hongguo with a wrinkled face slightly smiled.

Wu Hongguo on the afternoon of second day when Wu Hao woke up from his coma, arrived at Sanjiang city. These few days he had always stayed beside Wu Hao to take care of him. At first, during his arrival day, Wu Hao had told him he was fine and there was nothing serious. He even asked his dad to just go back home and not to worry about him.

However, his dad still could not stop worrying about him and decided to stay beside him to take care.

“Dad, you just keep this money! My company just deposited this month salary, it is more than enough for my expenses. Regarding sister’s education in college, just leave it to me.” Wu Hao’s heart was touched. At the same time he secretly made a vow that in future, he will make lots of money to improve his family financial. He wanted to make sure his parents no longer need to work hard at such old age and happily retire and enjoy their golden age life.

As for his sister, Wu Xiaoxiao, he will not let her to continue suffering.

It was hard to imagine with his ordinary looking face, Wu Hao's sister was totally different from him. She was a total beauty. Since young till now, he always felt depressed for such God's injustice.

This was because whenever both brother and sister went out, no one would recognize them for being blood related. Their face when compared were like heaven and hell!

If it was in the past, he would surely have no self confidence to improve his family financial status but now, it was no longer the same.

Because currently, during his stay in hospital, he had increased his mind control ability to 300kg weight object and spiritual perception radius to 30 meters.

The spiritual perception of 30 meters in range and weight limit of 300kg had let Wu Hao to have such a confidence that he had never experience before in his life before.

He believed that by having telekinesis and strong spiritual perception, he will have lots of method at the tip of his fingers to earn money.

Moreover, Wu Hao already had a faint idea about that. He just can't wait to leave the hospital fast and start implementing his idea

Chapter 3 - Method Of Earning Money

After personally seeing his dad off to the station, Wu Hao went back to the company's construction site.

Of course, when his dad was about to leave, Wu Hao forcefully stuffed the 5000 Yuan compensation from his company into his dad's bag.

Either way he did not have any intention to continue in the company any longer. This was because even though he had passed his internship period, the monthly salary was only 3000 Yuan. If it was before he received his powers could still resignedly accept it.

But now he had such an abnormal telekinesis ability, why should he still work for them? He would be better off doing something else than staying in the company, and receiving the fixed salary!

Of course, he won't do anything illegal.

What are his options with the power of telekinetically controlling 300kg in a 30 meters radius? There are many answers. The most direct would be going to mountain and doing some hunting or finding rare medicinal ingredients which can be sold at high price.

Being able to control 300 kg's of weight, Wu Hao believed that even if he entered a deserted mountain, it wouldn't be dangerous for him.

After all, he was able to control his own body so that he can fly.

Although his telekinesis could only last for about an hour, as long as he used the telekinesis on his body efficiently, he would be able to travel back and forth in the mountain with ease.

Furthermore, he had the spiritual perception range of 30 meters. If there was any danger, he would be able to discover it before it could cause harm.

However, till now he had not been able to experience the fun of flying. Because of his stay in hospital, even he wanted to test also he couldn't carry it out.

He just used his telekinesis to float his own body and hovered for a while. This was only carried out when his dad and the nurses were not around.

Since he had telekinesis and spiritual perception, he could just leisurely go to the mountain to hunt animals and gather valuable herbs.

However, with these abilities, there was one more much simpler and quicker method. That was to gamble.

Because he had the magical spiritual perception to cheat, as long as he activated his ability, all objects within 30 meters will be under his command.

Even if it was separated by wall or blocked by other objects, he would still be able to perceive the situation clearly.

Of course, his spiritual perception was not a see through ability. It can only see through hollow objects. For example, what's inside a lid or the situation in a room.

A see through ability was different. See through ability can instantly see what is inside an object. Even a solid rock, its internal structure will be able to be seen.

Wu Hao's spiritual perception was not able to do so. His kind of ability was like installing surveillance camera which covered 30 meters and was able to survey from any point of view.

In the hospital, using his spiritual perception, he had seen a lot of scenes which he shouldn't have. For example, when the nurses were changing their clothes, he was able to observe everything thanks to his ability.

But he wasn't trying to peep, it's just that once he used this ability, the entire situation within his range is seen.

As a result, he had a vague guilt at first regarding the accidental peeping. Afterwards having kept accidentally peeping on the nurses, he no longer had any feelings about it anymore. He felt that it was similar to God's omniscient point of view, this kind of situation would be common.

Moreover, living in the hospital, there were not as many beauties as one would expect based on certain ‘adult sources’. If he kept on using his spiritual perception randomly, it will actually bring danger of polluting his eyes instead. Thus, under normal circumstances, he would not use his ability.

“Wu Hao, this time you were too careless to cause such injury. Next time be extra careful. This time you were considered lucky. Since, you have finished your internship period here. Work hard at the company and don’t burden your mind too much.” The manager of the department Zhou Tao, who is charge of Wu Hao, told him so.

“Thanks for your concern, Manager Zhou. However, the reason I looked for Manager Zhou today is to hand in my letter of resignation.” Wu Hao was somewhat grateful to Zhou Tao. During his internship period, Zhou Tao did not cause any difficulties for his interns but instead taught them a lot regarding their roles.

Such a working environment was hard to find nowadays. Most of the bosses and managers would always blame the juniors, scold and berate them. As if they were going to take time and teach anything to the juniors.

“You want to resign? I thought you were doing great here during the internship. Why did you suddenly think of resigning? Is it because the compensation for your injury was too little?” Hearing Wu Hao’s request to resign, Zhou Tao asked for the reason.

From Zhou Tao’s opinion, the compensation for Wu Hao’s injury for just 5000 Yuan was indeed too little.

However, Wu Hao was still an intern at the time of injury. Being paid fully for his medical bill by the company and also receiving 5000 Yuan compensation is considered quite a good policy.

“No manager. That’s not the reason why I want to resign. I think this job just doesn’t suit me, I want to go back to my hometown and try my luck there.” Wu Hao just randomly threw out a reason.

“Ah! If it’s like that, I won’t persuade you any longer. Wish you all the best then!” Zhou Tao, after hearing his reason, was shocked for a moment and then replied with a smile.

He could guess that Wu Hao was just making up a random reason. Since Wu Hao already had his own plan, Zhou Tao naturally wouldn’t force him to stay. Besides, he had already said what he could, and the final decision was up to Wu Hao..

Zhou Tao made a phone call and said a few words. He then told Wu Hao, “I have informed the financial department. When you are on your way out, just claim your remaining wages there!”

“Thanks Manager Zhou!” Wu Hao politely thanked him and then left Zhou Tao’s office. He went to the financial department to get his last month’s salary and said goodbye to a few of his colleagues. Then, he just went back to his hostel and packed his luggage before leaving.

“Now, in total I have 3000 Yuan. With this money I am afraid that I can’t afford a ticket to Macao. It seems that I have to accumulate some money first!” Wu Hao, who was carrying his luggage while walking alone on the street, started to ponder.

With the remaining wages that he had collected from the financial department and his remaining cash, the total money in his possession was just 3000 Yuan. Although Sanjiang and Guaongzhou are neighbouring provinces, Wu Hao wanted to go gambling at Macao. This seemed very unlikely to happen with such a budget.

This was because, besides accommodation and travel costs, he still needed to apply for a Hong Kong and Macao pass. To apply for the pass, you need quite a duration for the whole process. By the time he reaches Macao, he won't have any capital to gamble right?

Chapter 4 - To Accumulate Capital

As for Wu Hao, the most important thing for him to do right now was to earn a quick buck. Then, he would improve his family's economic status.

After all, his parents were already at the retirement age. In addition to their all-year farm works, they seemed to age more compared to their peers.

Since the current him had such ability, of course he would use it to the utmost to make sure his family members lead a better life.

Besides gambling, he could have go to the mountain and hunt for some animals or valuable herbs.

But this method was somehow slow and very troublesome compared to gambling.

For Wu Hao who had such privilege, hunting in the mountain was as easy as ABC for him. Whenever a prey entered within his spiritual perception radius of 30 meter, he would just need to use his telekinesis to control weapon to kill it or just directly caught it with his telekinesis.

However, at most Wu Hao could hunt would be small-size prey like hare and small boar. Furthermore, his harvest must not be in large quantity. If his harvest was too extreme, he was very sure that it would attract unwanted attention from others and eventually brought him more trouble instead.

As for searching herbs, even for the current Wu Hao, it was a no easy feat.

Although he could now easily move around in the mountain, unfortunately he had no prior knowledge about precious herbs at all. He was afraid that even if a valuable herb appeared in his perception radius, he would still not able to recognize it.

Besides that, in Sanjiang city, there was no deep forest. Thus, chances of harvesting valuable herbs were close to zero.

Wu Hao had to forget about this ineffective method then.

In the end, he was back to square one. After all, the best plan was still going to Macao and gamble.

Though in certain cities of Mainland, there were some underground casinos. However, these places were illegal. He could not find his way there even if he wanted to. If he did win some money there, Wu Hao was afraid that trouble would follow him too.

Macao would have been a totally different story. Such place had famous casinos comparable to the international standard of Las Vegas. The number of big and small casinos in Macao were uncountable with just 10 fingers.

Wu Hao did not plan to earn too much money by gambling. His request was not high at all. As long as he won himself a few millions, that would have satisfied him already.

Millions of Yuan for those big casinos in Macao were just peanuts.

Even if he won, the casino would not get him into trouble. Unless Wu Hao won too much at one time, tens of millions or billions of Yuan, then of course he would be in the mark list of the casino management.

The main reason why Wu Hao dared to go to Macao to gamble was because his telekinesis besides spiritual perception.

Although till now Wu Hao had not used his telekinesis in any battle, he had never doubt the lethality of this ability.

As long as any man who wanted to harm him did not exceed 300kg in weight, he need to face huge hurdle of getting close to Wu Hao. That was not even mentioning about inflicting damage to Wu Hao yet.

Also, Wu Hao could use his telekinesis to control any weapon and attack. He had never tested its effectiveness but imagining it would have already horrified anyone.

Let just say a group of men attacked Wu Hao. Before they got close to Wu Hao till their attacking range, a knife or some weapon flied towards them. In this scenario, how many people could actually escape unscathed?

Even if opponent used firearms, that would also very unlikely to hit Wu Hao.

Unless the counterpart's weapon was able to produce more than 300kg force power, only large caliber rifles and snipers were able to do so or if he was facing rain of bullets. Otherwise, his security would always be guaranteed.

Thus, it was because of this formidable telekinesis that Wu Hao had such confidence to visit Macau and gain fortune. Otherwise, he would not suggest such idea at all.

Just like that, Wu Hao temporarily stayed in Sanjiang city for the next two days. He started to earn money for the capital to Macao.

Indeed Wu Hao's method of getting his capital charged up was simple. Everyday, he would visit some mahjong houses in Sanjiang city. Although Wu Hao did not play frequently, he still knew how to play mahjong.

Moreover, in the mahjong houses, besides playing mahjong, there were still some who played cards. "Fight the landlord". That was the card game which Wu Hao had quite a good skill in. During his leisure time, he did indeed like to play that game with his friends. Furthermore, his winning rate was quite high too.

These mahjong houses could be found anywhere in the city.

Usually the frequent visitors were those young workers working nearby or residents. Thus, each session of game would usually earn him around hundreds of Yuan or at most thousands.

The aim for Wu Hao to visit such places was not to win money till he got rich. He just wanted to gather few thousands Yuan as capital for his Macao trip.

Thus, by using his perception to cheat, Wu Hao was able to see other players' cards.

These 2 days, Wu Hao went to different mahjong houses in morning, afternoon and night. Sometimes he would play mahjong while the other times he would went for his favorite "fight the landlord".

Each visit resulted in hundreds or thousands profit. Two days were then finally over. Wu Hao earned himself a total of 5000 plus Yuan. With the previous 3000 Yuan that he had, Wu Hao decided that such money as capital for his Macao trip should be enough.

Thus, Wu Hao decided to quit and stop bullying those ordinary people any more.

Besides that, he went to Macao to earn a fortune. Not gathering capital, burning his money away there. Having these few thousand Yuan should be more than enough.

And also, during these two days, Wu Hao did some research on how to go Macao from there. When he knew that the duration for the pass to be issued require at least 10 days and a lot of documents to be prepared, he immediately decided to scrap off the idea of visiting Macao through a formal channel.

He decided to find a place in the mainland which was the nearest to Macao and secretly flew over there.

During the night, Wu Hao found himself a place without any people to test his flight ability. At the beginning, Wu Hao did not dare to fly at a high altitude.

After all, the feeling of suspended in the air was difficult for him to get used to in such short time.

After two nights of undergoing test and practice, Wu Hao had finally conquered his fear of that feeling. Finally, he was able to fully experience true high-altitude flight.

The current him was able to fly about 500 meter above ground. It was not that he could not fly higher but his telekinesis ability was still somehow limited. For his own safety reasons, he decided to not push himself further.

In case he was flying up high and some unforeseen emergency happened such as his telekinesis being deactivated without his consent, wouldn't he be having a 360 degree free fall all the way to the ground!

Furthermore, the sky was so dark at night. At the altitude of 500 meter, it would be impossible for the people on the land to notice him. Thus, taking the risk of fly higher was not a necessity.

At the same time, his telekinesis and spiritual perception ability had improved yet again after repeating the cycle of training and breathing with the special technique.

However, due to Wu Hao busy earning money, his ability upgrade rate was only half of what it used to be.

This was because during his stay in hospital, he repeated the cycle continuously without even sleeping. Thus, his ability increased at such tremendous rate in a week time.

The next day after winning the capital needed in Sanjiang city, Wu Hao bought a bus ticket to Guangzhou province. Since there were still several hours left as the departure time was at afternoon, Wu Hao decided to stroll around in the mall nearby the bus station.

After wandering for a while, Wu Hao stumbled upon a shop selling military equipment.

“Brother, what are you interested in? Come inside and have a look.” The shop owner was a middle age man wearing a military camouflage uniform. Noticing that Wu Hao was staring at the display products from outside, he quickly went to greet him with enthusiasm.

Chapter 5 - The Seat Was Occupied

Wu Hao, after hearing the greeting from the shop owner, went straight into the shop without replying.

Although the store was not huge, there were many equipments available for sale. All kinds of outdoor supplies and cutting tools were available in the store.

As he browsed through some of the goods, Wu Hao became excited. He went back to the shop owner and asked, “Boss, do you sell throwing knives or dart-like stuff?”

“So, little brother wants to buy throwing knives? Of course I have them.” The shop owner went to a corner of the counter and retrieved a leather case. He then walked towards Wu Hao, and slowly opened the case in front of him.

“Come have a look here. Do these type of throwing knives fulfill your requirements?”

When the middle aged man opened the case, 12 black flying knives appeared in front of Wu Hao.

These flying knives were not huge, around 6 to 8cm long. They could be considered the smallest size available; if the knives were smaller, they would be very difficult to use.

However for Wu Hao who had telekinesis, even a small needle in his hands would be an invisible killing weapon.

The workmanship of the 12 small black throwing knives was very delicate and the shape of the knives was very beautiful in contrast to the razor sharp edge.

The material used for the throwing knives should not be ordinary steel. As for the hardness, Wu Hao was not worried about it.

When the knives were in the box, it was even smaller than palm size. It would be very convenient to carry the box around. Thinking of this point, Wu Hao started to love these delicate and sharp knives more.

He was very sure that these knives were indeed a match with his telekinesis.

“Hmmm, they seem to be not bad. How much were they? If they aren’t expensive, I would take them.”

“Hehe. Since little brother likes them, I would give you a special rate. Originally the price was 800 Yuan. Since brother took a fancy of them, I would only charge you 500 Yuan.”

“Okay. Here is 500 Yuan. I want them.” Hearing the shop owner’s remarks, Wu Hao knew that they were just some lame excuses.

However he did not care much about it. He just paid the amount in full without bargaining and then left the shop after some polite gestures to the shop owner.

Although there were many items in the store which Wu Hao wanted to buy, he had to temporarily give up this idea as he lacked the budget.

But he had decided that after he won a huge amount of money in Macao, he would get himself the best set of outdoor equipment. This was a preparation for his exploration and wild adventures in the future.

Wild adventure was something Wu Hao had been dreaming of.

It was just that previously he was financially unstable. Thus, he had no spare time for it. Even if he really wanted to go explore, it was something which would never happen. It would only remain as a nice dream.

After all, in the wild mountains, if there was not enough preparation in equipment and body fitness as a safety measure, then wild exploration was just a trip to death.

Even the worst set of outdoor equipment, clothes, backpack, tent, tools etc would add up to more than 10 thousand Yuan in total to purchase all of them.

Furthermore, even with the best equipment, the number of adventures who met their end during a wild expedition was not small.

In the deep jungle, there were too many threats to face. Without any strength and survival experience, going to such places was just seeking disaster.

Therefore, these wild adventures were only something Wu Hao would imagine but never dare to do in the past.

However, it was different now. With godly telekinesis and spiritual perception, he could guarantee his safety even without any equipment.

Of course, if he wanted to have a comfortable and enjoyable adventure, a variety of outdoor equipment was still necessary.

After buying the knives, Wu Hao continued wandering around in the mall. Then, he had his lunch at a restaurant, had a short rest before decided to go back to the bus station to check in, since the time for the departure was just around the corner.

After neatly arranging his luggage, Wu Hao went aboard the bus to find his seat. With just a few glances, he easily found his seat. However, a girl was sitting on his seat.

The girl looked young. She should be less than 20 years old. Her height was around 1.7 meters. Her appearance and body shape were absolutely top notch. A pure beautiful face paired with the perfect curves. Even those beauties in Wu Hao's college and those movie stars, when compared to the girl in front of him, were slightly inferior.

This was because it was the first time for Wu Hao to be in front of such a beauty in a close range. This kind of feeling naturally can't be compared with the ones when he felt watching movie stars on the screen.

This really caught Wu Hao off guard because he never expected that a beauty would sit on his seat.

Uh! That was wrong. It should be this beauty snatched his seat instead.

When Wu Hao was holding his ticket in his right hand and stunned by her beauty, the girl who was sitting near to the window noticed Wu Hao's existence. She showed a charming smile to Wu Hao while pointing at the current seat she was sitting on. "Your seat here?"

"Uh, if this ticket seat number is correct, then it is my seat indeed." Seeing that, Wu Hao started to understand the current situation.

"Oh, actually I have motion sickness. I hope you could change place so that I can sit near a window." The girl smiled.

"Yea, no problem. I am fine with sitting anywhere." Since she had already said so, plus she was a beauty, Wu Hao had nothing else to add.

“Thanks!” Hearing Wu Hao’s agreement, the girl thanked him in a polite manner and put on her headphones, listening to music while playing with her smartphone.

Wu Hao just showed a slight smile after that. Although she was a rare beauty, Wu Hao did not have any idea to start a conversation with her.

He knew that his appearance was just average. With a beauty like her, of course she won’t take any fancy towards him.

Moreover, from the way she dressed and the latest smartphone which she used, her family should have a very strong financial circumstances. Compared to Wu Hao who was currently without any branded tag on his body, both of them were totally on different levels.

Since he understood this point he did not bother her. He just minded his own business and sat at the next seat and closed his eyes to practice his breathing technique.

However, if Wu Hao was to compare his own sister, Wu Xiaoxiao to the beauty, as long as Xiaoxiao had a better dressing and make up, she would not be inferior to the beauty at all.

When he thought of it, Wu Hao secretly make a promise that he would get his sister lots of beautiful clothes when he earned money. With the best clothes, he would make her like a princess who was no longer need looked down upon by others.

After laughing at himself in his heart, Wu Hao began practicing the cycle. Now, whenever he had any free time, he would activate his telekinesis and then recharge the power with the breathing technique.

Of course, to make sure that his telekinesis power is readily available at any time, he would not use up all the power at once. Instead, he would only train till two-thirds of his power was used. Then, he would breathe with the special technique to restore the used power.

Just a moment ago, Wu Hao tried to use his telekinesis on the bus itself. With his current power which can carry up to hundreds kg object, the reaction on a dozen ton bus was very minimum.

Furthermore, when he tried to exceed the range of his capability, the consumption rate of his power was way too fast. He just released his power on the bus for a few seconds and yet 2/3 of his power had been used up.

As for why he did not continue to use his telekinesis, it was his natural reflex since he had become used to saving some of his power for unexpected situations.

Moreover, if he dried up his power completely, his body would have to suffer repercussions. He would feel very weak when that happens. As his telekinesis power increased, the time needed for him to recover his power would prolong too.

If he finished up his power, the current him would need at least 1 hour to completely recover back his mind power to peak condition.

If he did not use the breathing technique and depended on natural recovery, it would take him more than 10 hours.

However, the scene of Wu Hao closing his eyes and ignoring the beauty would eventually make her think differently of him.

Chapter 6 - To Crush With Strength

“Eh? This man actually did not take this opportunity to converse with me?” The beauty who sat beside Wu Hao, Qin Sisi, inwardly wondered.

At first she thought that Wu Hao would be like those guys in the past. They would start talking with her without any reason and take the opportunity to ask for her contact number, Wechat etc.

After all, this time she was the one who asked if Wu Hao could change seat with her. It would be so easy for him to strike a conversation with her, but surprisingly, Wu Hao just sat there motionless while closing his eyes. He did not seem to be interested to have a chat with her from the way Wu Hao acted.

Being in such situation, Qin Sisi even started to question herself, “Is it because there is something wrong with my attire today? Did it make me unattractive to look at?” after all, women were strange creatures. When they were given too much attention from men, they would get sick of it too.

However, if nobody notices them, they would then suspect there was problem with their makeup, making them unattractive.

Of course for Qin Sisi, no matter what, she would always ignore those who tried to pursue her.

Qin Sisi was a second year student of Guangzhou university. The reason she went back home was because she had a family matter.

Although her family was not that rich, it could still be considered a famous family.

Both her parents held a post in government positions. Furthermore, she was the only daughter in her family. Thus, she would always receive the best from them. It could even be said that she was raised like a princess since young.

However, despite all that, she still did not develop any arrogant princess syndrome. Instead, she was still a beautiful and loving girl.

Thus, Qin Sisi was a flower in her school. Of course, the number of men who pursue her was too much to count.

Soon, all the passengers were on board. The bus started to move and depart from the station, heading to the direction of Guangzhou.

Perhaps it was still not a holiday season so that there were still lots of empty seats available. Only about two-third of the seats were occupied.

A few rows in front of Wu Hao's seat, there were two troublesome men. From the moment they were on the bus, they were very rude and kept conversing dirty topics.

They were either boasting of many girls they slept with or discussing which girl had a better body and techniques.

The other passengers and conductor were showing an expression of disgust towards both men. But they could guess that these men were not someone who can be messed around with. Thus, nobody dared to voice out any objection to them.

“Brother Pao, behind us there is a hot chick!” One of them were talking about something when he suddenly noticed Qin Sisi sitting behind and immediately shouted at his companion.

Originally, Qin Sisi who was playing with her phone with a headset on did not notice any conversation by the two men.

But then, just now when Qin Sisi removed her headphone, she immediately heard those disgusting words. Feeling angered, she stood up a bit to have a look at in front.

Too bad that the moment she stood up, she was immediately noticed by both them. The angered Qin Sisi who wanted to teach them a lesson started to feel some fear after hearing what they said.

This was because even though she was kind and and had a heart of justice, she was after all a woman. Even worst, a beauty. Even without thinking, she knew that she would be the target of harassment from these two hooligans.

Although they were now in the bus and the two men would not do anything excessive, she would still face trouble. As she thought of this, she began to grow worried and turned her head to look at

Wu Hao. This bastard was still closing his eyes. What the heck was he doing?

“This guy is indeed strange. For some time he has his eyes closed. What is he doing!”

However, without waiting for her to think further, the two men started to get up from their seat and walked to the back towards her.

As the bus was not packed, there were still some empty seats. Besides Wu Hao, there was a middle age woman sitting. But, the seat beside the woman was empty.

The men came to the back and sit at the aisle seat.

“Hi! Pretty girl, why do you go to Guangzhou for? The journey is long, come accompany this brother and have a chat.” The young man who was called Brother Pao showed an ugly grin while approaching Qin Sisi who was observing the scenery outside the window.

Soon , Brother Pao noticed that Qin Sisi was ignoring him completely. Instead of getting mad, he reached out to pat at Wu Hao on the shoulder who was sitting beside Qin Sisi. “Buddy, wake up. Brother wants to change seats with you.”

Brother Pao noticed that Wu Hao looked ordinary and did not have a huge body. Without even thinking about whether Wu Hao would agree to change his seat or not, he immediately took action and wanted to wake Wu Hao up.

However, Wu Hao had never slept at all. He knew everything that happened in the bus crystal clearly. It was just that he did not want to bother and quietly continued practicing his breathing technique to pass the time.

But now, those bastards were looking for trouble. Of course, he could no longer continue practising anymore.

Thus, before Brother Pao's hand touched him, Wu Hao opened his eyes and immediately blocked Brother Pao's hand which was originally to pat his shoulder with his grip.

“I am sorry. I am feeling comfortable sitting here and do not wish to change seats at all.”

Hearing Wu Hao's remark, everyone in the bus rose their eyebrows in succession including Qin Sisi who was beside him. Her heart could not help but to praise him for his strong will. Soon, the feeling turned into a concern instead.

After all, anyone could notice that these two men were not any good guys. Hooligans were indeed hard to be handled. And these two men were obviously that type which would bring lots of trouble.

“Hei! Little boy, have you even grown eyes!” Brother Pao was surprised for a moment by Wu Hao's remarks. His face instantly changed to a threaten expression. It seemed like as long as Wu Hao dare to say even a word, he would immediately strike him violently.

At the side, Qin Sisi after watching the scene could not help but to start worrying for Wu Hao. After all, from his appearance, Wu Hao did not seem to be able to resist any attacks from these two opponents!

“Hehe. If I do not grow my eyes, then what do you guys want to do with me?” Wu Hao even chuckled as he did not put these men in his eyes at all. From the way they dress, he knew that they were just good-for-nothing small fries.

With these small fries, the more you became scared, the more arrogant they become. However, if you act ruthlessly, they would be easy to deal with. Furthermore they were now in a bus. Not even mentioning the current Wu Hao who had a telekinetic ability, even if it were the previous him, he would not be afraid to face such a situation in dealing with small fries.

Because he believed that there were so many people who could not stand these two men. As long as he started dealing with these two men, there would be other brave men who would follow suit.

Moreover, this matter was involving a beauty. He believed that every man would not miss this opportunity to give a her a favourable impression.

“F*ck! Brother Pao, this kid seem to be courting his death. Let us beat him up!” The other youngster suddenly stood up and rushed toward Wu Hao, forming a fist.

At this moment, Brother Pao was burning from his anger. Almost at the same time, both of them were directing their fist towards Wu Hao’s direction.

This unexpected turn of event scared the hell out of Qin Sisi who was sitting beside Wu Hao. She started screaming as a reflex.

Then, a strange mysterious scene happened. What exactly did she see? Those two men who were acting arrogantly just a moment ago currently formed a human pyramid while being stepped under Wu Hao’s foot.

As for how did Wu Hao managed to do so, Qin Sisi was not able to see. Even all the onlookers in the bus were the same too.

“Wow, such an expert!” A crowd of youngsters soon exclaimed.

“This young man, really strong. With just a single move, he subdued these small fries.” Now, it was the voice of an aunt.

“But these two bastards, how did they even board the bus? What had the police been doing nowadays? These two should have been captured long time ago. If not because of this young man, the girl would have to suffer instead.”

Chapter 7 - Martial Arts Expert

Without bothering with the passengers comments, Wu Hao squinted his eyes and stared at both of them who were now squirming under his foot.

“You guys still wanna change seats?”

“Haiz.....no, we are not changing. Big brother, we have eyes but failed to recognize Mt Tai. Please just consider us as farts and let us go!” Brother Pao who originally had an arrogant attitude was now unable to move and trembling in fear.

Obviously both them were pressed on hard.

In fact, his foot did not exert any force on them. This was just acting as a camouflage since he had used his telekinesis to force those two hooligans flat on ground.

Because he had acted way too fast without any additional movements, it gave a misconception to the passengers on board of not being able to see how he had subdued them.

As for those two small fries, they were extremely puzzled and scared.

Because, from their perspective, they could feel an unknown overwhelming force from Wu Hao which made them fall flat on ground. They were not even given any opportunity to resist.

“Get the hell back to your own seat. And also if I hear any more nonsense coming out from your mouth...” he did not continue his sentence. He believed that as long as those two are not complete idiots, the next several hours ride would be very peaceful without them acting as they please.

“Under.....stood, big brother....” As Wu Hao still had not released the force on them, they still spoke as if they were running out of air.

Looking at those two bastards acting obediently, Wu Hao let them go. These small fries had no other ability. The only thing they are excellent at is submit to those stronger than them.

When they encounter those weaker than them, they would act like a boss. If they could not handle someone, they would immediately kneel down and lick his feet like a grandson.

Since Wu Hao understood their nature, he would not put them in his eyes.

However, after what Wu Hao did, the passengers were able to feel his domineering side and could not help but to get astonished by it.

As for Qin Sisi who sat beside Wu Hao, her mouth was opened wide while looking at him with a surprised expression. Never did she expect the ordinary looking youth who sat beside her who was not tall nor had a huge body would actually have such a domineering side.

This had been an eye opener for Qin Sisi who had live close to 20 years. It was not like she had not seen boys fighting each other. It was just that the way Wu Hao fought was too overpowering (1). It could be said that it was the first time she saw such power in her life.

“Thank you.” Soon, Qin Sisi recovered from the shock and opened her mouth, whispering her thanks to Wu Hao.

“No problem. After all, I myself could no longer stand those two bastards.” Wu Hao who had returned to his seat said casually after receiving her thanks.

“I thought you were sleeping just now?” Hearing such a reply from Wu Hao, she recalled back to the scene when Wu Hao had closed both of his eyes.

“Nope!” Wu Hao’s reply was very simple.

“Then what were you doing with your eyes closed?” Out of curiosity, Qin Sisi continued asking Wu Hao.

“Er....How to say? Lets just say I was meditating on my martial art.” Wu Hao did not know how to explain, so just told her half the truth.

“Ar, so you are meditating on your martial art! I never expected that you are a martial art expert. Your appearance does not even look a bit like it at all. But, what martial art are you practicing? I could feel that it is much more offensive than those karate, taekwondo etc. O ya, I am Qin Sisi, second year student of Guangzhou university. What about you? You going to Guangzhou for what?" Hearing his reply, Qin Sisi's chatterbox nature instantly activated. She was in fact, very curious about Wu Hao.

The so called legendary martial arts master. Even though Qin Sisi had a very pretty appearance, she was after all still a blooming girl. Moreover, Wu Hao gave her a very unique feeling. He was not the same as those men who tried scoring her. It was as if he was trying to deliberately avoid her.

Noticing the originally cool beauty who was now more open and warm to him, asking him questions non stop, that really made Wu Hao not know how to answer her. Thus, he only casually replied, "My name is Wu Hao, just passing by Guangzhou."

"O, just passing by. Then where is your final destination? On a business trip or what?"

"Macao, it can be considered as a business trip." Wu Hao did not conceal anything. He felt that after getting off the bus, they most probably won't be interacting with each other anymore. Thus, he just simply answered.

"Going to Macao for a business trip!" Qin Sisi could not help but had a glance at Wu Hao again. She noticed that he was just wearing common clothes and did not seem to be like a big company's employee.

This was because only big international companies would have business trips to Macao. If he is really an employee of a big company, then of course, Wu Hao would not dress up like that.

“Hahah! Don’t tell me that you are going to Macao to gamble right?” Thinking about this, Qin Sisi had a guess.

When Wu Hao heard that, he was shocked momentarily and glanced at Qin Sisi who was sitting beside him with a surprised look.

“Seems like my guess is correct then!” Qin Sisi laughed at him after she saw his surprised expression.

“How did you know?” Wu Hao pondered and couldn’t help to ask her.

“This is something simple. Of those who go to Macao, you won’t be able to find anyone who is not interested in gambling. But let me give you an advice. You better cancel your plans, as I have never heard anyone who had won from there.” Qin Sisi tried to persuade Wu Hao to not go Macao.

“Thanks for your kindness but I might be the exception.” Since she had guessed correctly that he was going to Macao to gamble, he no longer feel like denying it. Although he agreed with her point of view, he was no longer an ordinary person.

As long as he wanted to win, he would never lose.

Just like that, in the next few hours of the trip, Wu Hao spent his time chatting with Qin Sisi. (2)

However, all the topic conversations were asked by Qin Sisi and Wu Hao just answered them. Not long after, all the information regarding him were known by Qin Sisi clearly except his greatest secret of having a telekinetic ability.

As for Wu Hao, besides her name and where she studied, he did not know anything else about her, he felt that he was helpless in front of a beauty that even the information regarding his family, he had unknowingly told her about them.

Finally, when the bus was nearing Guangzhou, Qin Sisi on her own accord exchanged mobile phone numbers and Weibo with Wu Hao. At first, Qin Sisi even considered treating him to dinner to show her gratitude.

However, Wu Hao politely rejected her offer. This was a no joke. When a girl wants to treat a meal, as a man, of course he will pay the bill. From the way she dressed, Wu Hao was very sure she won't eat at some cheap place. His entire assets for now, was only a few thousand Yuan.

He was afraid that after the meal, his capital for Macao would be nearly gone.

In fact, if Qin Sisi knew that he only had a few thousand Yuan for gambling, she would be even more shocked. Regarding his income and job, Qin Sisi did not enquire that much from him.

Qin Sisi was a clever girl after all. There were some topics which were not suitable to be asked, especially a man's income.

Chapter 8 - Getting Lucky

After he arrived at the bus station, Wu Hao did not immediately leave the building. After all, he did not have any plans to stay in Guangzhou. Instead, he came off the platform and went to the ticket counter to purchase a departure ticket to Zhuhai.

In Mainland, the nearest city to Macao is Zhuhai. These two cities can be described as just a step away from each other.

But to go to Macao, if there is no visiting pass, even if these cities are only separated by a bridge, you will obviously not be able to cross it.

To illegally cross to Macao, you would need to treat those officers to drink some tea.

Of course for the current Wu Hao, he did not have to worry about such things.

Thus, the night when Wu Hao arrived at Zhuhai, he waited until the sky was pitch black and went to a secluded place.

Then, he carefully confirmed that no human was around by using his spiritual perception. After confirming the situation was clear, he flew straight up the sky carrying his suitcase.

After leaping to about a few hundred meter altitude, Wu Hao started to fly towards the direction of Macao. As these two cities were not far apart from each other, Wu Hao with his flying speed close to 200km per hour, he reached the border of Macao in about 10 mins.

In order to avoid being noticed by anyone during his landing, Wu Hao decided to land at a park of his choice at the outskirts of Macao. Even though it was at the outskirts, Macao after all is just a small city. Plus, it is famous for its nightlife.

Therefore, even at late night, there were still pedestrians walking along the streets.

“Mister, is there any cheap hotel nearby?” Wu Hao left the park and came to the street to stop a taxi driver and asked him.

He did not have much cash in his body now. Thus, he won't stay in any luxury hotel. He could only ask the taxi driver to get him to a cheaper hotel and stay for the night.

“A cheap hotel, right? No problem!” The middle age driver spoke with a not so accurate Mandarin but Wu Hao was still barely able to interpret what he said.

In about 10 minutes, the taxi then reached the main door of a hotel. Wu Hao paid the taxi fare and dragged his luggage into the hotel lobby.

After opening his room's door and placing his luggage, Wu Hao immediately started his breathing technique to restore his telekinetic power.

After all, he had now officially reached Macao. Naturally, he was not in a rush to gamble at a casino. Since the current time was around two to three o'clock in the morning, he was afraid there would not be many people there, even if the casino did not close.

Thus, he decided to only go to one of the big casinos during daytime. He would then observe for a while before winning several million Yuan and disappearing from there.

The next evening, after some simple preparations, Wu Hao took a taxi to the largest casino in Macao "Crystal sand entertainment centre".

Prior to the trip, Wu Hao had done his research on the internet that the largest casino in Macao and also the nearest one from his hotel is this casino "Crystal sand entertainment centre".

In Macao, the casino's name would not be something something casino. Instead, they would usually be named something something entertainment resort or centre.

Wu Hao chose to go at this time. The reason for doing so was because from now to a few hours later, the amount of customers in the casino would be at its peak.

In order to not attract attention from casino management, picking the largest casino with the most customers to make money from is the best option available.

Entering the main door of the casino, Wu Hao did not blindly go and begin gambling. Instead, he changed 5000 Yuan to chips and observed the surroundings.

When he was exchanging for chips, all those gold digger females which were scattered all over the place would naturally not go and start any conversations with Wu Hao after noticing his shabby clothes.

After about 10 minutes of observation, Wu Hao found a game which was very suitable with his idea. This game is choosing big or small using rolling dice.

To gamble big or small naturally is not something Wu Hao needs to worry about. As long as the dealer finishes rolling the dice in the dice cup, Wu Hao would use his spiritual perception and everything in the cup would be crystal clear to him.

After all, his ability allows him to see through any hollow item and know the situation inside it.

“Hua.....hua” after the dealer finished rolling the dice, all the gamblers surrounding the betting table began to place their bet.

Wu Hao then used his spiritual perception to see through the cup after the dealer rolled. In his mind, he could see the dice faces are 2, 3 and 5 which summed up to a total of 10 points, this represented small.

After knowing the points in the cup, Wu Hao confidently put all the 5 chips in his hand on top of the 'small' area.

Soon, after the dealer saw every customer had placed their bet, he revealed the contents of the cup.

“2, 3, 5. Total of 10 points, small!”

“Haha! Small! I Win!”

“F*ck! Small again! I lost again.”

With so many gamblers around the table, of course some would win while the others lost. The winner would be happy while the loser could only complain.

The area Wu Hao was at was a common area among the gamblers. Usually, they would bet around tens of thousand each time.

In other words, those who gamble at this area were after all not that rich.

In fact, they were just like Wu Hao, using small capital to get rich.

It was just that whether they will achieve their dream or not, that would depend on their own luck.

However, most of the gamblers in the casinos would lose 9 times out of ten, only a few 'experts' would manage to earn money.

Also, losing the whole family fortune as the gambling capital was also a norm.

Therefore, if you want to rely on your luck to gamble and not your real ability, it is best to just scrap this idea.

Wu Hao looked at his originally 5 chips, which in a blink of an eye had turned 10. Although he started to feel some excitement in his heart, Wu Hao still showed a normal face expression and silently continued his bet.

He did not bet on those with 10 times, or several times odds. If he did so, this would eventually bring unwanted attention to him.

Although now he only bet on big or small and only had odds of 1 times, he could not resist the temptation to bet on those with higher odds.

From 5000 Yuan chips, he just need to bet on those for just a few times and his capital would then increase to tens of thousands or even hundreds of thousands.

However, Wu Hao did not continuously win.

He purposely lost for a round or two after winning 3 times in a row.

Of course, when he wanted to lose, he naturally would not go all in. He would just bet for a few ten thousand chip.

And when he wanted to win, he would bet everything.

In this way, though he had not even bet for more than 30 minutes, Wu Hao who originally had 5000 Yuan had now grown his capital to about 300 thousand Yuan.

After winning so much in that one betting table , Wu Hao obviously would then left the table. Then, he walked towards a nearby betting table several tables away.

A few hours later, by winning more and losing less, Wu Hao brought the large amount of chips worth about 3 million Yuan and went to the chip exchanging counter.

“Seems that I have to bother you exchanging these chips to money.”

“No problem, mister. Can you please show me your bank account number?” The girl who was in charge of the counter noticed that Wu Hao had won a huge sum of money and could not help herself to have a quick glance at him again. Her heart could not stop secretly thinking of this guy who had such good luck today.

Although she did not have much interaction with Wu Hao, after working in such places for a long time, she could tell that Wu Hao was not a rich man.

So, seeing Wu Hao brought all these chips, she naturally understood that most of them were his winnings tonight.

However, even though she was surprised, she did not care much about it.

She knew that those who made a fortune in a go would not that easily quit gambling.

Today's winning, in future would eventually vanish.

After all, these scenarios happen all the time in the casino.

Chapter 9 - Forced Into A Corner

Wu Hao, with an income of 3 million yuan that night, decided to leave the casino. When he was about to do so, a sudden disturbance not far away caught the attention from everyone present.

“Mister, please watch the way you act, or else don’t blame us for being not polite.” A few security guards in suits and black leather shoes approached an emotional youth and held him in place.

From the looks of it, if this youth still insisted on creating a scene here, they would most probably take action.

In fact, to open such big casinos, someone must have a background with local powers who would back them up, regardless of whether said powers were black or white.

It was very similar to this situation here. Such scene occurring in casinos was not infrequent. However, those losers who were trying to make a scene in casinos would usually have a bad outcome.

“You guys are just mere watchdogs. Get the f*ck away from me! Today, I am gonna kill that bastard Cheng Yu Liang. How dared he work with others and cheat me!” The youth kept struggling to get out from the security guards grasp. However, his physique compared to those guards was a bit too fragile. Naturally, his struggling was in vain.

At that moment, the manager in charge of the casino rushed to the scene. Having seen the incident, he went to the guards and whispered his orders to them. “Drag him out and settle it.” By ‘settle’ they did not mean killing, only a lesson to be remembered.

Actually, the manager pretty much understood the exact situation. Most probably during the gambling on the casino table, someone must be partnering with others and made him lose money.

This situation was too common in this casino. This kind of closed gambling between guests were allowed here. The casino would not participate in it but just acted as middleman and charged some service fees only.

As for who win or lose among the customers did not matter to the casino. Of course, there were times when some customers would bribe the dealer and person in charge.

As for this incident today, there shouldn't be anyone from the casino involved in it.

This was because if the casino was a part of it, this man would not even have any opportunity to act as he likes at the entrance.

Those few securities with vicious expressions, after hearing the orders from the manager, naturally would not be giving this youth any face anymore. Thus, a few people suddenly dragged the youth to one of the side doors and left.

“To all guests, I am extremely sorry regarding this and apologize on behalf of our entertainment centre. The customer just now probably lost lots of money, leading him to behave emotionally. Sorry again for frightening you all.” The casino manager immediately explained to the onlooking gamblers after the youth had been dragged off by the security guards.

“Haiz! I am afraid this man is already in such a bad luck. Yet, his brain is even worse. Such a daring youth to try mess with the casino.” Some of the gamblers were able to guess the story behind the scene in their heart. However, in their opinion, even if you had been set up by people, you can’t try to create a scene at the casino’s entrance!

Doesn’t this act only find trouble for oneself? To be able to open a casino in such places like Macao, which one of them would not have some deep background?

Even if you are someone rich with billions to spend, you go to casino and gamble happily, of course the casino management will treat you like a god. However, if you purposely try to create trouble, then they won’t give you too much face.

Soon, the onlooking gamblers began to disperse from the entrance. At the moment, in the lounge of the second floor, a few people within the same age range as the youth observed the scene and sneered among themselves.

“Hmmpphh! This idiot. He thought he was still like before, the rich young master? How dare he try to create a scene in the casino!” This youth was Cheng Yuliang. The few other youths beside him were his accomplices. But the major credit would be to the one guy who was a gambler master from some Japanese organisation.

This gambling expert from Japan was someone specially invited by Cheng Yuliang through his family to specifically set up this trap. The purpose of this trap is to secretly attack the Liang family and thus, succeeding in one of the aims.

Liang Shirong, the only legal successor of Liang family, was a second generation who indulged in his fortune. Normally, Liang Shirong would not rage over losing in gambling.

However, this time it was different. Not only did he lose several hundred million Yuan, but also his share in the Liang family business empire had been used as collateral.

And this private gambling was something Cheng Yuliang had planned properly and succeeded in convincing Liang Shirong to take part in it. As for the final result, of course you could naturally imagine it.

Though he had lost money and shares, Liang Shirong still hadn't lost his rationality yet. He then tried calling his dad and asking for his help. It was then when he received an even more miserable news.

That was his family business empire had gone bankrupt. Even his dad's current whereabouts were unknown. At this stage, even if Liang Shirong was a retard, he could guess the true story behind these actions. That was why he was raging and creating a scene.

Wu Hao who was mixed within the crowd, did not quite understand the specific details after spectating the scene. However, watching Hong Kong films about casinos for so many years gave him some rough ideas of what exactly happened.

"Never did I imagine that the scene which only appears in movies played out in front of me." Wu Hao could only helplessly sigh. A sigh is still a sigh. He did not have any ideas of involving himself in this matter and act like a hero.

He knew that although he had some godly superpower, he still had not reached the realm of invincibility.

This kind of battle, it was better for him to stay further away. Moreover, that youth was brought down in a casino. He really could not blame anyone else. The only person he could be mad at should be himself for being addicted to gambling.

Otherwise, how could he lose all his family fortune? Thus, for these kind of people, no sympathy is worthy for them.

At the backdoor of the casino, the security guards who dragged Liang Shirong began to throw him onto the ground and kicked him continuously.

"Okay, okay! Stop hitting him. If this still goes on, I am afraid that he would pass away right here." The head of the security guards said.

“F*ck! This retard, how dare he try to create a mess in our casino!” Although those security guards had stopped their actions, their mouth was still very active cursing him.

Like them who worked as security guards in casino, though it was a legal job, they would still somehow have some black elements in their nature.

When they were working in the casino, of course they had to maintain their honest appearance. However when nobody was around, their true nature would surface.

In the end, those security guards left the scene. The only one remaining there was Liang Shirong, struggling to stand up from the ground.

“Cheng Yuliang, I will never let you have a happy life.” Although the former young master who spent whatever he wanted was now hit to the very bottom and became penniless, a hatred started to form deep in his heart.

Then, slowly, Liang Shirong supported himself and left the casino. As for where was he heading to, only he himself knew.

Chapter 10 - Equipment Purchase

After watching the scene with a spectator-like attitude, Wu Hao quietly left the casino. To him, winning 3 million Yuan was more than enough. After all, he did not put too much hope in fishing up a fortune via gambling. Using such methods to generate mountains of profit would only cause unnecessary trouble instead.

With his telekinesis and spiritual perception, gambling was not the only way for him to earn money. After leaving the casino, Wu Hao did not immediately return to the hotel. Instead, he went to a large shopping mall in Macao to buy some equipment. On the way to Macao, Wu Hao had already decided to buy a set of high quality outdoor equipment. It was just that he had no money at that time. Now, with 3 million Yuan in his bank, he would definitely get himself nice and good quality outdoor equipment. At the same time, he planned to buy some gifts for his parents and sister at home.

Macao, besides being recognized as one of the places with the best casinos, it is also a shopper's paradise. Just name any international brand you know and as long as it exists, you will be able to find it in these large shopping malls in Macao.

“Welcome to our shop, mister. Is there anything you are looking for?” After reaching the destination and walking towards an outdoor goods shop, a salesgirl greeted him with a warm welcome.

“Yea, I want a set of the best outdoor equipment.” Wu Hao was not picky about his outdoor equipment set. Since last time, Wu Hao was very interested to explore the wilds but due to certain circumstances, he had to just keep it in his heart. Never did he imagine that one day his dream would come true. Although he did not understand much about outdoor equipment, he knew that picking up the most expensive one won't be that terrible in quality no matter what.

After hearing such words from Wu Hao, the salesgirl's face immediately shined. She treated him even much better than just now. Just like that, after half an hour of introduction and selection, Wu Hao finally managed to get himself a full set of outdoor equipment. The equipment which he bought included several sets of outdoor attire, tent, backpack and also common surviving tools. Not only that, Wu Hao also got himself the latest rugged smartphone and a satellite navigation tool.

The reason he bought a navigation tool was as a precaution if he became lost while flying. Although his smartphone did have a GPS feature, how could it compete with the accuracy of a tool specialized in navigation? In addition to a navigation tool, Wu Hao also bought an outdoor high definition camera which could take photographs and record videos. With this, when he explores the wild, he could keep a memory of the beautiful scenery and animals. Finally, he came across a very cool gadget in the shop. It was a notebook with 3 in 1 features, shockproof, waterproof and dustproof. This kind of notebook, Wu Hao had only seen it in movies.

Moreover, even if he came across it Wu Hao would still not able to afford it. This was because this type of notebook costs at least 200k Yuan. From a brief introduction by the salesgirl, Wu Hao immediately like this notebook. His main interest was its durability during outdoor activities. Besides that, the performance of this notebook compared to current top laptops in the market was better by several times. And the most important features it has was besides being waterproof and dustproof, it had a long battery life. But this made the notebook very thick. From Wu Hao's estimation, at least half of its volume was occupied by the battery cells.

In the end, after finishing up his purchase in the shop, the account bank of Wu Hao had shrank in a blink of an eye. In this trip, he had spent more than a few hundred thousand Yuan.

All the newly purchased equipment had been stuffed inside the backpack until it was packed. He was then forced to buy a slightly smaller backpack before finishing storing all the equipment.

Of course, Wu Hao had removed all the wrapping. If the wrapping was included, perhaps another two backpacks would be needed before being able to store them completely.

The weight of all the items summed up would be roughly 60 kg. When the store boss and staff saw how easily Wu Hao carried the backpack, they were very surprised.

“This man has such a monstrous strength. He is indeed worthy to engage himself in outdoor adventures.”

In fact, Wu Hao's strength was just ordinary. It was thanks to his telekinesis that he was able to carry the two backpacks with ease. In his current condition, Wu Hao could carry a maximum of 300 kg by using his telekinesis. He estimated that in a few days, he would be able to increase his maximum weight to 400 kg. With such an abnormal ability, carrying stuff which only weighed 60 plus kilograms, it was too easy a feat.

After finishing his purchase there, Wu Hao went to another store in the shopping mall to get some presents for his parents and sister.

Clothes are just too common as a gift. Furthermore, it was not easy for him to buy that. After all, he had not gone back home for more than a year. Even his sister must have grown up quite a bit by now. Thus, he did not want to risk buying something which might not fit them.

In the end, Wu Hao decided to buy a mechanical tool for his parents. The price was not that expensive, only about few tens of thousand. Wu Hao was not reluctant to spend more money on them. He was just afraid that his parents might know about the price tag and would then be unwilling to use the tool to aid their work. Instead, they would carefully hide it.

As for his own sister, he bought her the latest 'Fruit' smartphone, smartwatch and laptop. (1) Wu Hao had to admit that the laptop model of 'Fruit' was really stylish and suited to be used by females. They not only beautiful appearance, their performance was also on par with the other top laptops in market.

“Mister, do you need us to help deliver these products? We can ask the mall’s staff to send them to your hotel free of charge.”

Inside the 'Fruit' concept store, the salesgirl noticed that Wu Hao was already occupied with the two backpacks and asked him.

“Nah, it’s alright. Just remove the boxes and help me to put them inside the backpack. So that I can still move around while carrying them.” Wu Hao smiled and politely declined her goodwill.

The watch and phone did not occupy much space. Only the laptop was a bother. However, in the smaller backpack there was still some space left. It should be enough to make some room for the laptop.

“Alright” The salesgirl was surprised after hearing Wu Hao’s remark. However she did not ask any further. She quickly removed the boxes and put them carefully into the backpack. Although this backpack was considered small in size, if it was compared with other backpacks in market, it was not small at all.

It was just that the length of the other backpack was 1.5 meters. As for it, it was just barely over 1 meter in length. Naturally, it would be regarded as small.

After the salesgirl carefully stored the laptop into the backpack, she secretly tried the weight of the backpack and found that it was so difficult to lift even for a bit.

In her heart, she could not help but to be shocked at how powerful Wu Hao was. Soon, Wu Hao carried those backpacks and left the store. The salesgirl then exclaimed to the other staff.

“This guy has extraordinary strength. You know, those two backpacks are extremely heavy and yet, he carried them as if they are nothing.”

“Real or not?! I thought in those backpacks were just filled with cotton!” Those other staffs were not clear about it. Thus, they did not expect that the backpacks of Wu Hao were actually loaded with heavy objects.

Chapter 11 - Ready To Buy A Car

After leaving the mall, Wu Hao quickly got on a taxi which drove him back to the hotel. Since the hotel was quite comfortable to live in, he did not bother with changing residence. After all, he won't be staying in Macao for too long.

“This kind of speed in spending money is indeed too fast! Just a quick shopping trip, I have already spent almost 1 million Yuan. Tomorrow, should I go to another casino and win back some money?” Wu Hao, who was now lying on the bed could not help but to have a bitter laugh in his heart.

Originally, he thought that by winning 3 million Yuan should be enough for him to spend for a while. Who would have thought that in just a day, he would have already spent nearly one third of his winnings.

According to his plan, besides having some money for him to spend during his adventures, he also wished to leave a sum of money for his parents. Not only that, he also hoped to spend some on reconstruction of his old house and repair the village road leading to the nearby town.

His home was located at Sanxi Town which is nearby to Qinling mountain range. Within these recent years, with the help of local authorities, a road had been built from the village to the nearby town.

However on rainy days, this road would be disastrous. Don't need to mention cars, even a motorcycle would not be able to pass through the road. To put it in other words, it was basically a dried river bed during normal days. Besides digging the soil to make it look like a road, there was really nothing else.

Actually, the state government had announced that they would upgrade the road. But after several years, there was still no news regarding this matter.

Thus, Wu Hao thought that why doesn't he spend his money to upgrade the road. After all, it was only a few kilometers long road. If he builds a common village cement road, a few hundred thousand Yuan should be more than enough.

Thinking of this, Wu Hao finally made his decision. His remaining 2 million Yuan certainly won't be enough for all this.

Furthermore, he was not going to win ton of cash at the same casino. He felt that as long as he just won a few million Yuan in every casino, that should be safe and not attract any unwanted attention.

“En! Let us decide it like that then.” After deciding, Wu Hao immediately spent the rest of his time training his ability.

With just a duration of two days, Wu Hao had visited several big casinos in Macao. Carrying his two backpacks and additional of 10 million in his bank account, he came to a secluded park near a seaside. He was just waiting for an opportunity to leave Macao.

It went according to Wu Hao's plan without any trouble. He went to different casinos every time and the highest winning he had was only about two to three million Yuan per casino. That was why he did not attract any attention from the casino management.

Then, after he won about 10 million Yuan, he immediately halted his operation. After all, with this money, it was more than enough for him to either build the road or even improve his home condition.

Moreover, Wu Hao spent his spare time during those two days to do his research online regarding valuable herbs. Now, Wu Hao had some idea in identifying some of the common herbs. For example, wild ginseng, lingzhi mushrooms etc.

He understood that Sanxi town was only located at the periphery of Qinling mountain range. But since he had the ability to fly, even if he had to travel from his home to the depth of Qinling mountain range, the journey would only take him several hours.

Thus, in the future if he lacks money, he could just fly there and find some easy money.

In the market, a few hundred years old wild ginseng could fetch up to several million Yuan.

For ordinary people, trying to find wild ginseng might be an impossible feat.

But for someone who has telekinesis and spiritual perception like Wu Hao, he just needs some time and he would definitely be able to find it.

Time quickly flew by until it was just past midnight. After detecting that nobody was around the area, Wu Hao took this opportunity, with the help of the darkness he flew up high in the sky while carrying two huge backpacks.

With those backpacks and his weight added together, it came close to nearly 200kg. Although this weight would consume his power at quite a worrisome rate, flying from Macao to Zhuhai should not be a problem for him.

This was because these two cities were somewhat close to each other. Even if Wu Hao picked some random secluded place at the corner of the city, it would only take him about a 10 minutes flight.

Once he arrived at Zhuhai, Wu Hao did not go straight to a hotel. Instead, he just spent the night at the park where he landed. When dawn was arrived, Wu Hao then found himself a driver who ran a private car service. After paying the fees, the driver drove him all the way to Guangzhou.

Wu Hao was not reluctant to spend some cash on getting a car. Since he had too much things to carry around, travelling in a public transport was not a good idea. Anyway, he was not lacking any money now. Besides saving him a lot of trouble, a car could even travel faster too. From Zhuhai to Guangzhou at high speed with car, the journey only took a little more than an hour to reach the destination, Baiyun airport.

To reach his home from Guangzhou, the destination was exactly a full 1000km. Although he could use his telekinesis and slowly travel back home, it was still a difficult task to do so with his current ability.

Moreover, he was carrying a lot of stuff. Plus, in order to not be found out by people on the ground, he could only fly at night.

To carry such a huge load, he needed at least several days to travel such a long distance or it would be an incredibly challenging feat.

Taking into account these factors, Wu Hao naturally decided to choose the fastest and most comfortable way back home.

Since he had money, of course he would buy a first class seat. As for the treatment he received in his first class seat, it was something you don't have to describe.

Although this was the first time Wu Hao took a flight and never sat on an economy seat before, with his spiritual perception, basically the panoramic view of the whole plane was seen by him.

Thus, the differences between the first class and economy class seats were naturally all compared by him. Just the differences in the stewardess between these two class were so obvious. The stewardess in charge of first class seat was so many times more attractive than ordinary stewardesses. Also, the food prepared for the passengers in first class seat looked more extraordinary and were abundant in choices too.

Basically, as long as your request is something within their services, any food or item you need, the stewardess will get it ready for you with a smile.

When the plane arrived at Chengdu airport, Wu Hao met some trouble yet again after getting off the plane. His home from Chengdu airport was still hundreds of kilometers away. For the trip, he would need to change cars several times.

“Seems that I need a chartered car again? However, my home is so far away. Even the road to the village is so hard to drive on. I am afraid that nobody is willing to help me deliver these backpacks home.” After thinking for some time, Wu Hao’s eyes shone suddenly.

“Ya, right! Why do I need a chartered car? I could just buy a car myself. With my telekinesis and spiritual perception, I can still manage to drive it even though without any experience in driving before. Yes, I have to buy a car!”

Wu Hao then walked out of the airport and stopped a taxi.

“Brother, where you want to go?” The driver was about 30 year old and dressed up in quite a fashionable attire. Since he could see Wu Hao was young too, he was naturally able to be friendlier.

“To the biggest automobile centre of Chengdu!” Wu Hao directly told the driver his destination.

Chapter 12 - Act Like A Snob

During their journey to the automobile centre, the taxi driver kept conversing with Wu Hao. However, most of the time it was Wu Hao who listened instead of talking.

Just like that, about half an hour later, they arrived within the bounds of the automobile centre. As the centre covers a huge area, the driver then asked Wu Hao.

“Hey, brother! Where do you want me to drop you?”

Actually, when the taxi entered into the range of the automobile centre, Wu Hao had already started to observe the centre. Hearing the driver’s question, since he had already mapped nearly everything about the centre, Wu Hao spoke directly to the driver, “Just drop me at the car shop right over there!”

The driver then looked at the direction pointed by Wu Hao. Isn’t that Mercedes-Benz’s sales shop!!!

“Brother, you are not coming here to buy a car right?” The driver was surprised. After all, from his perspective, Wu Hao doesn’t seem to be someone who could afford to buy a Mercedes-Benz!

He just thought that Wu Hao’s house was located somewhere near to the automobile centre.

“Coming to automobile centre, if not to buy a car then come here for what?” Wu Hao sneered and replied casually.

“No, no. I do not mean anything bad. I am just a bit curious.” Fearing that Wu Hao might despise him, the driver quickly explained.

Within the duration of their conversation, the taxi stopped in front of entrance of the car shop.

After Wu Hao paid the fee and carried his two backpacks down, the driver secretly exclaimed, “This world really has any type of people. This was the very first time I saw someone carry along so much stuff to buy a car. Furthermore, he is going to buy a Benz. Even if he wanted to show off, couldn’t he tone down a bit? Rich men’s world is something hard to understand.”

Looking at Wu Hao carrying those huge backpacks towards the car shop’s entrance, the driver could not help but sigh.

Not only the driver was surprised. Even the security guard at the entrance and those salesman looking through the glass wall from inside were secretly tongue wagging with such scene in front of their eyes.

“Is this person crazy? How could he bring so many things here to buy a car? Also look at the way he dresses. Is that even someone who could afford to buy a Benz?!” A salesgirl showed a disgusted expression.

Salesman like them usually have a very good insight on someone based on their appearance. However, today these people are destined to judge incorrectly.

Entering the shop, Wu Hao found that there were a lot of staff there looking at him. However, nobody came to greet him as if he was not welcomed there.

When Wu Hao decided to walk with his backpacks towards the direction of front counter, a little girl ran with small steps to him.

“Hi, mister. What type of model are you looking for?” Li Xiaoyun asked Wu Hao with a professional smile. She was still an intern at the car dealer. Although she had worked there for more than 2 months, there were still many things which she was not familiar with. Coupled with her lack of sense in analyzing the situation, her sales performance was still a bit fat zero after 2 months plus.

Her 3 months internship was about to end. If she was still not able to make a deal, she would most probably have to say goodbye to her job.

Wu Hao looked at the young girl in front of him. Although she was beautiful, she was somehow immature. From one look, he could guess that she must have only recently started working.

“You guys here have the G500 model? I wanna have a look at it.” Since someone was there to greet him, of course he would not be shy to say his need. As for those who were masking their disdainful thoughts with polite smiles, Wu Hao was too lazy to even glance at them.

As for this G500 model, Wu Hao came across it through an online channel about risk taking. The founder of the channel apparently had two modified Mercedes G500.

This program was an instant hit in internet at launch. Basically, in the program, there was a couple, husband and wife leading a team and travelled around Middle East from the capital city with an adventure in the middle of a war.

In the past, Wu Hao had always been envious of those who get the opportunity to explore all around the world and feel the differences. He fantasized that one day he would be joining an exploration team for a risky journey.

But Wu Hao was very clear about this. Not anyone could just randomly join an expedition.

Thus, this idea was also the same as the other dream of adventuring in the wild. He could only think about it in his heart.

When Wu Hao decided to buy a car, the first model which came across his mind was the modified Merz G500. This was because in the current market, this model is the top notch among off-road vehicles.

Of course, the G500 in the program had already been modified. As compared to the stock G500, of course it won't be as great in performance.

However, to drive through that shitty road to his home with this car would not pose any problem at all.

When Li Xiaoyun heard Wu Hao's request, she was obviously shocked for a bit. She then proceeded to confirm with Wu Hao again. "Mister, you want to have a look at G500?"

"Yea! Is there any problem?"

"O! No, no, no problem!" worrying that she might say something wrong, Li Xiaoyun quickly explained.

However, when Li Xiaoyun was ready to bring Wu Hao to the other side of the hall to look at the car, a discordant voice came out of nowhere.

"Haha! Little girl, you wanna bring people to see car also you have to see their situation first. Look at him, girl. Does he look like someone who can afford a car? G500?! At first glance I could already guess he is a country bumpkin. I really do not understand how the security here works. Letting any random guy enter the shop. Don't you think it would disturb us when we are looking at cars?" A 30 year old plus fat man voiced out. Accompanying him was a young lady with face full of heavy makeup.

Just one look and anyone would be able to guess she must be from some nightclub which this fatty had brought along.

“Aiyo, let us ignore this bumpkin. I thought you promised to bring me here to view car?!” That girl said with a flirting voice. Once Wu Hao heard her voice he felt like vomiting.

He really could not stand the look of this woman. With such thick makeup on her face, is she trying to scare everyone around her to death?

However, hearing such remarks from the fatty, Wu Hao naturally could not just act like nothing happened.

“Hehe! Whether I can buy or not, open your dog eyes and have a look. Then you would know right?” Wu Hao, finishing this sentence did not even spare a second glance at the fatty. Instead, he turned towards Li Xiaoyun which was next to him and told her, “I think I am not going to look at the car. Do you have the white model? If you do, I want the car then. Get it done immediately as I want the car now.”

“A! White color, I have to ask my manager to know whether we still have them in stock or not.” Li Xiaoyun hearing this somehow had a delayed reaction.

Just then, a middle aged man quickly rushed to the scene. While smiling, he said, “Mister, rest assured. We do have the white model here.”

“That’s good then. You are the manager right? Then, ask your staff to handle it faster. I still need to go home! O ya, this girl was the one promoting to me just now. Just let her handle it then.” Wu Hao pointed at Li Xiaoyun while talking to the manager.

“Okay, mister. No problem!” The manager smiled at Wu Hao and commanded Li Xiaoyun who was still dazed. “Xiaoyun, quickly go and prepare the contract for this gentleman here.”

“A! Okay, manager!” Li Xiaoyun, hearing the command from the manager immediately rushed to get the contract with a hint of a blush on her face.

However, that fatty with a big mouth showed an expression of constipation. With his gloomy face, he thought in his heart. “Act, continue acting then. I want to see later what are you going to pay with.”

Chapter 13 - Head And Face Filthy With Grime

Obviously the fatty did not believe that Wu Hao could afford such a price tag; one million plus, nearing two million Yuan for such a luxury car.

His own Mercedes-Benz car, although it was also worth more than one million, that did not mean that he was very rich.

Because in today's society, those driving a luxury car in the street, some of them might even have negative assets! All the money spent was borrowed from the bank after all.

For example, this fatty was one of those people. Today, he brought along the girl to the car dealership without any desire in buying a car at all.

This girl was just someone fatty chatted with a few days ago through Wechat. After playing around for a few times, he could no longer stop the urge in himself. Thus, today his idea in bringing the girl to the car dealer was just to keep her in suspense.

As for buying her a Benz? He was not an idiot or a retard. How could he buy a Benz just to win the heart of a random girl? (E/N: So he's trying to make it look like he's a sugar daddy yet he has no money for the hunnies smh)

Li Xiaoyun worked efficiently. In just one trip, she had brought a contract in her hands in front of Wu Hao and the manager. Wu Hao just glanced at the contract and was ready to sign it. Then, he took out his bank card to pay the full amount.

“Later when I go back, I will drive it right away. That shouldn’t be a problem right?”

“No problem, Mr. Wu. After we finish our final tests on the car and attach a temporary number plate, you can just drive it right away. Just that I might have to bother mister to return back the temporary plate after settling the number plate.” The manager was obviously willing to entertain Wu Hao’s request since he had already paid the full amount.

Moreover, Wu Hao’s requirement was something common to them. This was because all the guests in this shop were mostly willing to pay the full amount. Basically, they would also request to drive the car right away.

Thus, for the procedure and testing etc, they would definitely do it in the simplest and fastest manner. This was done to make sure that not much of the customer’s time was wasted.

“Then that’s good. Now bring me to the car for some test drive!” Although Wu Hao had obtained his driver's license last year, he had never really driven a car on the road by himself. Plus, this G500 had a lot of functions which he needed to familiarize himself with. Thus, now was the best time for him to get used to it.

However, the whole process of Wu Hao signing the contract was seen by the fatty. Originally, he wanted to look at how Wu Hao shamed himself but he ended up standing there like a clown instead. The other customers who were looking at cars and even the staffs were quietly whispering to each other.

“Husband, let’s go and look at the car!” Noticing his black facial expression, the girl beside the fatty started to act cute again.

“Look your mum! Move the f*ck aside!” Hearing the girl’s voice, the fatty immediately raged. He threw the girl’s hand and walked away in a rush manner.

Wu Hao, who was on his way to test his car, sneered after he heard the footstep from his rear. He just ignored them and did not add in any words. In his view, that fatty was just an ignorant clown.

Reaching at the open space behind, Wu Hao had a quick test drive accompanied by one of the staff there. He was somehow able to familiarize himself with the operations of the car. In addition to his spiritual perception, Wu Hao was able to drive the car with ease.

After the test drive ended, all the relevant procedures had been completed and temporary license plate added on by the car dealership to ease the process.

Once all the business was done, Wu Hao did not wish to stay any longer. He placed his two backpacks in the back of the car and then left the shop by driving his fresh new car.

After Wu Hao left the shop, Li Xiaoyun was still in a dreamlike state. Never had she thought that her very first deal and transaction would actually be worth two million Yuan.

Based on her performance just now by welcoming Wu Hao properly, not only did she receive a generous bonus, she was also immediately hired by the manager to be a formal sales staff.

For Li Xiaoyun, the bonus and her job were both very important.

“With this bonus, I am one step closer to being able to afford the cost of my mother’s operation.” Li Xiaoyun secretly thought, her heart was sincerely grateful to Wu Hao.

After all, the reason she was able to be promoted to a regular employee and get the same commission rate as the official sales staff was all because Wu Hao spoke for her.

Otherwise, although she could still get a bonus, that would only follow the rate of temporary worker.

Wu Hao left the car centre. He opened the car’s built-in navigation system. Then, he punched in his address and drove his car according to the navigation system’s suggested route back.

Mercedes-Benz G500 not only had a tough domineering outer appearance, even the drive was also very comfortable. After all, this was a top of the line SUV. Naturally, all other models could not be compared with.

“En! Today is Friday, right? My sister should be on holiday then. If it’s like that, let me go visit her study place then!” Wu Hao’s sister was studying at a boarding school. Because the house was far from the school, and her family did not have a car, usually she would spend her weekend in the school dormitories.

Most of the time, she would only go back home once a month. Now, since they now had a car and tomorrow was weekend too, Wu Hao decided to take his sister for a trip back home.

From Chengdu to Sanyuan city, there were high speed expressway. Wu Hao started to depart at noon and reached Sanyuan city at only 6 o’clock. Since Wu Hao only knew his sister’s name and class but not contact number, he was forced to go to the school’s main gate and asked the security guard for help.

“Hello, uncle. I would like to ask where are the year 2 class 3 classrooms at? I want to find the second year Wu Xiaoxiao. I am her brother, Wu Hao.”

The security guard looked at Wu Hao closely. With some doubts, he said, “You came to find your sister? Then why didn’t you inform her before hand?”

“O! My sister still does not have a cellphone yet.”

Hearing this, the guard uncle didn’t believe him at all. After all, don't even mention high school students, even almost all junior high school students have a mobile phone.

From the look of it, he guessed Wu Hao's wasn't that old, yet he said he wanted to find his own sister. Thus, he considered Wu Hao as someone who was coming to the school trying to hook up with schoolgirls. Furthermore, these cases were something he had seen countless times. This school was one of the best on the city. The management of the school was extremely strict about the safety of the students. In order to have access to enter the school compound, all students must show their student card. Even the staffs all had their own card too. As for the outsiders, they were prohibited from entering.

“Uncle, I really came here to fetch my sister. Really, I did not lie at all.” Wu Hao said in a very helpless tone. He knew that nowadays all students basically had a mobile phone. It was just that his sister was not someone who wanted to compare with others.

At the same time, she knew that her family economic status was not good. Thus, she said that she was still young and usually had nobody important to talk to. Plus, having a mobile phone might hinder her concentration in studying. Until now, she did not let her family get a mobile phone for her.

Chapter 14 - Finding Someone To Run Errand

The guard of course did not believe Wu Hao's explanation. He reacted with a ferocious tone, "Even if you really came for your sister, you still can't enter here. Our school prohibits any outsider from entering the school compound casually. Furthermore, they are going to have self-study right now. You better get away!"

"Self-study? I thought today is Friday. The school is not on holiday?" Hearing the unfriendly reply of the guard, Wu Hao felt a bit bitter. After all, he was only here for his sister.

"Yea, it is holiday but those who stay at school will have self-study during the evening. You aren't even familiar with our school schedule and you are telling me you're here for your sister? Quickly get lost now." The guard acted as if he was impatient. He was already famous for being someone hard to deal with. Every outsider could not get past this obstacle to enter the school.

Even if they are the students of this school, they would still be locked outside the gate if there is no student ID card with them. They would then have to notify others to take the card for them or classroom teacher. Otherwise, they would have to wait outside as penalty!

Encountering this old man which insisted on barring him from entering, Wu Hao felt really helpless.

Just at that moment, Wu Hao caught sight of several students watching from the sideline. His heart immediately had an idea.

“That student, can you come over here for a moment?”

Not far from the gate, there was a male student with shy looking face. Although he did feel suspicious hearing the call from Wu Hao, he still walked towards the main gate.

“You called me?”

“Yup, you’re the one I am looking for. Do you know where the year 2 class 3 classroom is located?” Wu Hao asked with a smile.

“I know!” The shy boy thought silently, isn’t year 2 class 3 classroom the one next door!

“Then do you know Wu Xiaoxiao from that class? I am her brother. This 100 Yuan is for you. As long as you inform her and bring her here, I will give you additional 200 Yuan.” Wu Hao smiled before took out 100 Yuan and directly gave it to the shy boy.

The shy boy dazedly looked at the 100 Yuan in his hand. 100 Yuan is about half of his living expenses for a month. Never did he expect that by just passing on a message would get him so much money.

“What? Boy, you are not willing? Then what about I add an additional 100 Yuan?” Wu Hao thought that the boy was complaining about such little money. He then took out another 100

Yuan note and put it in the hand of the boy.

At this moment, the boy finally recovered from his daze. “Ai! No, it is not little. I will go pass this message now.” The boy said excitedly and rushed to a distant teaching block.

This scene was seen by the guard at the side. With his big round eyes, he stared at them and could not help but to curse in his heart. “This kid, willing to spend money ya? From the way he dresses, he doesn’t seem to be someone rich!”

With an additional 200 Yuan in his pocket, the shy boy excitedly came to the year 2 class 3 classroom. Through the window, he looked around the class and not long later, he found the figure of Wu Xiaoxiao.

Although he is not in the same class as Wu Xiaoxiao, he is still studying next door. Plus, Wu Xiaoxiao is a pretty girl. Beautiful girls will always be in the middle of attention no matter where.

Moreover, majority of the second year students including male and female more or less have heard of and seen Wu Xiaoxiao before. Of course, this shy boy was not an exception.

“Student Wu Xiaoxiao, can you come out for a moment? Your brother is waiting at the school gate to find you. He asked me to pass this message to you!” The shy boy with a deep breath shouted loudly at Wu Xiaoxiao who was in the middle of studying after gathering his courage.

Of course his shout caught the attention of others too.

“Xiaoxiao, someone is calling you!” A girl with rounded face sitting beside Wu Xiaoxiao whispered to her. However, she did not feel surprised at all since these scenes had happened countless times in the past.

Hearing the shout from the shy boy saying that her brother is waiting at the gate, Wu Xiaoxiao was indeed suspicious. But, she still stood up and walked outside to clarify the boy’s statement.

“You say my brother is looking for me? Then, briefly explain his appearance for me.”

“This.....your brother’s look is much more ordinary!” This shy boy was having difficulties in describing his appearance. Plus, Wu Xiaoxiao was so pretty. The young man claiming to be her brother was so ordinary looking and did not have a big figure. No matter how you look at it, you would never be able to relate this young man to Wu Xiaoxiao who was so attractive.

Hearing the boy’s mumbling reply, Wu Xiaoxiao still felt suspicious in her heart. However, she decided to have a look at the main gate. If this boy told her that the man was tall and handsome, she would certainly not bother at all.

This was because she did not have any tall and handsome brother. She only had a loving brother with an ordinary face.

“Xiao Wen, I wanna go out for a moment.” Thinking of this, Wu Xiaoxiao informed the girl with a rounded face next to her.

“Let me accompany you, I have never seen your brother before!” The girl named Xiao Wen had a little laugh to herself and followed Wu Xiaoxiao, leaving the classroom.

Along the way, the shy boy accompanied them. It was just that during the walk, he did not open his mouth at all to start a conversation. He was originally a very shy person. To be able to shout and call someone out in front of so many students was also because of the courage that Wu Hao gave him through the 200 Yuan.

Soon, when Wu Xiaoxiao and Xiao Wen were about to reach the main gate, they saw the figure of Wu Hao outside the gate. Confirming that the figure was her own brother, Wu Xiaoxiao happily ran to him.

“Bro, it is really you! Why have you come to my school to find me?”

“Hehe! I just came back from another city. After noticing that today is Friday and that you should be on a holiday now and ya, I come here to have a look at you. At the same time, I came to bring you home.” Wu Hao smiled.

Then looking at the shy boy behind Wu Xiaoxiao, he thanked the boy. “This boy, thanks for your help. And this, the rest of the money.”

“A! No need. You already gave me 200 Yuan just now.” The shy boy immediately rejected his offer. This was because after he found out that he is really Wu Xiaoxiao’s brother, the boy somehow felt wrong to accept so much money from him.

“Bro, why did you give him so much money!” Looking at Wu Hao taking out 200 Yuan, Wu Xiaoxiao asked him in a whispered tone.

“Nothing, just that I asked his help to call you out. Help me give this money to him. Your brother has already promised him!”

“O!” Although in her heart she somehow complained about Wu Hao’s spending his money wastefully, she still took the money and handed it to the boy.

“O ya, Xiaoxiao, go quickly and pack your stuff. In a moment, we are going back home! I will wait for you here.” Wu Hao then voiced out after he saw her handing the money to the shy boy.

“Go home? It’s already so late, where are we going to find a car! Also, since I stayed back at school, I need to self-study!” Wu Xiaoxiao was speechless at her own brother’s suggestion.

“Still want to self-study? Don’t tell me you need to attend lessons tomorrow?.”

“Of course there is no school tomorrow. Just that we who stay back at school need to self-study in the evening every Friday at the classroom.” Wu Xiaoxiao explained.

“Since there is no class tomorrow, then this evening’s self-study you can just skip. Let us go home together.”

“Bro, you have a fever? Right now it’s so late, where are we going to find a car!” Wu Xiaoxiao said with a complaining tone.

“Hehe! As for this, rest assured. Your bro actually drove here. No matter how late it is, we can still go home. Go faster, I will wait for you.” Wu Hao smiled.

“You drove a car here?” Wu Xiaoxiao looked at her brother suspiciously. Since her brother did not seem like he was joking, she then opened her mouth. “Okay. Then I will inform my teacher for the leave.”

Chapter 15 - The Teacher's Conversation

Soon, Wu Xiaoxiao left the school gate to get her leave from the teacher. On the way there, Xiao Wen, who kept her mouth shut the whole time, finally asked, “Xiaoxiao, is he really your brother? Why are the both of you totally not alike at all?!”

“If not alike, then what? It doesn't matter whether or not we're alike. In short, he is my brother, that's enough.” Wu Xiaoxiao replied with dissatisfaction. She hated listening to this the most.

This was because since young until they grew up, as long as she was together with Wu Hao, they would be questioned by others like this. Thus, Wu Xiaoxiao was already fed up with such topic.

“I was just a bit curious.” She noticed the annoyance of Wu Xiaoxiao therefore Xiao Wen quickly explained herself. Her home conditions with Wu Xiaoxiao were pretty similar. That was why they were both living in the same room and naturally ended up as good friends.

“Well, I am not angry with you, Xiao Wen. It was just that since I was young, I often heard this question and got tired of it.” Wu Xiaoxiao held Xiao Wen's hand and smiled.

“En! I know, but really, your brother is so rich! He's just passing a message to you and yet, he is willing to give so much money. Tell your brother next time, just find me to pass the message to you. Let me earn some extra money!” Xiao Wen excitedly said as she thought of this.

“You’re saying this! Until now, I still feel bad in my heart. I really don’t understand what my brother is thinking.” Wu Xiaoxiao complained once again after hearing it.

“Xiaoxiao, I think you are thinking too much about it. Your brother must have made a fortune outside or how could he be so generous! O ya, what does your brother do out in the world?”

“I’m not quite sure about his job but my brother majored in building construction. He had just graduated not too long ago from university. So, it’s kinda impossible for him to earn lots of money!” Although Wu Hao told her that he would make a fortune in the future to ensure her and her family a better life, Wu Xiaoxiao understood that in this society, to work and earn money was not an easy matter.

“Your brother just graduated from university?!” As she heard this, Xiao Wen really couldn’t guess how he made so much money. After all, a fresh graduate even if he was able to find a good job, the starting salary would obviously not be high.

Soon, Wu Xiaoxiao and Xiao Wen, while they were conversing with each other along the way, they had reached the school’s office. Then they found their class teacher.

Their class teacher was at least a 30 year old middle aged woman, wearing a pair of glasses. Usually she would wear a very serious expression but once Wu Xiaoxiao met with her, her face turned into one of happiness.

“Wu Xiaoxiao, Xiao Wen, why did the two of you come find me?”

“Teacher, I am here to ask for a leave. My brother came to the school to fetch me back home, so....” Wu Xiaoxiao somehow left a good impression on the class teacher. It was worthy to not that usually she would not show such expression to anyone. Furthermore, Wu Xiaoxiao’s academic performance was always excellent, within the few top rankings. She would always treat who excelled in their studies nicely.

“Leave to go home? It is already so late yet you still want to go home? Is your real brother picking you up?”

“Yes, teacher!” Wu Xiaoxiao quickly replied.

“Well, I will go see your brother first then!” The class teacher noticed that Wu Xiaoxiao did not seem to be lying and nodded her head.

It was not that she was suspicious, it was just that the sky was getting dark soon. Plus, Wu Xiaoxiao was so beautiful. Asking for leave at this time, what if she was going out with some bad youngster? This would mean that she did not fulfill her duty well enough as a class teacher.

In fact, the attitude they received from her was already considered good. If the other student who did not obtain good grades asked for a leave, she normally refused to do so.

“Oh! Okay, teacher!” After she heard that her class teacher wanted to meet her brother, Wu Xiaoxiao did not say much and just carefully tagged along to the main gate.

Very quickly, Wu Xiaoxiao, Xiao Wen and their teacher arrived at the main gate.

“Bro, this is our class teacher, Teacher Wu. She wants to meet you.” Wu Xiaoxiao stepped out in front of Wu Hao and with a low voice, introduced her.

As Wu Hao heard this, naturally he understood in his heart. However, he didn't think that this was a bother at all. In fact, he agreed with what the school management and class teacher had done.

If the school just let any random outsider enter the school compound, then this management was really too loose.

“Hi, Teacher Wu. I am Wu Xiaoxiao's brother. My name is Wu Hao. I am here for Xiaoxiao because tomorrow is a holiday, so I would like to bring her home with me.” Wu Hao smiled while he introduced himself to Wu Fang.

“Ya. Xiaoxiao is performing very well in school. I am just worried about Xiaoxiao's safety taking a leave at such late time. So, I came here to have a look.” After she saw Wu Hao, Wu Fang no longer doubted his identity.

Because when she looked at Wu Hao's ordinary appearance, he did not seem like someone who came to school and chased girls. (T/N: Finally his ordinary look benefits him..)

Of course, she did not consider Wu Hao as Wu Xiaoxiao's real brother. She just thought that he should be her cousin or something like that. After all, the difference between Wu Xiaoxiao and Wu Hao was like the difference between the heavens and the earth.

“Sorry for troubling you, Teacher Wu. Then, approving Xiaoxiao's leave should not be a problem right?”

“No problem. This afternoon after finishing the school session, the holiday officially begins. It is just that the school management set up the rules for those staying back at school to self-study during the evenings.” Wu Fang nodded her head as a sign of agreement. Then, she turned to face Wu Xiaoxiao, “Be careful during the journey with your brother. Also, remember to come back to school early the day after tomorrow.”

“Yes, Teacher Wu!” Wu Xiaoxiao quickly agreed.

“Bro, then wait a while for me. I need to go and pack up some clothes.”

“Nah, you don't have to pack up your clothes. Later on back at home, I'll bring you to buy new clothes. You just need to bring back your homework.” Wu Hao tried to stop her.

“I’ve already finished my homework when school finished just now!” Wu Xiaoxiao was surprised for a moment before whispered to him.

“If it’s like that then we can go now!” Wu Hao had a quick laugh and said farewell to Wu Fang, “Teacher Wu, then I will bring my sister back home now. The day after tomorrow I will take her back here.”

“Be careful during the journey, pay attention to safety!” Wu Fang replied back with a smile too.

Wu Xiaoxiao, who was still in a daze, finally reacted and told Xiao Wen who was beside her, “Xiao Wen, I am going back home now. Help me keep the books on the desk.”

“Yea, go now. Be careful, ya.”

Just like that, Wu Xiaoxiao walked out from the school and followed Wu Hao. As for the guard, naturally he didn’t stop her as the class teacher already gave her approval.

“Bro, where are we going now?!” After they left the school, Wu Xiaoxiao asked him.

“Of course we’re going to buy new clothes for you. I thought I had already told you just now!”

“You really want to buy new clothes for me? At home, there’s still clothes for me, there’s no need to waste money on them.” Wu Xiaoxiao was naturally happy in her heart but since young, she was already used to refusing such things.

In order to not hurt his sister’s feeling, he carefully explained what happened with a smile.

Chapter 16 - A White Lie

Even after she heard all this, Wu Xiaoxiao still mumbled to herself, “If you have money, you still must not waste like that!” It was obvious that she was still thinking about the errand fee given by Wu Hao just now.

Wu Hao, who walked in front of her, did not respond. In his opinion, by the time his sister saw his car, she would understand why was he so generous back then.

A few moment later, Wu Hao led Wu Xiaoxiao to the place which he parked his car. Here was the parking lot at the corner of the road beside her school.

It was just that when they were about to enter the parking lot, they saw several men pointing at something and talking among themselves.

“You all recognize what kind of car this is?”

“What bullsh*t are you talking about? Didn’t you see the logo in front of the car, that big Benz? Who wouldn’t recognize it?!”

“I know this is a big Benz. Then, do you know the price of this car?”

“En! From the model design, it should be within 700-800 thousand!” This man was obviously clueless and could not recognize the G500. That was because he thought that even though this car was new, the design was somehow old and square shaped. He then concluded the price tag about 700-800 thousand.

In those third tier cities like Sichuan, millions of cars could be seen on the road. However, any Benz cars were still quite rare. And this G500 model was even more uncommon.

In fact, G500 was not beautiful from its appearance. Plus, compared to the city SUV, Audi Q5, it seemed to be on the rough and wild side.

“Chi.....700-800 thousands! Let me tell you, this model you better not look down at it due to its old design. This car should cost at least 2 million Yuan.”

“2 million? F*ck! Such an expensive car! It’s even almost within the same price tag range as some sports cars.”

While these men had been discussing with each other, Wu Hao brought along Wu Xiaoxiao to the side of the car. He looked at the middle aged man who was beside the seat door and Wu Hao said with a smile, “This big brother, could you please step aside?” Then, he took out the car key and pressed on it which then caused the car doors to unlock.

The middle aged man who was told by Wu Hao to step aside subconsciously stepped backwards. It was not that he didn’t see Wu Hao just now but he never linked Wu Hao and this car together. Now, after had seen Wu Hao unlock the car, his old face started to turn red.

After all, this was indeed too embarrassing.

“Xiaoxiao, why are you still standing there day dreaming? Hurry up and get in the car!” After he had opened the door, Wu Hao had noticed that Wu Xiaoxiao was still stunned on the roadside and quickly called her.

“Ah! Oh!” Wu Xiaoxiao’s face turned red and her nerves were shaken. This was because several pairs of eyes were staring at her!

It the street, there are two things in particular which attract the attention of people’s eyes. First was luxury car and second was beautiful women. Now, a beauty appeared together with luxury car. There really was nothing more to say about such a combination.

Not only had the pedestrians continuously raise their eyebrows, even the passing vehicles could not help themselves from having a second look.

During this moment, numerous ideas appeared in Wu Xiaoxiao’s heart. Although she did not understand much about cars, BMW, Benz, and other such cars; she still knew about them.

Moreover, she faintly heard the conversation from the men that the price tag was at least 2 million.

“Hehe! Don’t you have many questions to ask bro?” Starting the engine, Wu Hao looked at Wu Xiaoxiao who seemed to have lots of question but hesitated and he asked her.

“En! I sure have a lot of questions. Did you do anything illegal outside? If not, how could you be so rich in such a short amount of time? I still remember you were hospitalized just several days ago.”

“Does your bro look like someone who would do something illegal? Ah! Actually it is really nothing. It’s just that several days ago, I accidentally bought a lottery ticket and won the jackpot prize. Thus, next time you don’t have to worry about our family not having money. From now on, bro will let you wear and use the best.” Obviously, Wu Hao would not tell her that he had won all of his money from gambling in Macao. After thinking here and there, he still ended up with using this lottery winning excuse. Although this reason did not seem to be convincing, it was still better than gambling. At the very least, it would not let his family worry about him.

“You hit the jackpot? Bro, am I still dreaming?! There really is someone who would win the jackpot?!” It was still hard to believe for Wu Xiaoxiao. However, her brother’s word to give the best for her really touched her heart.

“En! Even though the probability of winning the lottery is very low, this could still not stop your bro who is kind and has a good character! It doesn’t matter how low the probability is, I still hit the jackpot.” Wu Hao deliberately put on a good appearance and replied.

“Brother! You are the best under the heavens. Of course, mum and dad are also included!” Wu Xiaoxiao said and then gave a peck to Wu Hao who was driving the car.

Wu Hao touched his cheek and then pretended to complain, “We’re already so big, why do you still treat me as if I’m still a kid? Plus, I’m still driving right now!”

“I’m just too happy!” Wu Xiaoxiao stuck out her tongue with some shyness building up. (T/N: This sister would not appear in real life, a sister is just an annoying creature J)

As he looked at her, he just pleasantly smiled. He didn’t blame her intentions at all. This was because with his telekinesis and spiritual perception, he could still let the car go in auto pilot with hands free and still not cause any accident.

“Oh yea! Xiaoxiao, I bought you a smartphone, a smartwatch and a laptop. Have a look and them. See if you like them or not.” Wu Hao said so while he had been using one of his hand to get a small bag from the seat behind; inside contained the smartphone, the smartwatch, and the laptop which he bought from Macao.

“Wa! Isn’t this the latest ‘Fruit’ smartphone and laptop?! This is so expensive, bro!” Although Wu Xiaoxiao had never used them before, she still knew how valuable they were. Moreover, she had seen many students in her school use ‘Fruit’ smartphones but so far, she had yet to encounter those who used the smartwatch and laptop from this brand.

Compared to the smartphone, these smartwatches and high end laptops were still somewhat less popular. At least in this city's middle school, not many people used them yet.

“En! As long as you like them, it doesn't matter how expensive they are. On the way home, I will get you a phone sim card. With that, if you have anything important at school, you can just give me a call.” Wu Hao laughed. If it was the previous him, he had of course thought such things were indeed too expensive. As for now, with a different mentality, of course he would look at things differently.

In reality, Wu XiaoXiao really wanted to have her own smartphone deep in her heart. It was just that she knew about the family's financial problems; thus she always replied that it would affect her studies and to only buy it for her when she entered university.

With so many gifts from Wu Hao, she was naturally touched. “Bro, you are so nice to me!”

“Hehe! You are the cutest little sister. If I am not nice to you, then to whom do I have to be nice to?”

Along the journey, with them having been chatting and laughing together, the car quickly arrived at the city's largest shopping mall. After they found themselves a parking lot, he then stopped his car there. Wu Hao led Wu Xiaoxiao to the floor downstairs to get herself a sim card from the mobile store.

Then as they entered the mall, he was ready to buy new clothes for his sister. At the same time, he thought that he should get himself some decent clothes too.

Chapter 17 - All I Want

Soon, Wu Hao and Wu Xiaoxiao took the mall's escalator to the third floor which housed women's clothes. There, it had a vast majority of domestic clothing brand as well as several internationally renowned brand stores.

Of course for Wu Hao, he wanted to get the best for his sister. They then entered into one of those international brand stores.

“Can you please recommend several sets of clothes which suit her.” As they entered the store, Wu Hao asked for help from the salesperson.

This salesgirl took a look at Wu Hao and Wu Xiaoxiao's way of dressing. She did have some hesitation, though out of courtesy, she did not say anything.

“Okay, mister and miss. Please come with me.”

As he saw that his sister was somehow awkward, Wu Hao comforted her, “Go then, after you finish buying clothes, we still need to rush back home!”

“Okay then!” Wu Xiaoxiao hesitated for a moment and followed the salesgirl inside the store. Naturally, Wu Hao also walked behind their backs.

“Miss, these are the new products from our store. Have a look and see which ones you are fond of.” As they came to a row of showcase clothes, the salesgirl smiled at Wu Xiaoxiao while she introduced the products.

However, Wu Xiaoxiao still had not opened her mouth; yet Wu Hao who was following behind interrupted them, “Wrap up all of them up for me! I think these clothes suit her very well.” Wu Hao was actually telling the truth. After all, his sister was a natural beauty with her height nearing 1.7meter. Compared to this brother, her height was not far behind his.

It would not be exaggerated to say that she was a natural-born clothes hanger. No matter what she wore, she would still be good looking. Plus, Wu Hao knew that though his own sister did not know how expensive the price of the clothes in the store were, she would still know the clothes were certainly not cheap from the decoration of the store.

“Bro! This is too much. Just buying one is enough for me.” Wu Xiaoxiao told him in a blameful tone. No matter how much money Wu Hao won, in her point of view, he should not be so extravagant and wasteful!

After all, the winning money was limited. If it was spent recklessly, sooner or later all the money would be gone. This was not something that Wu Xiaoxiao wished to see.

However, when Wu Hao was about to open his mouth after he heard the complaint from his sister, from the side, a peculiar and non-harmonious voice traveled through the air.

“Yo! Who are they! They didn’t look at their status and still want everything? Do you know how much these clothes cost? Can you even afford them?” A 20 year old plus young girl with nice make up appeared behind Wu Hao with a big belly middle aged man. (T/N: Fatty 2.0 but a female instead)

The girl then looked at Wu Xiaoxiao who was in front of her, wore ordinary clothes, but still looked prettier than her with eyes of dislike and jealousy. In contrast, the middle aged man observed Wu Xiaoxiao with his eyes that brightly shined. There was really no need to guess that this man must have thought something dirty in his mind right now.

As he heard her voice, Wu Hao’s expression changed but he did not directly confront her. Instead, he faced the salesgirl and told her, “Why in your store is there a chicken(Chinese slang for prostitute) making noise as she likes. Those who don’t know would have thought that they entered into a chicken farm!”

“You jerk, who are you scolding?!” As she heard the word ‘chicken’, the girl reacted as if someone had stepped on her tail and she jumped out immediately. Then, she said to the middle aged man beside her, “Honey, he is scolding me. You need to give him a lesson!”

The salesgirl beside the scene and others further away in the store having seen such scene, they knew that if they did not do something, certainly the scene would turn ugly soon.

“Mister, do you still want these clothes?” The salesgirl quickly shifted the topic.

“Of course. Why wouldn’t I want them? Wrap everything up for me!” Wu Hao actually did not want to bother with those two bastards.

“Impossible! Those white clothes, I like them.” After she noticed that the man did not react to her whining, the girl then stared at Wu Hao with flaming eyes. Her own man surprisingly stared at the other girl. Although she had long known about the nature of her man, still at this very moment, she could not bear the insult.

“This miss, I am very sorry but that mister was the one who looked at them first. Lets see, you can have a look at the others too. There are still many new products in our store.” Although the salesgirl could not withstand the arrogant look of the girl, she could only smile as customer was always right.

Plus now she could clearly see that Wu Hao and co were not ordinary people who just entered the store for some window shopping. She was afraid they were the low-key type. After all, once Wu Hao opened his mouth, he requested to wrap up it all up. This was not something an average person would dare to say.

“No! Those clothes, I want them! Also, do you think that these country bumpkins would be able to afford them?!” With a change of expression, the girl continued to whine to the man beside her, “Honey, I really want that!”

“Okay, okay, okay, let’s buy them then!” The man looked at her with a generous expression.

Too bad Wu Hao could no longer ignore the words from the girl who scolded him and his sister. It was still fine if she just cursed at him. He would consider that as a bark from the random dog. However, even his sister was included too. It did not matter whether she was a female or not, Wu Hao decided to give her a good lesson.

As he was thinking this, Wu Hao suddenly burst out and laughed “Since these clothes had already been fancied by a ‘person’, then we don’t want it anymore. Xiaoxiao, let us see the others!” As he was facing the salesgirl, he asked, “Miss, this store still has other new arrival right? Take us to see the better ones!”

“No problem, mister! Here!” Hearing this from Wu Hao, the salesgirl was somehow relieved. If Wu Hao decided to compete with her then it would be endless.

“Heng! Still trying to act! Lets see when you pay your bill, how you’re going to act then!” As she was watching Wu Hao leave, the girl looked like a hen with its victorious look; she had a pretentious face of a winner that looked down upon the losers from a pedestal.

“Mister, these are the best new arrivals of this year, all of them are made by famous foreign designers....” Very quickly, the salesgirl led Wu Hao and Wu Xiaoxiao to the other side of the store and began to introduce the products.

“Ah! Not bad, indeed they look better than the others just now!” Wu nodded, “Xiaoxiao, pick one and try it!”

“Oh! Okay then!” Since Wu Hao insisted on buying luxurious clothes plus the incident a moment ago, Wu Xiaoxiao no longer tried to reject him.

As a result, with the help of the salesgirl, Wu Xiaoxiao selected a set of clothes and went to the dressing room to change. Moments later, Wu Xiaoxiao came out from the room with the new clothes on.

“Miss, you look so beautiful wearing these clothes.” Even as a fellow girl, the salesgirl could only sigh and admitted that Wu Xiaoxiao was indeed a natural born beauty.

“This is a matter of facts. My sister would look great no matter what she wore.” Looking at his newly transformed sister, Wu Hao laughed while he gave her a praise.

“Bro.....” Wu Xiaoxiao started to blush as she heard the comment from her brother. Although she herself felt that these clothes looked good, she had never worn such expensive clothes before. As she heard her brother mention this in front of stranger, this somehow made her feel shy.

“Hehe!” Wu Hao just smiled. Then he continued by asking the salesgirl beside them, “Please wrap up these few sets of clothes too!”

“Ah! Okay mister. Please wait for a moment.” The salesgirl was extremely surprised when Wu Hao really wanted to get all these clothes too. This was because they were among the most expensive ones in the store and the price would certainly not be cheap.

Chapter 18 - A Little Lesson

At first, she thought Wu Hao was just saying it without putting any real meaning into it. Apparently, Wu Hao was not joking and was really serious in buying all of them. Thus, the salesgirl quickly wrapped everything up and prepared to ring them up at the cash register.

After they reached the cash register, a colleague whispered to the salesgirl when she was preparing Wu Hao's payment matter. "Juan jie, do you really believe that that man could afford our store's clothes?! If he really didn't have that much money, then it will be such a big joke instead." (E/N: pronounced joo (like too)-anh and jie is chinese for sister or for younger people when referring to older/higher ranked women).

"You don't understand. People nowadays can't be judged from only their appearances. Some of them are really low key." The salesgirl was indeed a bit nervous in her heart but her words did not show that at all. She was even pretending to explain it to her colleague.

Soon, the salesgirl wrapped everything up neatly and was ready for Wu Hao to pay. She then walked towards Wu Hao and respectfully said, "Mister, your items have been wrapped up. Please follow me to pay for the clothes."

"Oh! Okay!" Wu Hao nodded as if he did not care and then followed the salesgirl to the cashier counter.

“Mister, the total here is 315 thousand, are you going to pay with card?” Of course as she said these words, it wasn’t like she was expecting him to pay with cash. . After all, nowadays, who in the world would bring out so much cash to shop for clothes?

“Oh, the swipe card then!” As for the price, Wu Hao was not surprised at all since, in his heart, he had somehow already estimated the cost of the clothes. Thus, he happily brought out his bank card for her to charge.

Soon after the successful payment transaction, the few salesgirls in the store who originally doubted Wu Hao now saw him in a new light.

Their heart were exclaiming, “Indeed how low key! They were such normal clothes.”

As for Wu Xiaoxiao who was beside him, she was already in a daze by herself when she heard the figure of 310 thousand. Although she had expected that these few sets of clothes would not be cheap in her heart, never had she ever imagined that they would actually cost more than 300 thousand.

“We’re done here, Xiaoxiao. Stop blankly staring over there. Let’s go. We still need to go to other places and have a look!” Wu Hao called his sister and then, took the initiative to hold those big bags.

Of course, before he left, he would not forget about that noisy and cheap mouthed woman. Through his perception, he was able to pinpoint the exact location of the woman. Apparently, she was dragging around the big bellied middle aged man to see her change outfits!

“Honey, what are you looking at? Help me pull the zipper up from behind!” As she had noticed the man was diverting his sight to the store entrance, her heart was indeed very dissatisfied. But, she still whined at her man.

It turned out that this woman had tried on several sets of clothes. The reason she did so was an intentional one. Her aim was none other than to attract the attention of the man.

“Oh! Good!” The man looked at the entrance every few moments but still couldn’t see the figure of Wu Xiaoxiao and then, unwillingly replied back. Apparently, his feelings towards the shadow of Wu Xiaoxiao was still beaming around non stop in his heart.

However, with this woman beside him and Wu Hao who only stayed next to Wu Xiaoxiao, although he indeed had some ideas, he dared not to act upon them in real life.

Wu Hao, who had already exited the store, noticed the scene through his spiritual perception. This made him pay attention to them immediately. The moment when the man helped pull up the zipper from behind the woman, he activated his telekinesis ability in a timely fashion.

“Krrkkk!” With just a sound, the clothes on the body of the woman had torn into two halves by the man in a blink of an eye. Even the woman's bra was also torn into pieces together with the clothes.

“Ahhh!” A scream could be heard from the woman's mouth. In that moment, her upper body was entirely exposed to the air. Several customers who were looking at the clothes and the salesgirl were completely shocked by the scene in front of them.

“What's going on here? Are they trying to emulate that wild version of 'UNIQLO' in such a public place? Seems that the two bosoms of her front have gone under under the knife quite a few times! There're still some bruises present.” This was the voice of a man who accompanied his wife there to buy clothes. (T/N: UNIQLO refers to the case of a Chinese couple having their d*ggie style in the store's fitting room while recording it.) (E/N: Either the author likes pop culture or huehue there's some other fantasies here.)

Whereas for the female staffs and customers in the store showed faces full of disgust. In their hearts, they were cursing this dog couple who were really shameless.

This 'culprit' middle aged man was somehow in a dazed state. Although he was indeed brave enough to do so in private, he would naturally not do such things to a woman in public.

“Honey, you.....” As she was being stared at by countless pairs of eyes, the woman's face flared up. She quickly covered the two lump of fats on her chest with her two hands and complained to the man.

“I didn’t.....I was only trying to help you pull up the zipper....” Frustration could be seen on the face of the middle aged man when he noticed that those around the scene were looking at him.

Wu Hao no longer paid attention to them as he laughingly give a little lesson to the woman. Although this woman’s body wasn’t considered bad, just based on that black lump of excess fat on her chest, Wu Hao didn’t even need to guess that this woman was indeed a sinister woman. Furthermore, she was the type to have a very dark personality.

As for such woman, Wu Hao obviously wouldn’t even have the slightest interest towards her. If it was Qin Sisi from a few days ago, Wu Hao wouldn’t be able to hold himself to have a couple peeks at her. As for this woman, forget about it.

After left the clothes store, Wu Hao brought Wu Xiaoxiao to a shoe store and then to a jewelry store. Finally, when they passed by a lingerie store, Wu Xiaoxiao with rosy cheeks, told Wu Hao that she wanted to get herself two new pairs of undergarments.

As he noticed the variety of designs and colors of the underwear hanging all over the store, Wu Hao naturally felt shyness in entering the store. Thus, he took out the cash he brought with him from his wallet and passed them over to Wu Xiaoxiao. He chose to just wait outside the store entrance. (T/N: Why so shy?)

As for Wu Xiaoxiao, she did not take much time before she exited the store. Then, both of them went to a men’s clothing store.

There, Wu Hao bought several pairs of clothes for himself and also let his sister pick two for their parents.

This shopping trip took them at least an hour in total. Wu Hao who was carrying the big and small bags, left the shopping mall with Wu Xiaoxiao. After he placed all their purchases into the trunk of the car, Wu Hao started the engine and headed towards the direction of their home.

The car which Wu Hao bought was a white G500 4X4², a recently released version in the market. Compared to the normal G500, the appearance was even more domineering. The car was even higher which made it suitable for off-road driving.

From Sanyuan city to their hometown, those old roads, especially the last several kilometers that led to their home, those roads were like jungle roads.

If it was a normal car, most likely it wouldn't be able to get there. Fortunately, Wu Hao bought this off-road monster, the G500. Thus, during the whole journey to the village, they sat in the monster of a car and didn't feel any bumps at all.

Only on the mountain road, the little road which led to the village, had they started to feel some shaking.

When they were approaching the village, Wu Xiaoxiao, who was sitting in the passenger seat, curiously asked Wu Hao, "Bro, this time coming back home, do you intend to go out again?"

Chapter 19 - Villager's Amazement

As he heard the question from his sister, Wu Xiaoxiao, Wu Hao then thought for a moment. “En! Temporarily, I think I won’t go anywhere. I’ll wait until we finish renovating our house. Only then will I decide!” This time around, he would go back home and not go out anymore. At least for these several months, he didn’t have any intention to do so.

“Oh! Bro, though you are now rich, you must still save some for the future. The best way would be if you invested money in some business or whatnot, or else one day you would spend everything till you’re bone-dry.” Hearing the words from Wu Hao, Wu Xiaoxiao just nodded and gave him advice like a housekeeper would.

“Hehe! I know! Acting like a little housekeeper, you!” Wu Hao made fun of her.

“What! I did this for your own good also!” Wu Xiaoxiao snorted with some dissatisfaction.

As the G500’s bright headlights shined into the village, those villagers who had not slept yet, discovered such a scene from afar.

“Now it’s already so late at night. Who would drive into our village?” The old man Zhang began to ponder as the headlights were getting closer and closer to the village.

In their village, forget about at night, even during the day, when the sky is still bright, the number of vehicles entering the village would be something negligible. That was because of the road leading to the village could not be traveled on by any ordinary cars.

Unless there was someone in the village renovating their house, only then would they purchase the building materials from the town which would be transported here by a huge truck. Moreover, it must be under the condition that there was no rain to be able to get into the village.

Once it became a rainy day, forget about cars, even those several villagers that had a motorcycle would rather choose to walk to the town rather than to ride into town.

This was because once your vehicle was stuck in the pit, it would not be people riding it but the vehicle riding people instead.

Soon, from the perspective of the old man Zhang, the car's headlights were getting closer. Then, the car stopped at an open space in the village entrance.

Since Wu Hao's home was not at the roadside, the car obviously couldn't be driven into their own small courtyard.

From the place where he parked his car, the distance to his house, by following the little field road, was about two to three hundred meters away. His house was just a single story house with three rooms.

Of those three rooms, one was for his parents. Another one was the central room. The last remaining room was obviously the room that both siblings shared. (T/N: Wow, this just sound wrong coming from a Chinese family.) (E/N: Don't worry, i gotchu baby.)

However, since Wu Hao went off to college, this room basically became his sister's own personal room.

“Uncle Zhang!” Wu Hao greeted old man Zhang, who was curiously looking from the roadside, as he was getting out of the car.

“You, you are Wu Hao?” Old man Zhang said with some uncertainty.

At that moment, Wu Hao's sister, Wu Xiaoxiao also got off from the car. She then looked at old man Zhang with some courtesy and greeted him, “Uncle Zhang, he's indeed my brother, Wu Hao!”

“So it's Xiaoxiao! The sky's so dark; for a moment I wasn't able to see clearly.” Once old man Zhang saw Wu Xiaoxiao, he immediately noticed her. (T/N: I dare to bet that this old man is a pervert.)

Then, a few villagers who were still awake came to the side of old man Zhang. As they noticed the one who drove the car into their village was Wu Hao and his sister, they were greatly surprised.

After several greetings, and after seeing the enthusiasm from the villagers, Wu Hao didn't dare to act cold and thus, he politely said, "Uncles, aunties, the sky isn't bright anymore. My sister and I want to go back home now. If there is anything, let's have a chat tomorrow."

"Okay, okay!" A few old men and women replied back immediately.

At first, they were curious because it was already so late at night and yet, somehow drove into their village. Now that they knew the driver, they were indeed surprised at why Wu Hao drove home, but nobody dared to directly ask him.

Soon after, as he carried those small and big bags, Wu Hao accompanied Wu Xiaoxiao along the narrow field path to their home.

After Wu Hao brought Wu Xiaoxiao and left, a few old villagers, some young men, and several young women didn't leave immediately. Instead, they began to admire the car.

"Zhao Dong, you have left our village before. Do you recognize this car?" A 40 year old plus uncle asked the youth beside him who looked around 25 years old.

"What other car could this be?! This is a Benz! This is a serious car, freaking expensive!" Zhao Dong could be considered in the village's younger generation. He was older than Wu Hao by a few years. When he hadn't even finish his junior school (E/N: probably like junior high, intermediate, or middle school), he had already left the village to find a fortune.

Two years ago, he married a young woman and decided to stay at his old home. There, together with a few of the villagers, they made a living by doing house renovations. Although he didn't know the specific model of this Benz, that big sign in front of the car, how could he not recognize it?

In today's society, although there are people who didn't understand much about cars, the two brands Mercedes-Benz and BMW were basically known everywhere.

In the eyes of most people, the Benz and the BMW represented luxury cars. Although these brands are indeed internationally renowned brands for luxury cars, besides those model which reached millions, there were still some mid-range models.

“So this is a Benz! No wonder it's such a huge car! How much is it worth?”

“This, I'm not sure about the specific price. However from the looks of it, it should be at least a few millions!” Zhao Dong wasn't entirely sure of the price so he could only give a vague estimation.

Indeed, this price gave them a huge surprise. This was because in their San Xi village, there were only about 100 plus villagers. The wealthiest one would be the household of Yao Shixiong, but he only bought a truck.

This Yao Shixiong was more than 30 years old. Only in recent years, had he started to make quite a fortune. In this area, he could be considered as a small contractor.

And now, Wu Hao drove back a Benz, which was worth millions, home. This was indeed San Xi village's very first time for such thing to occur.

Whereas on the other side, after walking through the narrow field path, Wu Hao and Wu Xiaoxiao reached their home courtyard. Wu Xiaoxiao then shouted to the direction of the house.

Now the night had already reached about 10pm. Due to having to wake up early tomorrow for the farm work, their parents would generally sleep very early at night.

“Mum, dad! Brother and I are back!”

In the house, Wu Hongguo and Zhang Huilan heard the voice from the outside and in a few breaths, opened the door. Seeing Wu Hao and Wu Xiaoxiao in front of them, they were indeed surprised.

“Xiaoxiao, how did you two come back?”

“Mum, dad, let's enter the house first and brother will then tell you!” Looking at her own dad and her mom behind him, Wu Xiaoxiao grinned.

After placing all the big and small bags nicely in the house, Wu Hao then briefly started to explain about his 'lottery winnings' and about him fetching his sister back from school.

“You mean you bought a lottery ticket and won the jackpot?!” hearing Wu Hao’s explanation, Wu Hongguo began to ask as he found this hard to believe.

“En! Yea!” Although he was indeed not too confident with such excuses, Wu Hao really couldn’t find any other ideas to explain his source of money. He couldn’t be honest to his parents as it might make them worry instead.

“Then, this time coming back home, what’s your plan? Also, about this money, you already have any idea about what you’re going to do with it?” After calming himself from the initial shock, Wu Hongguo then asked Wu Hao.

Chapter 20 - Contracting The Mountain

In his point of view, since Wu Hao won himself millions in the jackpot, of course as a father, he had to fulfill his duty to ensure his son's future plans.

However, as a father, he didn't want to stomp the growth of his child so he chose not to say anything. Instead, he wanted to hear about Wu Hao's own ideas first.

Hearing this, Wu Hao didn't think too deeply about it and briefly shared his own thoughts.

“Dad! Actually, I already have it planned out. Last year, you voiced out your desire to contract a piece of land in the mountains behind us to plant herbs, right? Since we have the cash now, we must act quickly to contract that piece of land before others take it. As for me, I don't have any plans to go out for now. I'll stay here at home and help out with the planning.”

“Also, I would like to upgrade the mountain road leading to our village. At the same time, I'll renovate our house to be more spacious and comfortable.”

Wu Hongguo listening to Wu Hao's idea didn't agree nor object. “Your idea isn't bad. But won't contacting a piece of land all of a sudden in the mountains pose a great risk?”

“Also staying in the village won't give you a bright future. I think you had better deposit your winnings into the bank and get yourself a nice job in the city. These winnings, keep it so that you can purchase a house later on.”

Wu Hongguo naturally did not wish for his own children to be like them. To be trapped in this nest in a mountain valley for a lifetime.

“Dad! As for buying a house in the city, let’s just talk about it later. The main reason I came back here is to renovate our old house. So that you two and sister would be able to enjoy a better life here.”

“This house actually doesn’t have many problems. Only that it’s now a bit too small as you and your sister are forced to be squeezed together into the same room.” Wu Hongguo nodded his head. This matter of Wu Hao wanting to renovate the house was something he agreed on.

“En! Since dad has agreed, tomorrow, I will find some men to take care of the house renovations. Oh yea, also regarding the road upgrade, I will need to bother you to inform the village chief.”

“Although upgrading the road would cost quite a sum of money, indeed, this is a good contribution to the village. As for this, I have no opinions about it. Tomorrow, I will visit the village chief and inform him.”

“Okay, dad! Now the day is no longer early. Mom and dad, go sleep then. Also, in this bag are the clothes and some gifts which my sister and I chose for you two. Try them on to see whether they suit you guys or not.” Picking up the large bag from the floor, Wu Hao handed it over to his father’s hand.

“This child, now that you have money, you shouldn’t waste it like that! Coming back home, why still buy this present?!” Wu Hao’s mother said with a hint of a blaming tone but her face still showed a smile.

“Mum, this is just brother’s sincerity.” Remembering her own clothes worth several hundred thousand, Wu Xiaoxiao didn’t dare to tell her parents. She worried that they would even place more blame on Wu Hao.

After their parents went back to their room next door, Wu Hao then told his sister, “Well, it is not early anymore. Quickly unpack your stuff and go to sleep soon.”

“I know! I will go unpack everything then.” Wu Xiaoxiao stuck out her tongue and went into her room to start unpacking as Wu Hao told her to.

In their room, there were two beds. As for Wu Hao’s bed, it would normally serve as a place to put things on top of. Since he had returned back home, he would have to clean up his bed.

Everytime Wu Hao went back home, Wu Xiaoxiao would always help him clean up everything. Thus, Wu Hao had already been long ago accustomed to her actions.

... ..

The following day, when the sky started to turn bright, Wu Hao already woke up. Of course, he actually did not sleep at all last night. Instead he had been non-stop repeating the cycle of using his power and restoring them back with his special breathing technique.

During the process of restoring his power, all aspects of physical fatigue also slowly disappeared.

Therefore, for the current Wu Hao, even if he didn't sleep for several days continuously, he wouldn't have even the slightest hint of sleepiness. Instead, each time after he recovered from the power consumption, he would be more energetic.

“Why did you wake up when it's still early? How about you sleep a bit longer?” Noticing Wu Hao had already awoken, Wu Hongguo asked him unexpectedly.

This was because in the past, this brother and sister pair would usually sleep in until seven or eight in the morning before waking up.

“Oh, I am already used to waking up early when I worked in the city.” Wu Hao just casually answered before continued, “Yeah dad, I thought about it last night and renovating our house doesn't seem to be the best plan here.”

“Instead, I’m going to build an even better house near the mountains at the back. The land there is next to the mountains and a river too. Building a house there would be nice.”

The place which Wu Hao mentioned was about seven to eight hundred meters away from here. The piece of land which Wu Hao mentioned was not that high in altitude and at the bottom of the mountain there was a ten meter wide river flowing.

The river flowed directly from the center of the village, passing through the villager’s houses which were condensed at the place where Wu Hao parked his car last night.

Hearing Wu Hao’s words, Wu Hongguo was somehow able to guess his idea, “Then this new house, are you going to build it like a villa?”

Nowadays, in the rural areas, these kind of villa-like houses were quite abundant, especially in the several villages nearby. There were quite a number of such houses there. As for their own village, there was such a house being built a year ago. As for the owner of the house, it was none other than the one who made a fortune in the recent years, Yao Shixiong.

“Yes! Indeed that was my plan all along. Furthermore, in our village, building such a villa would not cost much money. Plus, building in the back mountain not only provides a peaceful environment, it would also ease our work later in taking care of the herbs in the mountain.”

“You’re really serious in trying to contract a piece of land in the mountain?! Do you know how much money is needed to contract that big piece of land down? Plus the cost to plant the herbs? If during the planting process, some unwanted incident happened then what?” Wu Hongguo raised several questions consecutively.

Although he did plan to do so last time, contracting dozens of acres of land to plant herbs, after considering all the cost and risk which he had to face, was crazy. He decided to be honest with himself and engage in a small scale plantation instead.

After all, he didn’t have any savings. Plus, considering he still had to make sure Wu Xiaoxiao completed her education, he didn’t dare to take the risk. If this plan really failed, his household would be devastated by such a major blow.

“Dad! You don’t have to worry. We won’t have any losses. As long as you follow my words to contract that piece of land down, then it’ll be alright.” Although Wu Hao wasn’t confident that contracting the land to plant herbs would bring any profit, if this plan really didn’t bring much profit in the future or the herbs faced some accident during the process, they would not affect him at all.

He just wanted to find a reason to stay at home. If he really wanted to make money, he could have just gone into the deeper parts of the mountain and harvested some valuable herbs to exchange for cash.

Chapter 21 - Sponsoring The Road's Upgrade

Noticing Wu Hao had already decided, Wu Hongguo could only helplessly sigh, “Since you have decided, I can only support you. Later I will meet with the village chief and talk to him about this matter.”

In Sanyuan city, planting herbs and gaining a fortune was not something uncommon. There are quite a few people who did that. For example, in the neighbouring village, several families did purchase under contract some mountain land and planted herbs which then earned them a large amount of profit.

Of course, while there are some who gain money, there will be exceptions as well. In general, it depended on their way of management and their planting experience and more importantly, current market trends and demand.

When the sky's color gradually turned bright, after having breakfast, Wu Hongguo and Wu Hao went together to the village chief, Wu Sancai's household.

Speaking of Wu Sancai's household, it actually has a distant blood relationship with Wu Hao's family. It should be during Wu Hongguo's great grandfather's generation.

“Hongguo, you came so early find me. Are there any matters?” The village chief saw Wu Hongguo and Wu Hao who was behind him and asked with some curiosity.

This morning, Wu Sancai heard about Wu Hao driving back to the village in an expensive car and he had gone to have a look. In fact, he was not the only one who knew about it. Most out of the hundreds villagers also knew regarding this matter. Of course, in addition to being surprised, endless envy was a part of their feeling.

“San ge, actually is like this. My son here has made quite a fortune outside. This time, he came back to try his luck planting. Isn't there is a piece of land at the mountain behind which you had wanted to be contracted out? Today I come to find San ge to discuss about this matter.” Wu Hongguo smiled and explained his purposes while handing a cigarette to Wu Sancai's. (T/N: Don't smoke!)

As for Wu Hao, he did not smoke. Thus, he had not prepared such things.

However, seeing this scene, Wu Hao planned to get himself a few cigarette boxes when he went outside the village. Keeping some in his car would made his job easier when trying to ask for favours from someone.

“This is a good thing! A few years ago, our village did plan to contract out that piece of land. It was just that the land is really large and our villagers here did not have the ability to contract it in one go. Whereas outsiders did not pay any attention to our place; thus that piece of land had been abandoned for so long.”

“However, Hongguo, the cost to contract that piece of land is not small. What does your son, Wu Hao plan to do with it?”

“Uncle San, I intend to plant herbs on the land. As for what species, I still have not decided as I still need to do some research. For now, the most important thing is to contract the land and build our new house there.” Wu Hao took the initiative to explain with a smile.

“So this is the case! Building a house is just a small matter. The rules here are not strict either. After you have chosen the location, you just need to inform me to report it and it is good to go.” Wu Sancai nodded. Since Wu Hongguo had said that Wu Hao made a fortune, then building a new and spacious house was certainly inevitable.

Nowadays, in the rural areas, whenever someone made a fortune outside, the first thing they do when they back home would be to build themselves a new and better house. Even their own village’s Yao Shixiong used the money he made to build a small western-style villa.

“O yea. Besides this, I also want to contribute to this village by upgrading the mountain road which leads to our village. That road is simply too bad to be used.”

“What? You say you want to sponsor the road repairs?” Wu Sancai was shocked to hear that. He even thought his ears had heard wrongly and could not help to ask again.

“Yes, Uncle San! I intend to spend money to upgrade the road into a cement road. Then, it will be more convenient for the villagers to go to towns outside for a trip or for business.”

“Hongguo, how much did your son earn?! Contracting the land and repairing the road, is the money enough for all this? You must know that to repair that whole road is not something cheap at all!”

“San ge, I will just tell you the truth then! This kid here had bought himself a lottery and won the prize. To contribute to the village by repairing the road is something I am fully supportive of.” Hearing this, Wu Hongguo directly told the truth to Wu Sancai.

Wu Hao who was beside them, helplessly sighed after heard this. He knew that after the words from his father, this news of him winning lottery would soon spread miles apart. (T/N: I blame his dad! Useless..)

And now he somehow felt some regret for using this reason to cover up his source of money. Since things had gone this far, Wu Hao could only play along.

“Haha! So it is like that. Then, I will rest easy. Plus, you sounded so determined.” Hearing the explanation from Wu Hongguo, Wu Sancai no longer worried about Wu Hao lacking any money.

As for winning the lottery, he knew quite a bit about it. Winning the jackpot would earn at least several millions of yuan. Even the cost of contracting the land or repairing the road would not be close to a million.

After all, the road leading to the village was not that long in distance. Plus, a few years back the government had cleaned up the trees along the road, so they wouldn't fall during the seasonal heavy storms.

Now with just some sand and cement poured on top of the road with some minor repairs, it should not be much of a problem.

“Uncle San, then how much do you think contracting the land and repairing the road would cost in total?” Wu Hao asked.

“Well that piece of land is about 2000 acres. Since you forked out the money to build the village road, I will let you have the land at 100 Yuan per acre. How long do you plan to hold contract?” Wu Sancai thought for a while and offered the lowest price for the contract.

Of course the reason he did this was because Wu Hao is willing to sponsor the cost for the road upgrade. He believed that for this price, even if the villagers had a vote, there should not be any problem.

“As for the road upgrade, even I am not sure about the exact cost of it. Well, we can do it this way. Wu Hao would just have to pay for the materials and equipment hire. As for the other costs, our village will take care of it.”

“This way, when the time come, all the costs would only come from the materials and equipment hire.”

“En! Then, I will follow your plan then. Let me give you one million first to buy the material and rent equipment. If this money is not enough, just inform me. As for the contract duration, I think I will go for 30 years! I can pay for 3 years in one shot.” After thinking, Wu Hao told Wu Sancai his decision.

After settling these matters, the next step was for Wu Sancai to gather all the villagers and inform them about this matter. Then, he went to the town with Wu Hao for the relevant procedures of contracting the land. Afterwards, they went to a bank at the town to transfer 1.6 million to Wu Sancai. (T/N: What if Sancai runs away with all the money?!)

The 600 thousand was given as part of the village fund. The specific allocation would be decided later on by Wu Sancai and all the villagers in each household.

The remaining 1 million would be used to buy materials and equipment hire. From earlier works, Wu Sancai knew some of the road construction team. That very noon, Wu Sancai prepared a few trucks and related mixing equipment. At the same time, he also settled the matter of sandstone and cement.

Chapter 22 - Building House Preparations

After handling all these matter, specifically in the construction part, Wu Hao no longer needed to worry about it anymore.

During noon when he reached the village, Wu Hao brought along his sister to the back mountain to pick the location for the construction of their new house.

However, after looking around for half a day, Wu Hao couldn't really decide although he had selected a few good spots.

This was because building a house could be considered a major event. As for the specific location and address, it would have been better to seek advice from a feng shui master to have a look at.

After all, whether building a new structure in a rural area around ordinary people or those luxury high rise buildings in the city, those new construction sites would always be visited by such masters specifically.

Although the old Wu Hao didn't entirely believe in feng shui, the current him had such monstrous abilities. As for feng shui, for it to survive in China for more than 5000 years, there must be at least some truth regarding its existence.

In their village, there was one man who understood this topic well. This person was already over 60 years old. Usually, the villagers here would ask for him to have a look whenever there were any plans to renovate or build houses.

Back home, Wu Hao talked to his dad regarding this matter. Wu Hao's dad didn't have any opinions about it.

Thus, the next day, the both of them went to find the old feng shui master to pinpoint the final location for the new house's construction early in the morning.

Coincidentally, the final location decided was one of the choices Wu Hao made yesterday.

Behind this location by a few hundred meter, it was surrounded by mountains. As for the other side of this location, it was facing the village's river.

According to Wu Hao's idea, he decided to dig out a man made pond near the small river. In the future when he wanted to rear fish or something else, it would be a nice plan.

After selecting the location, it was now the time to get service of a house designer and the specific aspects of the construction matter. It was just that in the afternoon that day, Wu Hao's sister needed to go back to her school.

As a result, to find someone to design and decide the construction matters, this would have to be temporarily delayed for the next day.

Just like that, after lunch, Wu Hao prepared to send his sister, Wu Xiaoxiao back to school with his car. The journey back there from the village would take about two to three hours.

If they were to take bus, it would take at least twice the time. This was because halfway through, the passengers needed to change buses. Plus, the bus needed to stop at every station and it was difficult to travel on a road in such a terrible state.

With all these delays, it would most likely take half a day to reach the destination.

This was why his sister would only go back home once a month or during semester breaks. Everytime she went back home, she could only be there for half a day. As for the rest of the time, it was all spent on the bus itself.

Reaching the city, when they were approaching the school, Wu Hao stopped outside bank's door. He then turned his head facing Wu Xiaoxiao who was besides him and said, "Xiaoxiao, give me your card. I will transfer you your living expenses."

"Bro, I still have at least 1000! No need for such a thing!" Wu Xiaoxiao cried out. This 1000 Yuan plus was the leftover from when Wu Hao gave her money to buy undergarments.

"Just over 1000? How is this enough?! Hurry up and give me your card number now!" Without waiting for her reply, Wu Hao extended his hand.

As she saw this, Wu Xiaoxiao could only helplessly take out her bank card and passed it to him. Wu Hao took the card and sneered. “Okay, wait for me in the car. I’ll be back soon.”

“Alrighty then.” Wu Xiaoxiao nodded and no longer added any extra words.

Due to having very few customers in the bank, Wu Hao found himself an empty window in the blink of an eye when he walked into the bank.

“Well, I’ll have to bother you to deposit 200 thousand into this card.” Wu Hao said so while handing over both his and his sister’s card.

“Okay. Please wait for a moment.” Hearing this, the teller quickly finished the process. Within two minutes, Wu Hao had finished the money transfer and headed straight to his car.

“Xiaoxiao, I had just transferred 200 thousand into your bank. From now on at school, don’t be afraid to spend money. Just buy anything that you like.”

“Bro! Why did you give me so much money?! 200 thousand, how could I spend that much at school? What if I lost the card?” Knowing that Wu Hao had given her such huge sum of cash, Wu Xiaoxiao asked him in a surprised and blameful tone.

“If you can’t spend it all, just keep it for yourself when you enter university!” Wu Hao laughed. He didn’t mind at all because the main goal when he won this money was to make sure that his parents and his own sister led a better life. Plus, he took money very lightly because earning money was an easy feat for him.

Very soon, the car reached the street near the school. Wu Xiaoxiao refused to be dropped off at the school gate because she didn’t want to attract attention from the school. Since his own sister didn’t want to be the center of the attention, Wu Hao also didn’t mind. He then dropped her on the nearby street. After all, walking a distance of 100 to 200 meters was not something difficult.

“Alright. Pay more attention when you’re in school. Don’t follow others to go to any KTV or such places to enjoy yourself. You know? If you really have to go, give me a call. I’ll accompany you there.” When she got down from the car, Wu Hao still couldn’t hold himself back from warning his sister. (E/N: KTV is karaoke)

After all, nowadays, student going to KTV or such places was the norm. However, these places were always filled with devious things. Plus, his sister was very pretty. Even if she wanted to avoid any trouble, it certainly wouldn’t be easy.

“En! I know. I won’t go to such places!” Wu Xiaoxiao sweetly smiled. Wu Xiaoxiao was totally not interested in KTV, internet cafes, and other such places. Though she had been invited before to go to such places, Wu Xiaoxiao firmly stood her ground and refused the invitations.

After making sure his sister walked into the school gate, Wu Hao subsequently drove his car back home.

As Wu Xiaoxiao reached her school dorm, as her best friend and roommate, Xiaowen noticed that Wu Xiaoxiao was wearing such elegant clothes. Even her bag seemed to be expensive too. The thing which surprised the most was that Wu Xiaoxiao had a phone now. Plus, it was the latest 'fruit' smartphone.

“Wow! Xiaoxiao, your brother brought all these things for you?” Xiaowen asked with some hint of envy.

“En. Right.” Wu Xiaoxiao replied with happiness all over her face,

“Your brother is so good to you. Why don't I have a rich brother?!” With an envious tone and full of regret, Xiaowen replied back.

Although she wasn't an only child, she didn't have an older brother. Instead, she had a younger brother who was still in primary school. She was from a rural family. At first, her family economic conditions could be considered as average. But with the addition of her little brother, her situation could now be imagined.

In rural areas of China, it was very common for male privilege. If a family had a son and daughter, most of the resources would be used for the son. This was because the son would continue the family line and the daughter would be married away into a different family. Especially in rural areas, many parents still had this concept in their mindset. Even in cities, there were still quite a number of parents who believed in this concept too.

Chapter 23 - Entering The Mountain To Search For Medicine

In the evening, when Su Hao reached home, he spent his evening doing his normal routine; activating his telekinesis and recovering his power back with the special breathing technique. As long as he had free time, he would keep repeating this cycle.

In his mind, it was very clear that the most important asset to him right now was his own brain. He was able to obtain this telekinetic ability all thanks to the mutation of his brain.

Since he could continuously repeat the cycle to improve his telekinetic ability, he naturally wouldn't miss the chance to keep enhancing his ability to a higher level.

For the following week, Wu Hao stayed at home to manage the matters regarding the road and the construction of their new home. With Wu Hao who kept throwing money towards it, the road leading to the village was nearly 50 percent done.

As for the remaining road and other structures like fences, in half a month's time, they should be completed.

As for Wu Hao's small villa, it didn't follow the usual common standards of those rural styled villas. It was instead built according to the designs by a professional architectural team.

The entire building covered almost 500 square meters. However, if the surrounding courtyard was included, the sum would be in the thousands of square meters. The villa consisted of three stories and the offered price from the construction team was five million Yuan.

After Wu Hao looked at the designs of the villa, he became satisfied with the price they offered him.

This was because for such large villa, if it was built in the city, the minimum cost would be at the at least ten million.

It was only in rural areas like their village that the price would be so cheap.

After all, in the rural areas, by spending around 300 thousand, you would be able to get a small but nice villa.

As of now, he didn't need to spend extra money on the land for the new villa's construction. Most of the costs were for the construction materials and the cost of labor. In the city, half of the cost of a villa was used to purchase the land in the city and a portion of the remaining costs would be for the middleman's profit.

Thus, the final sum would obviously exceed ten million.

At first, Wu Hao had ten million in his bank. He spent about two million each for his car purchase, the road repairs, and the mountain contract. The remaining stuff which he had spent accumulated to hundreds of thousands.

Therefore, there was still five million left in Wu Hao's bank account.

Fortunately, he didn't need to pay for every little thing for his family's new villa. Wu Hao was just required to pay for the materials and labor costs.

As a matter of fact, he just paid as the construction progressed. The estimated time for the construction to finish would need at least three months. Even if halfway during the progress he lacked the money, there would be enough time for him to prepare it.

That night during dinner, Wu Hao told his father, "Dad! I'm planning to go out for a few days. I want to explore other places to see which parts of land in the mountain are suitable for a plantation."

"Oh! Then you go and explore. Make sure you don't make any rushed decisions or else later if the plan fails, then we'll lose money. Instead this would bring us a lot of trouble." Wu Hongguo nodded his head as he replied.

Planting herbs and planting crops were two entirely different matters. The growth cycle for herbs was relatively long; they required about a year. Some species even needed to be grown for two to three years before they could be harvested.

Therefore, in Wu Hongguo's point of view, selecting a fertile land which suited the nature of the herbs was a critical matter.

“En! I know. My main goal in exploring other places is none other than to understand more about the land.” Wu Hao obviously wouldn't go and explore the land as he didn't care much about the herb plantation at all.

After all, leasing the mountain land was the very reason that he stayed in his own hometown.

His primary goal in entering the mountain and exploring around the place was to find any valuable herbs to exchange for money. Sanyuan city was surrounded by mountains. Although these mountains weren't very large size-wise, they were a part of the Qinling mountain range.

In the northern direction from the village, about two to three hundred kilometers away, this was where the heart of the Qinlong mountain range was located. The mountain range was magnificent as if they were like the dragon veins. There, valuable herbs should be in an abundance.

Early in the morning on the next day, Wu Hao drove his car away from the village. Although the road was still undergoing reconstruction and ordinary cars still couldn't pass through, it wasn't at all problem for Wu Hao's car, the G500.

Wu Hao drove his car all the way to the other town. After he found a place to park his car, he packed all the outdoor equipment and his backpacks to get ready in entering the mountains.

After confirming that there were no humans around the area, Wu Hao activated his telekinesis to use on his body and travelled along the mountain range in ease.

After travelling through the jungle for about a day, Wu Hao finally reached his destination, the heart of the Qinling mountain range. Although this area was full of mountains and rivers, there were still parts which became a tourist attraction.

However, those parts only occupied a very small part of the region. A vast majority of this area was still covered with primitive forests.

The purpose of this trip for Wu Hao was to find ginseng and other valuable herbs. Although ginseng was very popular in the northeast region where the border of China and Russia was located, wild ginseng still existed in places around the Qinling mountain range and surrounding provinces.

“In this vast mountain, it’s really not an easy feat to find any ginsengs or valuable herbs. Although I have the advantage of telekinesis to help me travel and spiritual perception for detection, after searching for so long in these two mountains, I’m still unable to find the valuable herbs that I want.” After searching for a whole day, Wu Hao had encountered a number of herbs. However, they were only around ten plus years old. As for the herbs above 50 years old, Wu Hao didn’t have the luck to encounter them yet.

Although these medicine would be able to be exchanged for quite the sum of money, this was not what Wu Hao wanted. His goal was to harvest herbs more than 100 years old. After all, harvesting the herbs at such an early age would seriously disrupt the balance of the herbs!

Two days later, Wu Hao finally found a wild ginseng which had aged for more than 200 years.

This wild ginseng was found by Wu Hao at the border of the forest. This location was very difficult for an ordinary person to get to.

Luckily, Wu Hao had his telekinesis to help him to fly and the spiritual perception to detect his surrounding. If not, he wouldn't have been able to notice the wild ginseng which grew in the border of the forest.

According to Wu Hao's own research on the internet, the price of this 200 year old wild ginseng would cost at least three to five million on the market.

In other words, he had just earned himself several million just by staying in the mountain for a few days.

Of course, although the duration seemed short, it wasn't an easy task at all. Because his spiritual perception only covered a range of tens of meters together with his telekinesis, his powers weren't infinite. Thus, when he explored the mountain range, he still needed to spend quite an amount of time to restore his energy at least once or twice.

During the process of searching for the wild ginseng over the past few days, Wu Hao also encountered many rare species of animals and plants. Of course, when he saw them, Wu Hao grabbed the golden opportunity to snap some photos of them.

Chapter 24 - Selling Wild Ginseng

After a few days, Wu Hao once again had a new harvest; this time his harvest seemed to be more than the one from two days ago.

Not only was he able to find two more 100 year old ginsengs, he was lucky enough to stumble upon one nearing 500 years old, the king of wild ginsengs.

According to Wu Hao's estimation, if this ginseng was to be sold in the market, it would at least reach the tens of millions.

After all, in this era, let alone a 500 year old ginseng, even a 100 year old ginseng was extremely rare. As for the so-called thousand year old ginseng, it was never heard of.

This treasure, even if it really did exist, most likely it was handed down from the previous generation a long time ago.

“This time my trip lasted over a week. It's about the time for me to go back home. After I settle all the matters at home, I'll come back to this piece of land and live here for some time!” Wu Hao who was standing beside a cliff, enjoyed the beauty of the scenery in front of him.

His main purpose here was to find ginseng to make money, besides taking some pictures of rare wild animals, he truly didn't enjoy the experience of living in the jungle wilderness.

Even these few days, his meal was basically those biscuits and ready made food which he bought from the town.

Although he could have enjoyed himself by making himself a barbeque or something, this would bring him too much trouble. Thus, these few days, he only made roasted meat for himself three times.

However, Wu Hao decided that the next time he came back here, he would make sure to enjoy the jungle life to the fullest. Unlike these few days, his mind was only occupied with searching for valuable herbs.

In fact, Wu Hao could've just gone to the northeastern mountain region if he wanted to harvest ginseng in exchange for money. After all, the area is mainly famous for wild ginsengs.

However, the northeastern region was a bit too far from his home. Although he could just fly to and come back, Wu Hao thought that it was too troublesome.

As for the Qinling mountain, although it's not the main area that produced wild ginseng, there were still quite a few there. If not, how could he have found himself several ginsengs in the span of a few days.

Moreover, Wu Hao only concentrated on a small area for his search in the Qinling mountain, mainly at the peak of the Taibai mountain and the area around it.

After leaving the dense forest, Wu Hao's mobile phone began to receive signal. Notification of messages began ringing consecutively. Apparently there were several missed calls too.

When he opened his phone, besides his own sister's phone call, there was one unknown number.

However, after seeing the message content, a figure emerged in Wu Hao's mind.

It was actually from the car dealer at Chengdu, the beautiful salesgirl Li Xiaoyun. As for this girl, she had left an impression in Wu Hao's mind. The content of the message was the matter of asking him about changing the license plate. It had been two weeks since the day he bought his car, and the official license plate already came out since the process had been completed.

After seeing the content of the messages, Wu Hao first replied to his sister, Xiaoxiao. As for Li Xiaoyun, he also messaged her back by saying that he would go to the car shop for a trip in two days.

After he reached the town, Wu Hao drove back his car back home first. There, he left some one hundred year old ginsengs as he planned to keep them for his own parents who had overused their body these past years.

As for the remaining two older ginsengs, he decided to find a buyer in Chengdu and sold them. As for ordinary people, centuries old ginsengs were too rare and too hard to be harvested. Usually, they would only eat it after cutting them into thin small slices.

Therefore, leaving some one hundred year old ginsengs at home for his parents should be enough to improve their health. Besides that, you couldn't just simply eat them in excess.

These few hundred year old ginsengs were usually used for those who wanted to extend their life and for drug purposes. Ordinary people generally wouldn't need the ginseng.

The following day, Wu Hao drove his car to Chengdu. He intended to sell these two ginsengs first. As for the license plate change, it wasn't worried about it.

Baicao Hall was Chengdu's largest Chinese medicine chain. Even in other cities in the country, you could find several stores of Baicao Hall. Wu Hao then stopped his car at a parking lot near the store and walked into it; carrying a plastic bag.

As for the salesperson in the store, since she saw Wu Hao come down from the domineering Benz, she of course greeted him with a smile when Wu Hao was still far away.

“Mister, welcome to Baicao Hall. May I help you with anything?”

“I am here not to buy stuff. I just want to ask if you here buy ginseng here? I have two wild ginsengs in my hand to be exchanged.” Wu Hao said while pointing at the plastic bag in his hand.

The salesperson looked at the plastic bag in his hand and was stupefied. Her heart was very suspicious whether the plastic bag really contained wild ginseng.

However, since she saw Wu Hao came with a big Benz, she still respectfully replied to Wu Hao although her heart somehow didn't believe his words.

“Our store here doesn't only sell herbs. We do accept a variety of herbs too. If mister is here to sell wild ginseng, please come with me here.”

“No problem.” Wu Hao nodded and then followed the salesperson to a counter. At the counter, there was a middle-aged man who was in charge of identifying herbs.

The moment when Wu Hao took out the two ginsengs and placed them in front of him, the middle-aged man's eyes immediately stared fixedly at them without blinking.

“Mister, these are indeed wild ginseng. However, we still need to confirm the specific year for them.”

“Okay, please identify them then.” Wu Hao nodded indifferently. Although he had learned a lot information about ginseng from the internet, he still wasn't an expert. Therefore, he could only estimate their age.

Baicao Hall was such a huge store. It certainly wouldn't lack any professionals in this area.

As a result, the middle-aged man went inside the interior of the store and called out a man. A few moments later, a man of at least 60 years came out.

“These are indeed wild ginseng. From the look of them, they should have been unearthed not long ago. Their origin should be from the central region. Mister, do you intend to sell these two wild ginseng?”

“Old men do indeed have good eyesight. These wild ginsengs were unearthed a few days ago. I intend to sell them provided the price offered is reasonable!” Wu Hao replied with a smile.

“Hehe! Mister, you don’t have to worry. Our store, Baicao Hall, will definitely offer you a fair price.” The old man smiled while touching his beard. “These two ginseng, one of them should be about 225 years old while the other should be around 553 years old.”

“This 225 year old ginseng I could offer you 5 million; the other one, the 553 year old, 20 million. I wonder if mister is satisfied with the price we offered?” In fact if these wild ginseng were to be put in auction, the price would definitely be higher than the one the old man offered. However, since it was through a direct transaction, the price offered definitely wasn’t low.

Hearing such an offer from the old man, Wu Hao was satisfied with it. With a smile, Wu Hao said, “Alright, I’ll go with this

Chapter 25 - Having A Load In Mind!

The next step was very simple. After he heard the yes from Su Hao, the old man then requested a staff to get him the checkbook to sign a check worth 25 million.

Apparently, this old man was the boss of the store. Usually, he wouldn't manage much regarding store matters. Only when the store encountered some important matter would he would personally step forward.

After the completion of the transaction, the old man then exchanged contact information with Wu Hao. He told Wu Hao to contact him when there was any such long year old herbs. Naturally, Wu Hao would agree to do so.

However, as for the future whether he would continue making money by selling herbs, that would depend on the situation.

This was because from Wu Hao's point of view, as long as he had enough money to spend, he wouldn't need to be in any rush to make more money.

For now, he might just concentrate in training his telekinesis and spiritual perception. After all, what he had today was all thanks to his ability.

Therefore, to improve his telekinesis and spiritual perception to a higher level was also an important matter to him.

The bad news was, in recent days, the growth rate of his ability had slowed down significantly.

Wu Hao had this kind of weird feeling that his telekinesis and spiritual perception might stop growing forever another few days. During his days in the forest, the progress was extremely fast.

After all, he was searching for medical herbs all the time in the mountain. To travel around, he constantly used his telekinesis to fly and repeatedly restored his fuel tank with the breathing technique. Naturally, his improvement would be multiple times better than the usual growth.

Currently, Wu Hao's telekinesis could almost lift up 900 kg objects. Whereas for his spiritual perception, he had reached a radius of 100 meters.

However, in recent days, he felt that his ability growth had slowed down significantly compared to last time. Perhaps this was the so-called bottleneck or his ability could only grow to such an extent.

No matter what kind of situation he was currently facing, Wu Hao had decided that after dealing the matters at home, he would seriously increase his understanding about his ability.

After leaving Baicao Hall, Wu Hao directly drove his car to the car dealer. The one who welcomed him naturally was the same salesgirl, Li Xiaoyun.

“Mister Wu, I still haven’t properly thanked you the last time you bought the car! Thus, I would like to invite you for dinner tonight to express my gratitude.” After changing the official plate number, Li Xiaoyun was acting hesitantly. During the very last moment when Wu Hao was about to leave, she bravely gathered her guts to utter out the statement. (T/N: Smooth~ operator..)

Wu Hao, who was about to start moving his car, was slightly surprised for a moment. “Okay! Looking at the time now, you must be about to finish your work. I’ll wait until you get off work then. We can go together!” (T/N: Smooth~ smooth~ like a butter) (E/N: Like a butter.....no comment)

Although Wu Hao was ready to go home, this time around, when he came here, he felt that today’s Li Xiaoyun was somehow different than the last one.

Also when Li Xiaoyun invited him just now, he noticed that she had hesitated and needed to gather courage to muster out the statement. Therefore, Wu Hao felt that she must have some reason to invite him. Thus, he wasn’t willing to refuse her good thought. Plus, Li Xiaoyun was a beauty!

“Thanks. Then, I would have to bother Mister Wu to wait awhile.” Li Xiaoyun seeing that Wu Hao had agreed, was somehow in the mixture of happiness and shyness. In short, it was such a rich expression on her face.

Soon, when not even 30 minutes had passed, Li Xiaoyun came out from the car store and headed towards the direction of the parking lot of Wu Hao's car.

And this scene happened to be seen by a few colleagues of Li Xiaoyun.

“Never have I expected that this little girl had found herself a target. And here I thought how innocent she was!”

“The owner of this car was that youngster who brought along big and small bags while buying the car. It was just that we overlooked him that she was able to pick him up cheap.” Such sales people like themselves when dealing with customers, they would inevitably encounter a variety of requirements and conditions. In order to sell the car, most of them would just go with the flow to meet the customer's request. This situation had already become the norm in various industries.

Of course, that wasn't entirely the case. There were still some girls who stuck to their bottom lines to the very end. Li Xiaoyun was one of them. But now, she was about to fall into the same category.

When Li Xiaoyun entered the car, he noticed the appearance of Li Xiaoyun; as if she had something on her mind but hesitated to say.

To encounter such a situation, Wu Hao was more than sure in his heart that this girl must have some matters. Although his heart had such speculations, Wu Hao didn't say anything or ask about it. He just continued the flow with the small talk.

Just like that, the car began to exit the automobile centre and reached the main door of a restaurant. This restaurant was nowhere luxurious and could only be considered as a popular family dining place.

Entering the restaurant, Wu Hao requested for a private room and casually ordered several dishes. Although it was supposed to be Li Xiaoyun's treat, Wu Hao never thought to let her pay at all.

During the meal, Li Xiaoyun unexpectedly ordered a bottle of red wine. At first, Wu Hao decided to not drink due to having to drive later. However, considering that Li Xiaoyun obviously had something on her mind, he just went with the flow and accompanied her for a few glasses. (T/N: usual tactic...haizzz)

Li Xiaoyun usually didn't consume alcoholic drinks. With just a glass, her face began to glow red.

Although Wu Hao in the past hadn't had red wine before, he still managed to drink several bottle of beers at once. Now with his telekinesis and spiritual perception, one or two glasses of wine wouldn't affect his ability to drive.

Moreover, even if there was a roadblock by the police, Wu Hao had nothing to worry. This was because during the moment of inspection, Wu Hao could just use his telekinesis to control his air puff to not have contact with the breathalyzer. Everything would be fine then.

Plus, the roadblock was for drunk driving, the probability of encountering it was still very low. Unless it was during a specific holiday season, the traffic police wouldn't bother much to detect drunk driving usually.

After dinner, Wu Hao obviously didn't let Li Xiaoyun settle the bill. After all, letting a girl to treat wasn't a problem, but regarding settling the bill, forget about it! (T/N: So a girl can treat you but you pay the bill? LOL sad life as an asian. Such culture in the community)

“Where do you live? Let me send you back!” Leaving the restaurant, Wu Hao wanted to do so as he saw Li Xiaoyun was dizzy and unstable when she walked, due to the drink. (Smooth, smooth)

“Then, I will have to bother you!” Li Xiaoyun didn't refuse his offer. Usually, she didn't drink and with the high alcohol content in the red wine, she was somehow a bit dizzy. Moreover, the 'reason' which she wanted to meet Wu Hao; she hadn't said it yet!

Entering the car, Li Xiaoyun told him her home address and began to show that hesitant expression again. This time, maybe due to the alcohol's influence, within a few minutes, Li Xiaoyun gathered her courage and said to Wu Hao who was driving.

“Mister Wu, be my sugar daddy!” Having said that, the originally red face of Li Xiaoyun became even redder. She kept her head low and didn't dare to look at Wu Hao.

Wu Hao who was driving heard the statement; his body showed a slight flick reaction as he was very surprised and didn't expect it coming.

Never had he expected that one day, he himself would use this phrase 'be my sugar daddy'. The most unexpected part of it, it was a girl who took the initiative on him!

Chapter 26 - First Come, First Serve

Prior to this, although Wu Hao had speculated Li Xiaoyun to have something on her mind, he thought it would be something like breaking up, losing love; that sort of matter.

But he really hadn't expected, even the tiniest bit, to be in current situation. This was because from Wu Hao's perspective, Li Xiaoyun wasn't the gold-digging kind of woman. If not, Wu Hao wouldn't even bother to have any contact with her.

Therefore, from the way Li Xiaoyun stated her desire in such hesitant tone, it wasn't naturally difficult for Wu Hao to guess that this girl certainly was in a pinch and facing some huge wall of difficulties.

However, in order to not hurting her self-esteem, Wu Hao didn't try to get more information from her. Instead, he just casually replied, "I can do that, how much do you need?"

Seeing Wu Hao agree in such straightforward manner, Li Xiaoyun no longer felt shy. She hesitated for a moment and said, "500 thousand, can you do it?" After finishing her statement, she secretly took a peek at Wu Hao.

"No problem!" Wu Hao smiled.

Hearing Li Xiaoyun asking for 500 thousand the moment she opened her mouth, Wu Hao was more or less assured that this girl seemed to encounter some difficulties.

Otherwise, if it was a simple usual sugar daddy request, it wouldn't be something like how Li Xiaoyun acted.

At the same time when Li Xiaoyun saw that Wu Hao just agreed without any hesitation, a feeling of reprehension at herself began to linger in her heart. However, as for the current her, this was the only method for her to raise such a huge amount of cash in a short amount of time.

“Thank you!” Although she had to betray her own morals in order to raise the money for her mom’s surgery, Li Xiaoyun didn’t regret at all.

Because of that, it became awkward and embarrassing in the car for her. Soon, Wu Hao broke the silence atmosphere. “Your house should be somewhere around here!”

Li Xiaoyun moved her sight. Through the door, she noticed that the car had arrived at a street near her house.

“Yea! Why don’t you come over to my house?” Li Xiaoyun said with some blush giving a hint.

Actually, to say such words, she had to gather lots of courage. However, since Wu Hao had agreed to her request, she would definitely fulfill her commitment.

When Wu Hao heard her invitation, if he still did not understand the meaning behind it, then he really did waste his life of more than 20 years. Although he was tempted by the invitation, he decided to not take advantage of someone's crisis after some consideration. (T/N: No!!!) (E/N: Guess he's a white knight)

This time he had to spend 500 thousand to have a sugar baby. From Wu Hao's perspective, even if he really was serious in becoming a sugar daddy, there wasn't a need to rush.

“Tonight I have something to do, let's just wait for another day! Oh yea, give me your card number.” Wu Hao smiled while he declined such a good invitation.

“Oh! Okay then! Then when you need it, just give me a call!” The current feeling of Li Xiaoyun was somehow relieved yet mixed with some hint of disappointment. She was relieved because she actually hadn't prepared herself at all for such an event. She was disappointed because of Wu Hao not showing much interest in her. She felt that she wasn't attractive enough.

However, although it was such a complicated feeling in Li Xiaoyun's heart now, she still gave her card number to Wu Hao.

After Wu Hao dropped her off at the building downstairs, he then drove away. While driving away, at the same time, he transferred the money to Li Xiaoyun's bank account through his smartphone.

However, the money transferred was not 500 thousand. It was 600 thousand instead. After he finished the transaction, he felt that he needed to leave a message to her for some explanation.

On the other side, Li Xiaoyun who had just reached her home not long ago, received two text messages. One of the text messages was about the bank transfer. The other one was from Wu Hao which stated, “The extra 100 thousand is for you to get some nice clothes. I have to go back home first. If there’s anything, just give me a call.”

As she finished reading the text message, Li Xiaoyun’s heart was moved. She naturally knew that the matter of Wu Hao giving her so much money was entirely just to help her. Before that, he didn’t even ask for her reasons regarding the request; he must have not wanted to hurt her pride.

Otherwise, how would Wu Hao just casually give money to her plus an additional 100 thousand of his own will without making any demands yet.

Li Xiaoyun was definitely moved by the message and quickly replied back. “Thank you! I will fulfil my promise!” Her words were definitely true since Wu Hao had promised to give her money, then from this moment onwards, she belonged to Wu Hao.

After all comparing to the other guy who was a playboy, offering himself to be a sugar daddy, Wu Hao gave a much better impression to her. Before this, she didn’t hate Wu Hao and now, her feelings had turned into never-ending gratitude.

When Wu Hao was driving on his way back home, he received the reply from Li Xiaoyun. He only smiled and didn’t put this matter into his heart.

On the other side, Li Xiaoyun who was lying down on the bed, waiting for Wu Hao's reply. As she noticed that Wu Hao hadn't replied back for quite some time, she began to hesitate in sending another message or calling up him. When she was in a dilemma, a telephone number which made her fed up appeared on the screen. Looking at the number, Li Xiaoyun, who originally wanted to reject the call, stopped for a moment. In order to prevent any future harassments, it was better for her to clear this up.

“Xiaoyun, regarding the matter which I mentioned last time, had you finished considering? As long as you agree to be my lover, I'll pay for all the expenses on your mother's operation.”

The moment the call was connected, Li Xiaoyun began to hear such uncomfortable sounds.

“Zhou Rongxing, you don't have to call me anymore. As for my mom's surgery costs, I have gathered it.” Li Xiaoyun immediately ended the call once finished her statement.

“Hey.....” On the other side of the phone, Zhou Ronxing, who was about to pursue her, didn't have any chance to open his mouth and was hung up on by Li Xiaoyun, his facial expression changed. “F*ck, this smelly bitch dares to close daddy's call.” Zhou Rongxing cursed; his heart was filled with anger.

Then he recalled something like, “This bitch said that she had raise the money for her mother's surgery? That's impossible, her family's economic conditions I have already investigated clearly. How could she raise that much money in one or two days? This is 500 thousand! Don't tell me....." Thinking of this, Zhou Rongxing began to show a dark face.

"Hmmm. I'd like to see who dares to destroy my hard work." After carefully thinking, Zhou Rongxing naturally knew that Li Xiaoyun had definitely agreed to other people in order to gather 500 thousand in such a short amount of time.

When he thought of such a situation, Zhou Rongxing was bursting in anger. After all, Li Xiaoyun had always been his target for a long time. Now such a huge opportunity for him to succeed had been taken away by another man, how could he not be angry?!

Zhou Rongxing only knew Li Xiaoyun for a short period of time. It was just less than six months. At the beginning, he tried to pursue Li Xiaoyun countless times but he had been rejected by her.

However, the situation began to change. This was because through the investigations, Zhou Rongxing knew the current situation of Li Xiaoyun's family; that her mother was very ill and needed a large sum of money to pay for an operation.

Chapter 27 - The Reason For The Brain Development

Once he knew about the situation, Zhou Rongxing, who originally couldn't succeed in his pursuit, began to pay more attention to this piece of information. He decided to make a move on Li Xiaoyun from this perspective.

In fact, in the heart of Zhou Rongxing, he didn't intend to give that much cash at once. Although he is the rich second generation young master with his family's asset worth several millions, his monthly allowance was only up to the hundreds of thousands.

Plus with his usual heavy spending, this money definitely wasn't enough to satisfy his craving to spend. Therefore, he only intended to make use of this situation to get his hands on Li Xiaoyun first before mentioning anything else.

As for the money, he just had to give a small portion at that point and with a little trick included, this should have been enough.

On the other hand, Wu Hao who was taking advantage of the lack of vehicles on the road at night, there wasn't a traffic jam at all along his journey. In less than four hours, he managed to return to his hometown. As usual, he began his daily routine; training his telekinesis ability and recovery via the breathing technique.

“It’s very obvious that the growth of my ability begins to slow down in its rate. By the way this situation progress, in a few days time, the growth would be completely halted. Do I really need to get something like CPH4 to stimulate my brain?” Wu Hao silently pondered by himself.(E/N: CPH4 as in the compound in the movie Lucy that makes her a god pretty much.)

As for his brain mutation which enabled him to obtain the telekinesis and spiritual perception ability, during his free time he did spend some time to do some research about the data and information from the internet.

Because his telekinesis and spiritual perception were all obtained since the accidental fall, his brain received the impact from the fall which then triggered the activation of these abilities.

As for these abilities, from his research from various information sources and resources from the internet, they were somehow similar in a way with the protagonist in the Hollywood movie named ‘Body’. (T/N: I am not sure what movie is this since I direct tl into english from the chinese title but most probably should be referring to Lucy)

They were both similar where they were involved in some random situation which then triggered the activation of their brain power which then allowed them to have some abnormal ability. Although the situation he encountered was different from what the protagonist in the movie had, the overall experience and the the way they obtained their abilities were quite similar.

The protagonist in the movie, due to her integration with CPH4, this theory stated that the strong energy from this molecule was the culprit responsible in mutating her brain. This caused her to be able to open up some new domain in her brain within the short period of time of several days.

Besides a great improvement in physical aspect, her memory and learning curve had increased by leaps and bounds. This then allowed her to control her own senses which then made her able to perceive all sorts of energy signals from various materials around her.

Although her perception and Wu Hao's spiritual perception were quite similar, at the very beginning, the protagonist in the movie was only able to increase her physical aspects. This eventually led to her enormous improvement in memory and learning capabilities. In the early stages, she wasn't able to manipulate objects at all.

As for Wu Hao, he was the complete opposite of her. Although his physical aspect did have a bit of improvement compared to the previous him, it was something negligible. However, his memory did improve by a huge margin. It was just that it hadn't reached the stage where he would never forget anything he saw with monstrous learning curve.

As for these differences, Wu Hao didn't put it to heart. After all, this was just an imaginary character created in a movie.

Although Wu Hao was convinced now that he had gained telekinesis and spiritual perception, it must have been some external factor which had evolved his brain.

After all, besides this explanation, Wu Hao really couldn't find any other reasonable explanations to answer his current condition.

However, in the film, although the protagonist's brain evolved at such a fast rate, it was very unstable. This part even nearly made her turn into energy molecules.

Now, Wu Hao's telekinesis had gradually slowed down in improvement. Naturally, he would be curious about it. Although his current telekinesis was absolutely powerful and monstrous, he could only control up to 900 plus kg objects.

This kind of power compared to the character in another movie, the difference was too far apart. In the other movie 'Chronicle', a few protagonists could control several cars flying together all over the sky. To achieve such a feat, the telekinesis needed to be able to control at least several ten of tons!

The current capability of Wu Hao obviously couldn't manage to control the big cars category. At most, he could only control a motorcycle or small electric vehicles.

Of course, the information and capabilities were from fictional films. Wu Hao only used them as references for their ability. After all, the way he obtained the abilities were somehow different from the protagonists in the movies.

“However, this so-called CPH₄ molecule in the body only exists in movie form. I had never heard of such a name in reality so far.

Moreover, even if it was true, I wouldn't be able to get ahold of it." Thinking this, Wu Hao helplessly shook his head. Obviously this idea was only something he thought of casually.

Because if this molecule really did exist in reality, and he would be lucky to get some in his hands, but also he wouldn't dare to consume them!

After all, the protagonist in the movie who took the molecule, she was able to activate the domain of her brain; enabling her an almost magical and unimaginable power. But for the others, these molecules were actually poison.

Wu Hao didn't think that he would be able to become like the protagonist, integrate with the molecules and become an existence stronger than any human.

From the theory in the film, this CPH₄ was a substance produced by the pregnant mother during pregnancy. This substance was responsible for the fusion between the sperm and egg to become material for the human body to form. From the interpretation of the film, only a miniscule amount of the compound was needed for the fetus to develop the brain and bone formation.

In other words to put it simply, these kind of molecules contained a very strong and powerful energy. Even if these molecules really did exist, one wouldn't be able to withstand the impact from the energy during the integration with the molecules.

It was due to this reason that many humans who consumed the molecules died after a moment. Because human body could never withstand such a powerful and fierce energy fusion, only the protagonist in the movie was the exception.

Using the probability of one in several millions wasn't something exaggerated. This was because it didn't guarantee that anyone who consumed the molecules to be able to mutate.

After pondering for awhile, Wu Hao no longer continued with his thoughts about this. Instead, he went back to his daily routine; training his telekinesis and restoring the energy through the special breathing technique.

Although the growth rate of Wu Hao's ability began to drop, it still hadn't stopped. Even if the growth rate was halted completely, Wu Hao still wouldn't give up and would keep repeating the cycle.

After all, after he had used up his energy and recovered through the breathing technique, he noticed that his recovery duration kept getting shorter. This was obviously good in its own way. Thus, it was naturally a must to keep this cycle as a daily routine.

Who knows, if he kept repeating his daily routine, his telekinesis might start to improve again!

Of course, as for now, it was only Wu Hao's personal assumption. As for his ability whether it would keep growing or through whatever method to improve, it wasn't something he could answer now.

Chapter 28 - Raising Budget [Second Night]

The following two days, Wu Hao found himself a construction team for his new villa. He told them that it was fine for them to increase the budget for the construction.

Facing customers who allow increasing of the budget, the construction team definitely loved such propositions. Thus, that very day, a new plan had been drawn out and determined.

As for this plan compared to the original villa's plan, not many changes had been made. They just replaced the construction material to a better one and improved the interior decoration design and facilities.

The most important change was the plan regarding the garden surrounding the villa. According to the previous plan, the villa would only occupy a small portion of the land; being surrounded by large garden. The garden was also very simple with nothing more than flower plants and trees planted all over.

But now with Wu Hao's own initiative to increase the budget, things were heading in a different direction. Plus, Wu Hao was the contractor of that piece of land coupled with the fact that there weren't as many regulations in rural housing construction.

Since Wu Hao had sold more than 20 million yuan worth of ginsengs, he didn't lack any cash at all. That was the reason he was fine with redrawing the plans for the big piece of land surrounding the villa.

After having a talk with the construction team designer with some sketches down, Wu Hao didn't ask much about what the final results would look like. Instead, he just approved the plans without much consideration.

What the changes were all about was they will dig at one spot of the land to build a pond. Also included in the new plans, a garden which gives a similar vibe to those of western villas; linked by pavilions and small bridges with a man-made stream flowing in between, these were not left out.

As the western garden surrounded the villa, a swimming pool would be built too.

This kind of planning definitely resembled a small estate's design and planning. Plus, the garden of the villa was even bigger than most ordinary villas. Well, who was the one who didn't restrict much on building construction in rural area!

If there was one thing to complain about, it would be the villa itself. Although the villa was a three storey villa, the total rooms all together would reach a dozen; this definitely paled in comparison to the real estate.

However, the main purpose of Wu Hao building this villa was none other than letting his parents and sister have a better place to stay. Thus, not much area was needed to fulfil the purpose.

As for his himself, although he would temporarily stay at this villa, it was hard to say regarding his future. As long as he had his own room in the house, he would be satisfied. The most important factor here was to have a nice environment surrounding the house.

As for such the large garden plans, even if this was constructed at the price rate for rural areas, the overall cost was about 10 million. In other words, including the original budget with the current additional 10 million plus the furniture and other facilities, the total amount of money spent by Wu Hao on this villa was close to 20 million.

But! Even if this seemed to be a huge amount of money, it was definitely worthy it for every penny spent. Because for such a large scale building, if it was built in the city, the cost would at least need 100 million.

“Hao er, I heard from the construction team that you have added quite the budget into the villa’s construction. Even if you’ve obtained this money easily, you still mustn’t spend as you like without any regard!” This day, Wu Hongguo came to find Wu Hao and couldn’t hold himself back voicing out his dissatisfaction.

Since Wu Hao was single-handedly in charge of overlooking the whole construction process, Wu Hao had told the team leader of the crew to hide the real cost from his father from the very beginning.

Thus, Wu Hongguo had always thought that the cost of this villa was only a little over one million!

Now with the additional budget from Wu Hao, although Wu Hongguo didn't know the specific amount, he knew a little bit about this matter from some of the construction workers.

After all, the new planning from the additional budget required some digging work on the previous supposedly empty land surrounding the villa. Even if Wu Hao wanted to conceal it, it would be an impossible task.

“Dad! There is nothing to worry about! You don't have to worry about matters regarding money. I forget to tell you that few days ago, I found some wild ginsengs in the mountain and earned quite the sum of money from there.” Although Wu Hao didn't intend to inform his parents about the price of the villa, as for his source of money, he still had to briefly explain it to them.

“Wild ginseng?” Wu Hongguo said with some frown in his face. Even though he didn't know much about the price of wild ginseng, he had at least heard from other people that it wasn't easy to find and harvest wild ginseng. Thus, this herb was extremely valuable.

“Yes, wild ginseng! During my trip to the Winling mountains, I happened to stumble upon them by chance!” Wu Hao casually said.

“Alright then! As for how you managed to find it, I won't ask you any further. As long as you are not wasteful and manage the money properly, I will have no complaints.” Wu Hongguo looked at Wu Hao and no longer bothered him with any more questions. He just sternly warned him for the last time.

In fact, from the time Wu Hao returned back home, Wu Hongguo had noticed that his son had become different from the past. As for what the difference was, he couldn't yet tell. Anyway, he at least knew that his son was more capable now than ever.

Seeing his own dad speaking with such a serious tone, Wu Hao naturally understood the meaning behind his father's statement and nodded his head. "Dad, I know what I'm doing."

In fact, Wu Hao wasn't unwilling to tell his parents about his current circumstances, but because he was afraid they would be worried about him when they knew about it. This was because his ability was too monstrous. If this was accidentally leaked outside from his family members, he didn't dare to imagine what kind of trouble would be awaiting them!

Although Wu Hao now had telekinesis and spiritual perception, he was after all still a newbie and fresh blood. With his control over his abilities not being great enough, there were still many things in this world which could threaten him.

Forget about advanced human firearms, even deep in the mountains, Wu Hao didn't dare claim to be invincible.

Of course, if it was to ensure his own safety, Wu Hao's ability could still barely manage to do so.

As long as he didn't face any attacks from heavy firearms, Wu Hao would be able to completely resist those common guns and bullets.

As for deep in the mountains, excluding a number of toxic creatures and large beasts, Wu Hao would be able to deal with any creatures. Even if he wasn't able to deal with them, to self protect himself wasn't too difficult. After all, he had the telekinesis to help him fly.

If he really couldn't go head on and face with bigger beasts like: tigers, bears , large wild boars, and etc, he could have just calmly escape the scene by flying.

This was just like the case when he went and explored the Qinling mountains. In the depth of the Qinling's jungle, although it wasn't often, he did indeed encounter those big beasts like, tigers, and bears those kind of animals.

When Wu Hao encountered them, he didn't try to provoke any such beast. After all, his brain could only control several hundreds kilogram.

Those kinds of beasts like tigers and bears, they had very explosive force which would definitely not be just a few hundred kilograms. Thus, Wu Hao thought that it would be completely impossible to control such beasts. If there was even one single mistake, they would definitely bolt towards him and destroy him with their bite. Wu Hao definitely wouldn't do such a dangerous thing.

Chapter 29 - Endangered Species [Third Night]

As for the fierce beasts like tiger and bear, how great was their strength? Wu Hao wasn't clear about them.

Just from a man, hundreds of kilograms of force could burst out. If you were to compare this, these kind of beasts with such strength, they would at least be able to exert out at least thousands of kilograms of force or even more.

In fact, according to a study done by experts, the end result had drawn a general conclusion that an adult Amur tiger's hit could reach a maximum of ten thousand pounds and above.

A strength of ten thousand pounds is equivalent to four thousand plus kilograms of force.

It was not an exaggeration to say that any ordinary human who received a slap on the face from such beasts, there was almost no possibility to survive.

Coupled with their powerful bites and ferocious attacks, it was something even more terrifying.

Otherwise, how could tigers crush the skulls of their prey like sheep and cattle.

As for the deeper region of the forest's bears and other large species, it was needless to say that these monsters completely relied on their brute force to hunt. The difficulty in subduing them definitely wasn't easy at all.

As for the ones which Wu Hao had encountered in Qinling were just southern Chinese tigers, their body strength and size are not as ferocious as their counterpart, the Siberian tigers. Even so, they were still something which Wu Hao couldn't face head on right now.

Of course, if Wu Hao wished to kill them, it still wasn't a problem. Although his telekinetic force wasn't able to control them, as long as he can fly up to the sky, he didn't have to worry much about their attacks. While flying, he would just have to control his flying weapon and kill them.

Although these beasts had thick skin, they were after all, still flesh and blood. Under the situation of continuous attacks by sharp weapons, eventually their thick flesh wouldn't be able to withstand it and eventually death would be brought upon them.

However, Wu Hao wasn't a poacher. However, he wouldn't ever do so, he wouldn't kill these wild beasts which were the country's rare and endangered species.

If it was hundreds or thousands of years ago, perhaps it was still possible to kill them to get the tiger skin etc.

But now in modern society, these species were almost on the brink of extinction especially the Siberian tiger. According to the current data, in the whole world, the number of Siberian tigers only amounted to within 300 to 400 only.

Most of them live in some remote areas of Siberia and Russia with a cold climate. Whereas in northeastern China, only about 20 Siberian tigers live in the wild.

Even if the data wasn't correct and had some errors, its true number in the wild probably won't be a lot either.

As for those living in southern China, the number of wild South China Tigers living in the jungle was unknown. This was because in recent decades, human had not encountered any traces of a South China Tiger in the wild.

Of course, not being encountered by humans doesn't mean extinction of the species. After all, human wouldn't be able to completely explore every inch of the forest. Plus, it was even needless to talk about encountering this species which was the top predator in the food chain.

As for Wu Hao, who happened to stumble upon a few of the tigers, it wasn't an exaggeration to say he was filled with enormous luck.

After all, this era was not like hundreds of years ago. Where as long as you entered the jungle, you would be able to meet a tiger.

Since the birth of firearms by human, the wild animals in the forest had always been the target of the hunters.

Especially fifty to sixty years ago, the numbers of mountain tigers in China were numerous. But a few decades later, South China Tigers across the whole of China were facing the danger of extinction.

Worse still, most of the human community had thought that the wild tigers in southern region had really gone extinct.

That was why a few decades ago, the government had officially declared that South China Tigers as the treasure of the country as a measure to protect them against hunting.

It is a hard fact but yea, all the species declared by the government to be the treasured species or those which were already confirmed to be extinct; these are all single handedly caused by humans alone.

Thus, the three encounters by Wu Hao in the Qinling mountains was definitely his big luck!

However, besides the first encounter where Wu Hao took the opportunity to snap some picture of it, he found the latter two through his spiritual perception.

In fact, the reasons Wu Hao took photos of the wild animals in the forest was to show off to his circle of friends.

But later he thought; these tigers and bears weren't something which could be casually encountered.

Especially the South China Tiger. To encounter it was definitely a huge stroke of luck. Not to mention that he was able to snap some photos of it. If it was encountered by some random ordinary people, this was definitely not a joke.

Unless the counterpart was full or one's luck was extremely high, that person's head would definitely end up inside the stomach of the tiger.

Of course if you had firearms and stood with some distance from it, you should be able to respond in time which would be your life insurance.

But to explore these endless desolate mountains, this was definitely not an easy task.

Even if you explore deep in the mountains, it wasn't easy to encounter them. Wu Hao had to thank his spiritual perception which could easily detect them hidden within the tall trees.

Therefore, after considering all the trouble he might face if he showed the pictures to his friends, Wu Hao finally withdrew his idea.

As early as the year 2008, there was an incident called 'Tiger's week’.

The main content of the incident was someone who claimed to spent time in the wild and was able to snap photos of South China Tigers.

At that time, the media went crazy over it for a while. Even all those experts started to step up to the public.

But the end result was that it was just a photoshopped picture. In the end, this was a fake claim.

It was not an exaggeration to say that if Wu Hao uploaded the pictures he took to the internet, without even one day passing by, it would be the hot topic of the nation.

After all, the photos which Wu Hao took were not normal photos but 360 degree full range shooting!

Even when the tiger was showing its fangs, trying to attack Wu Hao who was flying, the whole incident was photographed through the camera. Even more so, a video was recorded too!

Don’t ask how Wu Hao did that. Having this cheat ability, don’t say shooting those land beasts, even the soaring bird in the sky, Wu Hao was able to take shoot every angle of aerial photography.

However, since the purpose of Wu Hao exploring the mountains a few days ago was to find herbs, naturally he didn’t take any initiative to snap the photos of the birds flying in the sky. Only that when he was searching for herbs, he happened to stumble upon rare animals. That was why he took the opportunity to snap some photos.

While videos of South China Tigers and other treasured species like pandas were able to be seen on television, they were all in the zoo.

But in the wild, normally ordinary people wouldn't have any chance to do so.

However, it was still much easier to encounter those pandas than South China Tigers in the Qinling mountains.

After all, the number of wild pandas was still over one thousand.

This species, the South China Tiger, had been declared extinct by humans. Not to mention in the wild, even through artificial breeding, the amount of such tigers in the world was only a little more than one hundred.

This was completely less than the nationally treasured pandas and Siberian tigers. However, it was because the hunting of the South China Tigers was more numerous compared to Siberian tigers. Even if there were still some of them left, they wouldn't leave the deep mountains to prevent themselves from being hunted.

Possibly, in this country, there were only a few or at most a dozen left. Otherwise, how could humans not have encountered them for the past several decades.

Perhaps it might be because of the state prohibits the hunting activities. After all, ordinary people would never dare to enter the deep mountains just to find these beasts.

As for those expert who study wild animals and etc, whatever conclusion they came upon, they would only dare to find clues from the edge of the forest.

Chapter 30 - What Is Backpacker? [Fourth Night]

... ..

In a blink of an eye, one week had passed. For the whole week, Wu Hao didn't stay at his old home the whole day. Instead, he went to the city to visit a company which specialised in herbal plantations. There, he ordered a batch of herbs and fruit seedlings.

Ordering such things was definitely for the plantation on the mountain land which he contracted. However, to settle this huge piece of land wasn't something which could be done in a few days.

Fortunately, Wu Hao had no intentions to make money by planting these things. Planting fruit trees was just to add some variety to the land surrounding the new villa.

As for planting herbs, he was just trying his luck. As long as the seedlings have been planted, not much care would be needed to be given to them.

Regarding the family crop and the seven to eight big pigs which they reared, Wu Hao let his parents to settle them. As for their harvest this year, Wu Hao had nothing to say about it. One thing which he was very sure of, that from next year onwards, he wouldn't let his parents do such hard work anymore.

After all, not only fieldwork could not earn much but it was also very tiring too. For a family to raise seven to eight pigs, this was not an easy feat. Everyday, they would need to spend a lot of time feeding the pigs. Usually, it would take at least a half day's time to do so.

But these few fat pigs were easy to be settled. This was because these pigs were about to be ready to be sold. Even the smallest one already reached about 180kg.

Currently, two of those pigs had been slaughtered. Their meats were used as the daily meals for the workers in the construction team. From Wu Hao's estimation, by the time the new villa was completely built, all the pigs would most likely have been slaughtered for food.

Until the new year arrived, his parents would be able to officially stop doing all the field work. As long as they spent some time supervising the orchard and planting some plants, their job will be done.

After all, Wu Hao's parents have been doing farm work all year round. Plus with their poor lifestyle in a rural area, any little activity could easily trigger illness for them.

Perhaps his own parents had already gotten used to such a lifestyle, they were able to be completely relaxed and comfortably lived through such days!

Now, Wu Hao's telekinesis had also stopped growing. His telekinetic strength had halted at the border of around 1000kg.

At present, the situation in his home could be considered cleared. Regarding the matter of the cement road to his village, the construction had finally been completed two days ago. The villa was still in the middle of construction and under the command of his father, many villagers had been hired to clear off the mountain land which he contracted.

“Dad, mom! I intend to travel for some time with my friends.” That day after dinner, Wu Hao told his plans to his parents.

“Going out with friends? You already have a girlfriend?” Once Wu Hongguo heard the statement from Wu Hao, he was a bit curious.

“Son, why do you wait till now before telling your family that you already have a girlfriend? Who is she?” Hearing such a thing, Wu Hao’s mother was very happy.

After all, Wu Hao had graduated from his tertiary education (university). He was now over 20 years old. However since then, they had never heard him mention anything about him being in a relationship.

“Mom, not a girlfriend! I’m just going out for a trip to the mountains with several backpackers.” Wu Hao bitterly replied. He was now single. Although during the trips in recent days, he had the chance to get closer to two girls, that didn’t mean they were at the stage to be in any relationship.

The one whom he had brushed up with on the bus, Qin Sisi, besides the early few days when they still kept in touch in Wechat and QQ, they hadn't been contacting each other in recent days.

However, whenever Wu Hao opened the social media site page, he would still be able to update himself on the latest developments of her life.

Qin Sisi was an impeccable beauty. Within her circle of friends, whenever there was any status updates or new photos uploaded, the comments below would be very long.

Wu Hao would occasionally look at her latest developments (E/N: He's such a creeper). He would only casually look and as for the comments below, he wouldn't bother with them. As for private messaging her, he would naturally wouldn't do such things.

This was because Wu Hao didn't have any intentions to become closer with her. After all, they only had a very little contact between each other. Even though both had the other's Wechat, they could at most be considered good online friends!

As for the other one Li Xiaoyun who he had some contact with, he was more familiar with this girl. The main reason, it was something easy to guess. Wu Hao had given her hundreds of thousands of fees to be her sugar daddy!

Even at later times, Wu Hao did have some contact with her and explained to her several times that the money was considered as a loan. He told her not to worry much about it but her response really made him speechless. No matter how he persuaded her, she kept insisting that the promise which she had made, she would naturally fulfil her duty!

Facing such a situation, what can Wu Hao say to her anymore! He could only act accordingly by following the flow. Although Li Xiaoyun could be considered a beauty too, Wu Hao still didn't have that kind of feeling being in love with her. Perhaps the sugar daddy matter was the culprit of all this!

Of course, to talk about his feelings was a different matter! He still had some but that was just the normal male hormone secretion.

No matter what, this girl was a beauty who took the initiative to offer herself to be a sugar baby. To say that Wu Hao wasn't feeling anything in his heart was naturally a lie. He wasn't a eunuch so how could he not have any reactions to a beauty!

But it was clear that he was just taking advantage of someone's difficulties. When Wu Hao thought of this, he still couldn't make himself do it.

Plus with the fact that he didn't go to the city these past several days, he naturally couldn't do anything like dating or etc.

However, Li Xiaoyun would always send him a text message. The content was very simple; the usual common greetings, goodnight etc.

Wu Hongguo and Zhang Huilan were feeling strange when they heard that this was not his girlfriend. “Backpackers? What backpackers?”

“Backpackers! They’re a group of like-minded friends who are invited together to go on a wild adventure!” Wu Hao replied.

Of course, Wu Hao himself actually didn’t quite understand what these backpackers were all about. His intention to go to the mountains was true but he was planning to go alone.

Although there were quite a few forum networks and sites about these backpackers, Wu Hao didn’t bother much with them. After all, to survive in the wild was not something which he needed to worry about.

Instead of saying he was exploring in the wild, it would be a more accurate statement to say he was going to the wild for a vacation!

When Wu Hongguo and Zhang Huilian heard such words from Wu Hao, they naturally understood their son’s intention to explore deep in the mountains. However, deep in the mountains, it was a very dangerous place. Let's not mention other places. Even the mountain near their house, if they were to casually explore it, the risk of danger it posed was extremely high.

Although in the mountain, there were no ferocious beasts like tigers, there were still the presence of wild boars there. If you were without any weapons when you encountered a large wild boar, then the risk of danger would be quite high.

“Why do you want to go the mountain out of nowhere?! That place is not somewhere that you can casually go!” Zhang Huilan complained.

Once Wu Hao heard that, he knew that if he didn't come up with a reasonable excuse, he would certainly not be able to go.

“Mom, rest assured! I'm going with a group of people, I'm not going alone. Plus, we will only explore the edge of the mountain and not deep inside the mountain.”

“Also, regarding my 'hunting' ability, you must have seen them already. As long as I'm careful and pay close attention, there won't be any problems.”

Chapter 31 - Going To The Forest For A Trip!

[Fifth Night]

These days in his home, Wu Hao would spend his free time wandering around in the inner regions of the mountain behind his home. And yeah, it wasn't anything to mention that these places had nothing interesting.

However, here you could at least find some wild hares roaming around. In fact for the past ten years, the government had begun to take preventive measures to restore the forest which had been used for agriculture purposes.

The original land which used to be plantation sites had been replanted back with new trees. With the reforestation process in effect, wild hares also began to flourish in this area.

In many rural areas of China, even where there was no high altitude places like mountain etc, as long as there were some areas with lots of trees and rarely had humans go to such places, with just some clips and a cheap net, almost every few days you would be able to collect your harvest.

Especially with a mist net. It was used to capture those creatures which can fly like birds. As long as they could fly, when they get themselves tangled in the net, it was almost an impossible feat to escape anymore.

Not to mention ordinary birds, even the eagles which are larger in size could be captured too.

Moreover, whenever you captured an eagle, it would always come in a package of two. Sometimes if you were lucky, you can even harvest three to four eagles at once.

This was because eagles loved to travel in a family (E/N: A group of eagles is called a convocation); two youngling and two adults.

Plus these kind of birds, like the eagle; they are very intelligent. When they see their companions being trapped, they would definitely want to rescue them which ends up getting themselves trapped in the net too.

These mist nets are the nemesis of birds. The more the bird tries to struggle with their wings, the more they get tangled in the middle of the net.

Thus, as long as there was a bird entering the net, it could only helplessly wait for its death.

This piece of land which Wu Hao contracted could be considered the peripheral region of the Qinling mountains. The mountain behind his home, a lot of them still haven't been explored yet so you could still find quite the number of wild animals there in their natural habitat.

However, besides birds and wild hares, the other animals like wild boars were quite rarely encountered. After all, there was no 'retard' who dared to provoke these wild animals.

Not to mention a wild boar, even a large pig with 100kg in weight, if it has been provoked, no one would be able to subdue its rampage.

But since Wu Hao had his ability, he was able to provide his family extra meat with his harvest. Every other day, he would return back home with one or two boars. This harvest was definitely enough for the whole family to enjoy a joyous meal. (TLN: All these just to explain his 'hunting' ability which he mentioned in previous chapter)

Although Wu Hao's harvest wasn't much, in the eyes of the villagers, it was already an incredible feat.

Subsequently, after Wu Hao gave a very good explanation and assurances, his parents finally reluctantly agreed to his wish to backpack with others in the mountains.

After getting their approval, early morning the next day, Wu Hao brought two huge backpacks and drove to the town. As for the matter regarding the villa's construction, Wu Hao just entrusted this job to his father to take care of.

As for the mountain, Wu Hongguo naturally would find people to take care of it. A few days ago, Wu Hao had saved five million for his parents.

As for the money which he obtained through selling the wild ginsengs, Wu Hao had already explained it to his parents. Anyway, his parents were able to accept these facts from him. At most, he would just underreport by just stating tens of thousand to his parents for them to be familiar with such amount.

Plus since the time when he won the 'jackpot', when he later told his parents about the sale of the wild ginsengs, although his parents were still surprised, they were now able to quickly accept it.

And of course, they were more than glad to keep the five million which Wu Hao gave them. But, this money was kept by them for Wu Hao's future marriage instead.

Of course, Wu Hao completely ignored the matter of marriage. Even if he really wanted to marry a wife, there was no need for his parents to save any money for him at all!

This time, Wu Hao didn't intend to park his car in the previous town. Instead, he drove his car out of the province and arrived at a small town which was just a short distance away from the Qinling mountains.

This little town was obviously not large. There were only two small hotels in the town. As for Wu Hao travelling from his home to this town, he only spent about two hours to reach it.

Because his home was located within the borders of the Sichuan and Shaanxi province, if the distance was measured in straight line, with just ten kilometers you would reach either one of them.

However, in reality, the road was completely different especially in the region in Sichuan. The roads there would constantly bend here and there like a maze. Even the places that were just a few kilometers away, travelling by car on such roads will eventually increase the distance to dozens of kilometers.

Comparing Sichuan roads to the northern parts of China, the roads were like hell and heaven! In most parts of northern China especially the town areas, the roads there were all straight.

Especially in the big cities, if there was no need for you to turn onto other roads, even if you traveled dozens of kilometers, the road will lead you straight into the destination. In other words, there was no need for you to play around with the steering wheel at all!

However when you reached the areas within Sichuan and Chongqing, if you were a newcomer and don't use the navigation device to guide you, it would be very unlikely for you to reach your destination! The complicated bridges and highway, no need to mention about outsiders, even the locals might sometimes get themselves lost if they weren't careful.

“Boss, I will park my car here. Most likely I won't be back for one or two months. Yea, I will have to trouble you here to take a good care of it!” Only when the the sky was getting darker, Wu Hao checked out from his room while giving ten red to the hotel's boss.

“Don't worry, young one. You can rest assured that I will strictly take good care of your car's safety here.” The hotel's boss showed a bright smile looking at the tips she received.

The most expensive room in her hotel only costed 68 per night. As for the parking spaces, there were still a lot of empty lots. Even here, usually not many people would park here.

Therefore, the tips given by Wu Hao for parking his car here was definitely a huge amount of profit!

In fact, when Wu Hao reached this small town, he already attracted a lot of attention from the people who just passed by. After all, the external look of Wu Hao's G500 looked so badass and mighty.

Forget about these few small towns, even in certain big cities, such domineering models were rarely seen on the road.

Of course, if it was in the coastal regions like Guangdong, things will be different. In such cities, you could easily see cars worth millions pass by the road every ten minutes.

After asking for the favor of the hotel's boss to take care of his car, Wu Hao casually carried his two giant backpacks and an ordinary travel luggage, leaving the town.

Chapter 32 - Hawk

These two big outdoor backpacks contained all the stuff which Wu Hao bought during his time in Macao. The luxury outdoor equipment, tent, computer, navigation system, camera, and also several backup batteries.

In addition to these things, Wu Hao also brought along a lot of cooking utensils.

These tools were all bought by him during the day in the town. There were cutlery, pressure cooker, wok, saucepan and etc. plus, Wu Hao even bought a small bag of 20kg rice.

This time, his visit to the mountain was entirely different than last time. The previous trip was entirely just to find herbs so he only carried convenient food like biscuits etc. however, this time around, Wu Hao intended to enjoy himself and make some good explorations in this mountain trip. He wasn't in a rush anyway. Thus, he would go as far as he could with his preparations.

He completely considered this adventure as a picnic in a primitive jungle. He even brought along a set of pots and pans.

These tools weren't expensive. Thus, he didn't intend to bring them back after using them.

Now it was already nearing the year's end, November. The weather had begun to get colder. In the mountains at night, the temperature naturally dropped even lower.

Wu Hao took those few large packages, left the town, and entered the mountain range. After ensuring that nobody was around, he just waved his hand and all the packages were floating alongside him. Then, he began to speed up into the depths of the forest.

“It’s not that bad here. I’ll set up my camp here for several days then!” After about two hours later, Wu Hao had already entered the depths of the mountains. When he was nearing the edge of a cliff, he stopped there. Here, it was surrounded by several mountains, plus there wasn’t any touristy attraction spots nearby. The other reason he chose this spot was that normally, no beast would come to such a cliff side.

Coupled with the fact that the stone platform there wasn’t small, it was almost twenty square feet. To set up his tent, place the tools, and etc., it shouldn’t be a problem at all.

Of course the most important factor here was that here, he was able to receive network signal. Although the signal strength was poor, it could at least barely manage to stay connected.

Wu Hao didn’t only subscribe a phone package with lots of data. He also prepared himself a wireless card for his outdoor laptop. Last trip, he didn’t bring his laptop but this time around, he made sure that he brought along every piece of equipment which he had purchased.

After all, this time, he was going to stay in the mountains for quite some time. According to his original plan, in addition to his little tour of the Qinling mountains, he also intended to take this opportunity to have a look at the Shenlongjia Nature Reserve.

Regarding Shenlongjia, there were several legends about it. Since long ago, Wu Hao had already yearned to visit such a place. From the Qinling mountains to Shenlongjia, the distance wasn't that far. If you traveled in a straight line, they were about 200 km apart. For such a distance, Wu Hao only needed a few hours to fly there.

“Bro, where are you now? What place are you planning to go to?!” The moment Wu Hao's phone received signal, he saw the text message from his sister.

As regarding the matter of this trip, Wu Hao of course told it to his sister. When Wu Xiaoxiao heard her brother going for a trip in the wild, she was somehow joyful yet envious.

If not because of her need to attend school, she definitely would have pestered him to bring her along. However, Wu Hao as of now, couldn't bring anyone along into the mountains. After all, the way he entered the mountains was too abnormal!

“Now, I have reached Changan. Tomorrow, I'll most likely enter the mountains.” Wu Hao replied back.

After replying to his sister, Wu Hao also gave Li Xiaoyun some text message. However, Wu Hao left out the fact about him coming here to play. Instead, he only told her that he was going to travel for some time.

After chatting for a few minutes, Wu Hao closed his Wechat. This was because the signal reception here was really really bad. One short message would need at least a dozen second to send.

“Let’s try the computer signal then!” Wu Hao’s heart moved. He suddenly thought of the Dell outdoor laptop which he bought.

At the time of purchase, the sales staff had told him that this laptop specialised in signal reception and was able to adapt in a variety of harsh environments. The battery lifespan was also durable and compared to ordinary laptops, they were like the difference between heaven and hell.

As for the durable battery, Wu Hao had already tested it himself. From the time he bought it, he didn’t charge the laptop at all although he did use it for quite some time. It wasn’t until yesterday that he had to recharge the laptop’s battery. In addition to the laptop’s own power supply, he also specifically purchased an external backup battery.

“This computer signal is definitely stronger than my phone!” After booting up the laptop, Wu Hao casually opened the web browser and began to search for information from the Internet.

Since several days ago when Wu Hao’s ability no longer grew, he had stopped practising day and night. After all, his cycle of practice could only help him reinstate his power at a faster rate. Even if he did n’t breath by using the special technique, his power’s ability could slowly recover by itself. Since Wu Hao couldn’t improve his ability now, and now that he had extra time, Wu Hao used that time to search for something else.

Compared to ordinary people, his memory had at least doubled or even more. Even his comprehending and learning curve were also in a similar case. If he had such a monstrous learning ability previously, perhaps he would now be in a top-tier university.

However, now with a strong learning curve and the fact that he had a lot of free time, Wu Hao intended to learn something which grabbed his interest.

As for the thing which Wu Hao was most interested in now, was a hacking ability. But, it was just that Wu Hao was a complete newbie in this field. Although Wu Hao now had an enhanced learning ability, to enter the world of the hacker community, he dared not to imagine how long it would take!

The following morning, Wu Hao stood next to the camp near the cliff and carefully looked around the environment.

From the current mountain where he stood to the flat land, there were a distance of more than a hundred meters. As for the opposite of where he was standing, there was a wall of mountains which looked as if they had been sliced with a knife, this mountain wall was even taller by hundreds of meters.

“This canyon definitely isn’t small!” Wu Hao looked down at the endless canyon. Although the fog prevented him from seeing the bottom of the canyon and specific details, he still knew that this canyon definitely wasn’t small.

And at that time, the sound of a hawk was echoing all over the canyon. Looking at the direction where the sound of the hawk came from, Wu Hao immediately saw a hawk flying to the other direction.

“It seems that the cliff across from here should be the nest of the hawk. I’m not sure whether there are any young hawks there.” Wu Hao’s mind moved. Suddenly, a slight interest came into his heart.

Last time due to him rushing, he didn’t have any time to search for this predator. Now since he had a lot of time to spend, he naturally wanted to have a better look at this unique predator. It would be even better if he managed to raise one.

From the visual he saw just now, Wu Hao thought that this hawk was definitely quite large in size. Although he wasn’t sure about the specific species of this hawk, from the look of its body, it shouldn’t be an ordinary one. The possibility for a rare one was quite high.

However, Wu Hao didn’t immediately fly to search for the nest. Instead, he flew to the rear of the mountain. He decided to hunt for two wild animals first before making any moves.

One was for him to fill his belly while the other one was of course for him to use as bait.

Chapter 33 - Two Young Birds

Reaching the back of the mountains, Wu Hao didn't spend much time to stumble across two hares weighing a full ten catties each.

As for these wild little hares, with Wu Hao's ability, he could naturally control them with ease, making them unable to move. He didn't need any weapons to kill them.

One hare that weighed ten catties was already sufficient to last a whole day. Thus, it wasn't necessary for him to hunt for more prey. Even if he did so, it would just end up being a waste.

After capturing two fat meaty hares, soon Wu Hao reached a small stream. One of them was washed and prepared by Wu Hao and the remaining hare was just killed without any preparation.

After he finished dealing with the hares, Wu Hao then flew back to the platform at the cliff. In order to avoid dealing with the early morning fog, since yesterday evening, Wu Hao had already prepared a large pile of firewood which was sufficient enough to last for a few meals.

“En! It has been quite a while since I've eaten roasted meat. This rabbit, I'm going to roast it then!” When he was at home, the hares he hunted were all used to make meat stew. Thus, this time he wanted to change his food preparation.

To start a fire was very simple for Wu Hao. He didn't even have to use his own hands to do so. By just using his telekinesis, one pile of firewood beside him began to light up in flames.

A lighter in the bag flew towards the firewood at a high speed. After igniting the leaves and firewood, the little fire gradually began to grow bigger.

After successfully starting the fire, various spices were spread all over the hare. Like before, without his hands, the whole body of the hare fully covered with spices automatically flew on top of the fire and it slowly rotated while being roasted.

This was simply too convenient, even much easier than a roasting machine. Now, he had trained to the stage where he could easily use his telekinesis to control many items at once. While watching the fire, he rotated the hare without any sweat. This job was just a piece of cake.

Time quickly passed by. The golden hare which had been kept roasting had finally been successfully cooked. However this hare, even after skin and bone removal, still had around four to five catties of meat remaining. Wu Hao definitely couldn't not finish all of that at once.

Thus, he took out a knife and divided it into half to keep it inside a pressure cooker. This would become a readied meal for him to eat at noon.

“Alright, now it's time to go the other side and search for the eagle nest!” After satisfying his appetite, he carried along the other hare and flew to the opposite side of the mountain.

His current telekinetic ability allowed him to control up to 1000kg. Even if he was really unable and had to encounter attacks from such a large bird, he would still be able to handle it. In fact, bird predator like eagles actually weren't that powerful strength-wise. Instead, their advantage was their sharp claws and hard strong beak.

Sure enough, when he arrived at the opposite side, a large bird noticed him and stared at him. It then began to scream as a sign of warning to Wu Hao of a potential confrontation.

“This eagle's nest is really close by!” Watching this scene, Wu Hao's mind became more determined now.

Facing the about to come attack from the eagle, he was not panicked at all. When the opposition was approaching him, his telekinesis immediately took control of the bird's body; hovering it in the air for a few laps.

This large bird that was over two meters in size, facing such sudden attack on itself, was definitely startled. However, it didn't give up at all. After being forcefully hovered around for a few laps in the air, it tried hard using its wing to stabilize its posture and began its counterattack again.

“Wow, such strong determination!” Watching this bird starting to attack him again, Wu Hao knew that one lesson was not enough for this foe to quit.

Only by doing this a few more times would this foe start to become afraid, begin to quit, and stop attacking again.

Therefore, Wu Hao immediately repeated his attack. Again, he used his ability to take control of its body and shuttle it in the sky for a few laps. After experiencing another lesson from Wu Hao, this eagle obviously began to feel some fear. Only after it stabilized its body, it just flew around Wu Hao and didn't attack him.

“Hehe! Little guy, I won't do anything to do; I only want to take some photos of you!” Wu Hao shook his head while laughing. He no longer bothered about this eagle anymore.

And at this time, Wu Hao was finally able to find the eagle's nest at this huge mountain wall.

This was a cave located about fifty meters from the hilltop of a cliff. This cave was not huge, only about three meters in diameter. In the furthest reaches of the cave, there was a large messy pile of stones.

Outside the pile of stones was a large eagle nest. In the nest, there were two young eagles; one large, one small . This small pitiable bird was constantly being harassed by the bigger one.

“There really are two young eagles! However, from the current situation, if this continued, this small bird most likely won't be able to survive.” Watching the scene in the nest, Wu Hao suddenly recalled a documentary about this case.

In nature, when the female eagle hatched more than one egg, usually only one would survive.

This was because during feeding session, a vast majority of the food would be obtained by the large one. Since the other young eagles couldn't eat much, the gap between them would only grow bigger and bigger.

Over time, the weakling will be pecked by the strong one until death or was forced off the cliff.

“Look at this bird's size and color, it should be a golden eagle. Since this little guy will have an inevitable fate if it continues staying here, why don't I just adopt it myself! This rabbit will be your adoption fee then!” Wu Hao looked at the bird outside, hovering around the cave.

Although he had no experience at all in raising an eagle, he could still slowly learn it! As for eagles, if you start taking care of them when they're young, when they grows up they would to listen to the commands from its master.

However, it is still quite rare to encounter anyone who would keep this large predator, like a golden eagle, as pet.

After looking at these young eagles, Wu Hao started to feel curious and inspected the messy heap of stones.

“Yi! Inside, there should still be something.” Using his spiritual perception for a careful investigation, he began to fly in that direction.

The length in this cave in total was less than ten meters. The deeper the cave, the smaller its diameter. However, this was not the most important thing. The main point was here, he stumbled upon a black stone which was about half the size of a fist.

And this black stone gave him a very special feeling. As for what was so special about it, Wu Hao couldn't explain. In short, this stone was not a typical stone.

Since most of the space was occupied and blocked by stones, Wu Hao could only use his telekinesis to bring out the black stone from the innermost region.

“Seems like I have to settle the matter outside too.” Thinking of this, Wu Hao instantly flew back to the outer region of the cave. Holding the stone, it didn't only give him a very special feeling but also in his heart, there was this strong desire to get stronger.

Chapter 34 - An Astonishing Stone

“Seems that I have to clean up these pile of stones outside first.” Thinking of this, Wu Hao didn’t delay any longer and started working. It was because this little stone made him feel something special; plus within his heart there was an intense urge.

... ..

The stones accumulated in the innermost region of the cave weren’t large. The largest one only weighed hundreds of kilograms. All these stones were within the range Wu Hao’s telekinesis could affect.

Because this area wasn’t a habitation for human, even if the stones were thrown from the nearly thousand meter high cliff, it wouldn’t cause any harm at all.

As a result, the stone piles within the cave, one by one the stones were thrown out of the cliff.

Within a period of a few minutes, the stone piles within the cave were all cleared up by Wu Hao with his telekinesis.

However, such actions actually consumed one third of Wu Hao’s energy. Although the cave itself wasn’t that deep nor large, besides the little gap at the upper part, the other part was basically blocked by stones.

Therefore, the amount of work needed for such actions was still a lot. If it were ordinary people working, perhaps it would require then several days to accomplish the task.

After clearing the stones from the innermost region, the little black stone which was previously blocked by the stones flew straight towards Wu Hao.

However, the moment this black stone came into contact with his skin, Wu Hao's face immediately changed!

“FML! What is this toy?!” Feeling that the black stone within his hand was sticking to his skin tightly as if his hand was absorbing it, at the same time, there were waves of intense pain which definitely caught Wu Hao off guard.

This black stone's strange and formidable power exceeded Wu Hao's own estimations. As Wu Hao was having this thought, in a flash, his consciousness was gone as his brain couldn't accept the energy brought by the strange stone, causing him to fall down, lying on the cave ground.

And the black stone which tightly stuck itself onto Wu Hao's hand began to undergo a drastic change. Originally, this stone which was black like carbon, gradually became red enough to be seen with the naked eye. At the same time, it also slowly began to melt.

However, Wu Hao whose consciousness couldn't withstand the abrupt energy flowing from the stone, had fainted. Of course he wouldn't know the scene that was happening right now.

Even now, Wu Hao's body started to gradually turn red. Boundless energy which was like a flood began to rush forward from the melting stone within his hand, travelling along the cells of Wu Hao's body all the way up to his brain non stop.

And this process had lasted for a full duration of half an hour and yet, there was still no sign of stopping. However, the piece of stone which now looked like molten iron had melted quite a bit.

From the rate of the melting, to completely melt such a strange stone, it would probably take another few hours to do so.

At this time, the golden eagle who kept circling outside the cave, noticed Wu Hao who was motionless, it landed outside the cave and kept staring in the direction of Wu Hao.

A few minutes later, seeing Wu Hao not show any signs of movement, its courage also started to build up. It immediately grabbed the hare which Wu Hao left at the side and fed it to the two young eagles in the nest.

However, because of the size difference between these two young eagles, the smaller one couldn't give into fight at all to its bigger sized brother. Finally, only after the bigger one finished its meal, only then did it have the opportunity to eat the hare.

It was just that at this time, the whole hare no longer had much meat. Thus, it could only eat a few bits of meat and had to live with it. It was helpless and began to chirp non stop.

As for the golden eagle, after it finished feeding the young eagles, it started to clean up the remains of the hare and then flew off the mountain wall. From the beginning to the end, it didn't bother at all with Wu Hao. Although he was now on the ground motionless, his body was brimming in red light which make it fear and dared to not approach him mindlessly.

However, this golden eagle didn't leave but went to the nearby mountain wall to scout and patrol.

For Golden eagles, when raising their kids, usually one of them would stay at the nest while the other one would go hunting. Then, they would alternate in between turns.

While hunting, they would first devour the captured prey, leaving only a small part of it to feed the kids.

This was because an adult golden eagle couldn't carry heavy prey while flying. Unless it was small prey like a hare, they could only eat a huge part of the captured prey before bringing the remains back to their lair.

Just like that, a peaceful two hours passed by. Within one of Wu Hao's hand, the mysterious stone shrank down to about the size of two fingers.

At this moment, at a distance away, another adult golden eagle carrying an incomplete goat flew back to the nest. With a scream, it was as if communicating with the other golden eagle which had left the nest just now. Then, it stared at Wu Hao who was in the innermost part of the cave.

However, sensing a biological feeling of danger, it also didn't dare to confront Wu Hao and began feeding the two young eagles.

Of course, instead of saying feeding two young eagles, it would be more accurate to say that it was feeding just one.

For the smaller young eagle, besides eating two little bits, the meat was monopolised by its bigger brother.

Like what was mentioned before, the adult golden eagle didn't care much about this. After all, this was the natural law of survival. With their intelligence, they couldn't manage to fairly divide the spoils amongst the two young eagles.

After all, even though they were the top predators in the sky, of course they wouldn't be able to hunt enough food every day. Thus, under normal conditions, usually if a golden eagle hatched more than one, only one young eagle would survive until the very end.

Time flew by. After around more than one hour, the stone within Wu Hao's hand completely disappeared. At this moment, Wu Hao's entire body also gradually stopped undergoing changes. Like before, the body systems and blood flow were restored back to homeostatis.

After Wu Hao's whole body restored back to normal, Wu Hao's consciousness also came back. "Such a magical feeling!" Regaining his consciousness, he opened his eyes slowly and at that time, he felt all sorts of weird changes that occurred in his body.

At the same time, the whole situation from before, started to play like a film within his mind.

"What exactly was this strange stone? It could actually make my telekinesis and spiritual perception improve at such a monstrous rate." Wu Hao stood up and exclaimed in surprise.

From the scene in his mind, he knew everything which had occurred in his body before and from the surroundings. This also made him understand the changes that were in his body. However, in regards to the disappeared black stone, he still couldn't identify the identity of the stone.

In summary, with the changes in Wu Hao currently, his abilities and physical fitness levels had been enhanced by ten times compared to before the stone.

Besides a wider range and improved strength of telekinesis, there was no other change.

However, when comparing his spiritual perception the before the stone, it had become strange. Wu Hao's spiritual perception not only increased in its coverage area, he could also detect all sort of changes occurring within the organisms surrounding him.

For example, he could clearly sense how the organs within his body worked and how the blood moved within the vessels. Besides that, he could also detect the harmful substances within his body.

Not only being able to perceive, he could also control the cells within his body to start working in eliminating the unwanted materials within his body; in essence clearing them out. Also, his metabolism became stronger by several times compared to before.

Chapter 35 - Becoming More Powerful

... ..

In addition to perceiving the condition within his own body, the surrounding plants, animals, and how their bodies functioned to absorb nutrients and grow, he could ‘see’ it clearly.

This ability was much better than the most advanced X-ray invented by humankind. Besides animals and plants, even with materials like stones and etc, he could even see their internal structure.

Plants and animals aside, he was even able to sense all the magnetic fields around him, signals and etc which were things not able to be seen by the naked human eyes. (E/N: Looks like we have another Lucy on our hands.)

In today’s Earth, besides those naturally formed magnetic fields, this world was filled with countless wireless signals too. For example, mobile phone signals, satellite signals, and others.

If these signals were all drawn out and mankind was allowed to see them, if you go to any big city, the first thing you would see was definitely not humans but various kinds of signal from the dense magnetic fields.

“Isn’t my current spiritual perception the same as the protagonist from the film with her strange ability?!” After witnessing this world from a different point of view, he felt that the current situation he was like déjà vu.

In the story of the film, after the protagonist was able to unlock her brain's domain to a certain degree, she was able to sense and control the magnetic fields and signals.

Being able to find the signal of information which you want from within the sea of information, this would allow you to control the end terminal of devices from a specific signal. With electronic equipment, within a certain range of the equipment, one would also be able to know about the surroundings as well.

This kind of ability in this world full of electronic appliances and gadgets used by the community, such an ability was never to be described as nothing besides extremely powerful.

This was because as long as the place had signal, you would be able to use those signals, you could link yourself to the end terminal of the signals like mobile phones, televisions, or even other things; you would have the power to control their functions.

If the weapons were controlled electronically, then it will be the same as they could still be controlled by the signals. Such an ability against electronically equipped weapons, it was a total nightmare!

The reason was that in this society and within such an era, whether it was a car, a ship, or an airplane, which one didn't have any electronic equipment? Excluding the equipment from the olden days which used mechanical power and systems with no electronic usage at all, the latest weapons were all used the electronic technology of which relied on their own satellite control system.

“This.....don’t tell me that I have such an overpowered ability?” In order for Wu Hao to test his new ability, his heart was moved and he tested it on the signal coming into the mobile phone of his as experiment. Apparently, he could really rely on the signal waves entering into his own mobile phone’s antenna and control it to on or off.

Wu Hao’s heart was beating fast. He suddenly had this idea to track the end terminal of receiving appliances of the weak signals nearby. The signal which he chose was most likely from the nearby satellite base receiver.

With this trial, he managed to know the limits of his spiritual perception. This was because although he was able to use this signal and track all the way to the receiver signal, somehow the process was very demanding and strenuous. Plus, the current him still wasn’t able to control the equipment from long ranges. At most, he could use this signal to send some information but he definitely couldn’t gain access to control such long distance terminals.

“Seems like I could only use the signals to control the end terminal of the receiver within the range of 1000 meters. However, this ability is still freaking strong!” Very soon, Wu Hao was able to better understand his new spiritual perception’s usage and its limit.

Plus, besides his telekinesis and spiritual perception being enhanced, there was still an additional upgrade. He was now able to recall every scene which he had seen through his eyes ever since birth. Each and every scene clearly appeared within his brain.

“Now I should have obtained an eidetic memory!” Wu Hao couldn’t stop himself from becoming emotional.

This was because when he recalled his memories, it wasn’t only his past experiences but also all the hardship endured by his parents since he was young.

Also, he was able to learn a secret of his family which was recalled from his childhood memory. That secret was that his own sister, Xiaoxiao was not the real daughter given birth to by his parents. Instead, it was when he was still a little kid, his own parents adopted her.

At that time, he was too young to remember and understand such things. With his immature brain, of course he wouldn’t be able to understand the adult’s way of thinking. However, now being able to recall every memory from even the deepest regions of his brain, it was as if he was watching a very long documentary film about his life of 20 years. Naturally, with the memory from the childhood which he didn’t understand at that time, the current him definitely understood everything.

However, after he learned such an event which actually couldn’t be considered a secret, he had no intentions to inform that his sister nor parents. Instead, doing so would only make his sister feel awkward and wouldn’t benefit his family at all. Moreover, although she was not his true sister, he would still treat her like usual and definitely wouldn't be changing any attitudes towards her.

After recalling all of the past experiences, Wu Hao no longer thought much about it. He turned his head and looked at the two young eagles while he showed a smile, "Since you have taken my hare, then I will help you take care of this little cutie and raise it well!"

Directly using his telekinesis, he controlled the small young eagle's body and together they left the cave. In just a single breath, both of them safely arrived at the other side of the mountain where the platform was located.

The moment when Wu Hao left with the smaller young eagle, the adult guardian golden eagle naturally noticed his actions. Besides crying a few times, it didn't go to stop him. This was because it knew that such actions would be futile.

However, when Wu Hao left the cave, the golden eagle immediately flew back to the side of the nest. Besides chirping a few times, it didn't do anything. This was because in the nest, there was still the bigger and stronger young eagle.

"Well, I should make you a nest!" Inspecting the surrounding of the platform, Wu Hao picked a nice spot.

He intended to build a nest in the innermost region of the nearby cliff. Also, Wu Hao was proud of himself for finding this platform as a base for his camp. This was indeed a very good location.

Besides animals like birds and snakes, other animals simply wouldn't come near such a place. Furthermore, a few hundred meters away, there was a large pond too. Since this place was a remote location, usually there wouldn't be any humans coming to such an area. Under careful planning and construction, this spot was definitely a good one for a basecamp.

There was also one very important factor which was that this spot was capable of receiving network signal. Such a factor alone was already a sufficient reason to make this spot a long-term stronghold.

Chapter 36 - Building A Wooden House

However, at present, the first thing which Wu Hao wanted to do was to get this little bird a nest first.

With Wu Hao's current ability, building a nest was just as simple as ABC. He didn't have to leave his current spot nor use his own hands. With just his spiritual perception, he would be able to detect the branches and leaves in the surrounding area. Using his telekinesis, he would then control them to move all the way until they were in front of him and automatically, a nest would appear before him in no time.

As for the current spiritual perception of Wu Hao, besides able to scan a certain range in circumference, investigating the situation in the surrounding environment; it could also be used like before, acting as his third eye to search for the things that he wanted.

After all, whenever his spiritual perception was activated, what appeared in front of his sight would be endless, a variety of signal waves and also X-ray versions of animals and plants. If he used this for a very long time, it would be very likely for him to suffer from a mental illness!

Therefore, Wu Hao could now control his spiritual perception very well. Not only could he scan the whole circumference, he could also aim at a specified target.

Just like that, in a period of less than ten seconds, a simple nest was completed by the cliff.

Wu Hao then used his telekinesis to put the baby eagle into the nest. However, this little bird kept chirping non-stop. Seeing this, Wu Hao seemed to understand what it was trying to say.

“It should be hungry right now, I guess!” Wu Hao smiled and leaped forward to fly into the sky, finding some food for it to eat.

The current ability of Wu Hao had increased by a total of ten times. From 1000 kg, it had been enhanced up to 10,000 kg which also meant a force of 10 tons.

Such force is of course extremely powerful; even flying a car would be as easy as playing with a toy for him. Also, his flying speed had also been boosted as a result of his increased strength.

Last time, his top speed was about 200 km/h and his stamina couldn't last that long. However, now it was totally not the same anymore. According to Wu Hao's estimation in his heart, his current top speed should reach at least 1000 km/h. Such a speed was comparable to a normal commercial airline, it would be almost close and they could match each other.

Plus, if he maintained such speed in flight, Wu Hao could last for about two hours without any problem. In other words, he could travel within his motherland from the north to the south within a few hours.

Even going overseas would be an easy matter for him. Of course, if he wanted to visit the United States, it would still be a bit troublesome. After all, he could not fly over the whole Pacific Ocean at once. Even if he wanted to do so, he would have to fly along the coast.

Just a few minutes later, Wu Hao reached somewhere a few kilometers away and hunted a hare and pheasant. Then, he returned back to his base.

At a quick speed, he removed all the inner organs of the hare and with a sharp knife, he used his telekinesis to control it, removing all the meat cleanly from the bone.

“En! Feeding this little one, it would be better if I personally do so. Only then would it recognize me.” Thinking of this, Wu Hao immediately gave up the idea of using telekinesis to feed it. From a bag nearby, he took out a pair of chopstick to pick up the hare meat which is still reeked of fresh blood to feed the little young eagle.

To feed this wild animal, he naturally could not clean the meat like he did for himself. After removing the meat, he could directly feed it to the baby eagle. After all, the adult eagle also directly fed the prey it caught without any preparations.

Anyway, Wu Hao didn't directly use his own hand while handling this hare. Using his telekinesis, he controlled the knife to remove the meat from the bones. All the internal organs were removed too. He didn't have any plans to feed this little one inner organs. At most, he would only leave out the heart and the liver for it.

“Seems that this little one is hungry then. It seems to have never eaten its fill before!” Watching this little young eagle eat the meat in such violent and energetic manner, Wu Hao somehow found this scene funny and laughed.

However, he didn't plan to feed it at once until it was full. This was because for this bird which had never eaten until it was full, if he was to feed it too much at once, it would instead do more harm than good.

This principle is the same for humans. If a man hadn't eaten for one whole day, at first, he should eat a small quantity. If he overate, perhaps he would burst from food. (T/N: Failed logic from author?) (E/N: The author obviously has never had all you can eat korean bbq as a poor college student.)

After he finished feeding this cute chick, Wu Hao looked around the surrounding environment of the platform. Soon, an idea came across his brain.

“Well, from how this platform looks, building a small wooden house is definitely a good idea. After I finish building it, the next time I come back here, I no longer need to bring a lot of stuff.” After he had this epiphany, Wu Hao immediately acted upon it. In fact, this time coming deep into the mountains, he had decided to build a stronghold in the wild.

Thus, this time in addition to buying tableware, he also specifically bought himself a few saws, an axe, and a wood chopper. Even though he had a military knife, using it to chop a tree would be too vexatious. Although he had his telekinesis as an added bonus, chopping down the tree definitely wouldn't be a problem. However, after such a tedious usage of this military knife, its lifespan would be greatly reduced.

Now, with an axe and a wood chopper, it would be a different scenario here. Whether he wanted a wooden plank or wooden beam, he could definitely use these two tools to make them.

After all, all this work didn't require him to do it all manually. With his telekinetic ability, he would be able to master the perfect balance of various tools. Since his ability was now ten times stronger, starting this job off was obviously quicker.

Just like that, Wu Hao brought along all of his tools and went to a forest within one of the mountains. There, he found a large tree with a diameter of one meter.

Cutting down this tree, it could directly be made into about one meter long wooden planks. This length of wooden planks were very suitable to be used for the roof and sidewalls.

According to Wu Hao's plan, he wanted to build a wooden house about 10 square meters. Cutting about three of such trees should be sufficient enough to build the wall, roof, and floor.

After gathering all the needed wooden planks, he just needed to find some smaller trees to use them as support beams.

Wu Hao who already had a plan within his heart, in order to not affect the nearby trees, he was ready to cut the trees from the top.

First, Wu Hao controlled the axe and the wood chopper to remove all the branches of the tree. Then, he used the wood chopper to cut according to specific lengths from the top.

After cutting down three trees at the same time, Wu Hao used this telekinesis to control three saws and simultaneously split the tree into wood planks. This process was without a doubt, less time-consuming.

Chapter 37 - Future Uprising Of Hacking

However, Wu Hao didn't decide to build this wooden house in a day. Even if he had the idea to do so, it was definitely an impossible task.

This wooden house or cliff-house of his, he planned to build it suspended on top of the cliff. He needed to cut and dig a deep groove on the cliff for the stability of the house. And of now, he didn't have any tools to do such a job like cutting the rocks and etc.. He could only wait until the sky grew dark before paying a visit to the nearby town to buy the tools.

Moreover, besides the tools for cutting rock, he also had to buy a gasoline torch for surface carbonization of the wooden plank and piles.

Otherwise, these wooden planks and piles won't last for long under the direct sun and rain. Since Wu Hao had to spend so much energy on building this wooden house, he naturally won't wish for it to decay that quickly.

Also, in order to maintain the original feeling of wooden house, he decided to go with no metal and modern paint. The whole wooden house's structure was built by fixing each component together like a lego. This type of construction was adapted from the ancient housing technology.

However, this wooden house of Wu Hao was just a small one. Thus, it didn't have that complex structure of ancient buildings.

Just like that, a day had passed. Earlier on, besides hunting for some food for the young eagle, all the remaining time was spent on cutting wood.

These wooden planks which Wu Hao had obtained, they were all thick. Each wooden plank had a thickness of around 5cm. Because of his telekinetic aid in the process, there weren't many errors in cutting the wood.

As for the wooden planks which would be used as the floor base, their thickness was naturally higher. Although these would increase the overall weight of the house, as long as the base was stable with a deep impale on the mountain wall, there shouldn't be much of a problem.

When the day started to turn dark, Wu Hao temporarily halted the work he was doing. Considering that going into a small town to buy stuff might not be convenient, Wu Hao flew directly towards Chang'an City which was more than 100km from here.

If he was just buying the tools for cutting the stone and etc., he should be able to get those with ease. But, a gasoline torch might be a bit difficult to find in such a small town.

Anyway, with the current flying speed of Wu Hao, going to Chang'an City with a distance of more than 100km wouldn't consume much of his time. Besides that, even the nearest town from here would need at least tens of kilometers too.

Because it was now night, Wu Hao didn't have to worry much flying in the sky. With his fastest speed, he directly headed towards an unpopulated place within the outskirts of Chang'an City.

Wu Hao's luck was good that day. With just a few minutes of walking, he managed to stop a passing taxi which then drove him to the urban areas.

Along the way, Wu Hao began to search for nearby hardware stores. About 20 minutes later, Wu Hao finally managed to find his target.

Half an hour later, Wu Hao bought all the items on his checklist. Besides the cutting tools for the rock and the gasoline torch which was to be used for wood carbonization, he also bought a few bottles of tung oil and a whole set of woodworking tools.

Although he had finished cutting wood during the day, the surface of the wooden planks and piles were still rough. Since he was here to buy tools, he might as well get himself a set of woodworking tools too. With them, the newly cut planks and piles will definitely have a better finish.

After he finished his shopping, Wu Hao didn't spend any longer in the city. Through the connection of the shop owner, and very quickly at that, he got himself a car to deliver those tools to the outskirts of the city.

When the car reached the road at the city's outskirts, Wu Hao immediately asked the driver to stop. After paying the fees, he directly carried all the items he bought into the nearby forest. After confirming that nobody was around, Wu Hao began his journey back to his base, flying up in the sky.

Due to low visibility at night and additional things that needed to be carried along, Wu Hao's flying speed was quite fast but his altitude wasn't that high though.

If he is to fly at a high altitude while he was carrying a lot of items, he was afraid that he would be killed by the country's lighting. As long as he flew at a low altitude and within the range of mountains, even the world's most advanced radar wouldn't be able to detect Wu Hao.

The only possibility would be Wu Hao following an early warning aircraft system. With the radar waves directly projected from the top to the bottom, only then would Wu Hao's presence be detected.

But for such a possibility to happen was extremely low. This early warning aircraft system in the country could be counted with one hand. How could they randomly fly here without any reasons!

Back at the camp base, Wu Hao placed all of the tools at the side of the platform. Then, he began starting the fire for his barbeque cooker.

As a result of starting a campfire on the platform at night, this scene can be seen even from a distance away. However, since within a radius of a dozen kilometers away there were no other animals except birds, Wu Hao wasn't afraid of being discovered.

This trip to Chang'an, in addition to the tool purchase, he also bought himself a box of canned beers. Drinking beer while enjoying delicious roasted pheasant meat, such a feeling was naturally very wonderful.

“En, such a life isn't bad! But, when my wooden house is completed, it will be even more perfect. That time, I no longer have to stay in this tent.” Feeling satisfied, Wu Hao smiled.

After he finished eating and drinking, Wu Hao opened his laptop to continue learning about hacking.

However, the moment when Wu Hao tried connecting to the network with his laptop, he suddenly felt the changes within the laptop. It was not because of it but Wu Hao detected a very strong receiving signal.

“This should be the direct connection with the signal from a communication satellite. If not, how would it be possible to have such a strong signal strength.” Outside of Earth, in outer space, in addition to phone connections and some signal base stations, other devices wouldn't be able to directly connect to the satellites.

However, because this laptop of his was a military-level gadget, it of course had the ability to directly receive signal from the satellites. As for the reason why there was no connection, that was mainly because of an absence of open access.

Using his spiritual perception to detect the changes within the laptop, Wu Hao's heart moved. He didn't do anything but was able to forcibly connect the satellite signal with the laptop.

Then, his fingers quickly tapped on top of the keyboard for a moment and casually obtained a permanent access. "This should be the so-called hacking technology!" Wu Hao's mouth raised up, laughing slightly as a result.

This was because he found that it was quite easy to hack other gadgets and obtain the highest authority.

This ability, besides understanding all sorts of magnetic fields and signals with his spiritual perception, there was also knowledge regarding computers which he had never come across before. And just now, he took the opportunity to learn about the knowledge through the Internet.

It was just like a domino effect, as long as he managed to open the main door, the rest like knowledge and information, he could easily understand in little to no time.

"En. Since I can easily gain the access permission of the satellite, if I publish something in the Internet, no one would be able to know that I'm the one who released it right?" Thinking of this, Wu Hao became more excited.

Because if this was the case, he would be able to freely upload all the videos and pictures of rare wild species without having to worry about his identity being leaked!

Chapter 38 - Disappearance Of South China Tiger

It is a need to mention that this method was really something that Wu Hao wished to do so since a long time ago. This was because as someone who took photos of rare animals, once the photos were released to the community, they would definitely bring him lots of hassle. This was without a doubt, one of the most troublesome matters.

For example, before this, the photos and videos of the South China tiger which he took, at that time, he did have the impulse to share these with others.

However, what he photographed to the current generation, they were all so rare that once released, a great sensation would be brought to the community.

Thus, the moment when others knew that he was the one who released the pictures and videos, they would ask him how he managed to take them in such vast mountains, how should he explain it then?

But now, it was different. With the super hacking technology he had, he could guarantee that he wouldn't leave a trace when he posted all of the videos and pictures on the Internet which then others won't be able to investigate his presence.

To be able to become such a master in hacking in such a short period of time, it was all thanks to his new super memory and fast learning. Also, the most important factor was none other than the upgraded version of his spiritual perception.

Although with him alone, controlling the signal terminal from a distance away would be limited, but if it is through other mediums, there won't be such restrictions in distance.

In other words, when Wu Hao was using his laptop just now, through his spiritual perception, he managed to enter into the data resource of the computer and then to the other signal terminal through the satellite signal.

This ability had the same concept as actual hacking. But the only difference was that it was not just as simple as manipulating the computer. Instead, it was a direct way with the data energy entering into the opposing terminals.

This way operated more like a legendary artificial intelligence. Since artificial intelligence existed by itself in the vast network, naturally it would be able to enter whatever it wanted to without much difficulty.

Although Wu Hao's ability was still far when compared to an actual artificial intelligence, to release something in the network and not be detected, it was just a simple matter.

In fact, Wu Hao wasn't exactly interested in invading others. As long as his presence in the network wasn't detected, that should be more than sufficient.

Thinking of this, Wu Hao began to take action. First, he registered a new account on Tieba. As for the real name identification and etc., Wu Hao naturally was able to bypass it. (Tieba: China's reddit)

After registering the new account, Wu Hao immediately entered into the 'Adventure' thread. As far as he knew, uploading the rare pictures which he took in the wild would be best suited by uploading it on this thread!

Although currently there were only about several thousand followers on the thread with only a number of posts, this shouldn't pose any problems for him.

This was because he believed that as long as he uploaded the pictures with some simple captions, within a short period of time, the pictures would definitely go viral in the Internet community. As long as they managed to get the attention of the media, there was no need for any worries for them not spreading around.

ID of the poster: Fighting tiger everyday, Post name: Disappearance of South China tiger.

After making sure the title of the post was named well, Wu Hao went to the pictures which he had saved in the laptop. The first photo which he chose to upload was the one when a South China tiger was posing fiercely in front of the camera accompanied with a simple line of introduction.

Then, following them was a few images from a sideway direction and the huge claw attacks. Same like before, each and every photo was added with some descriptions. The post had a total of nine pictures.

Each picture was captured in high-definition. After all, Wu Hao's camera cost him several tens of thousands of dollars. Naturally, the quality of the pictures taken wouldn't be bad.

After he finished editing the post, Wu Hao then clicked upload. As for the rest, he didn't really care about them at all.

After he finished uploading them into Tieba, Wu Hao then visited the largest video website in the country, Youdao Video. Of course the reason Wu Hao was here was to upload the video of the South China tiger that he took.

And this video only had the duration of a few minutes. Since Wu Hao took this video by controlling the camera with his telekinesis, the viewing angle was aerial. All the activities of the South China tiger, jumping and running around the jungle were all recorded down.

In fact, when the adult South China tiger noticed the presence of Wu Hao, it of course started to threaten him with its sharp claws. After repeated attacks with no result, it only roared a few times before it ran away into the deep jungle.

And this video clip recorded the whole process too. If the photos he uploaded only recorded the moment of the tiger, then this high definition video without doubt did its job in recording the whole figure of the South China tiger.

Applying an account for Youdou Video was an easy task for Wu Hao. Even his username was the same as the one he used in Tieba, 'Fighting Tiger Everyday'.

Due to the need to be reviewed by Youdou Video, after uploading the video, Wu Hao didn't care whatever happened afterwards.

However, after Wu Hao finished uploaded the video not long ago, at the adventure forum, a few users already dropped some comments.

"F*ck! This is really a real tiger! High-definition some more, These pictures, which master snapped them!"

"Wild South China tiger? Didn't the government already declare that such species was already extinct?"

"What shit the experts claimed, you really believe them! What people posted are all high definition pictures. Such environment, such ferocity, without doubt, this is definitely from the wild. Those tigers locked at the zoo are nothing at all compared to this. The experts didn't explain....."

"Such big news, I must share it!"

Not long after this post was online, many users started to comment on the page and discuss about it. Soon, Tieba had pinned the page as the top page on the site.

This was because these photos on Tieba were absolutely real. Not only were they all in high definition, even every direction of the tigers were snapped too.

Coupled with the surrounding background environment, it certainly wasn't something a zoo could emulate, besides this being a real South China tiger, there were really no other possibilities.

After all, that time during '08, the 'tiger week' event, with only such fake boring photos, all kind of rumors and stories which even news media covered too spread nationwide.

Actually, at that time, a lot of Internet users didn't know the presence of such things known as photoshop. Thus, many of them were fooled.

With the photo that time and if it was released now, as long as the person used the Internet, they would immediately realize that the photo was a product of photoshop. This was because the traces of the photo being edited by photoshop were too obvious.

Now, the photos which Wu Hao uploaded were all high definition with a total of nine images taken from different angle and direction. Who would still dare to say that there was a possibility of them being fake?

This was something absolutely impossible to fake! Therefore, these photos will definitely become hot. Perhaps without even taking a long time, someone would contact investigators to get the identity of the one who uploaded the pictures.

Too bad with Wu Hao's current ability, these people simply wouldn't be able to find any trace of him.

Chapter 39 - Opening The Mountain Wall

The next day, when the sky hadn't turned bright yet, Wu Hao went a few kilometers away to catch and bring back a huge prey.

This was a giant wild boar weighing over 100 catties. If it was in the past, Wu Hao wouldn't dare to make any moves towards such a gigantic animal.

But now, not only did he have to satisfy his own belly but also he had to feed the carnivorous little golden eagle. Don't underestimate its small stature. With such a small body, everyday it needed quite a lot of meat to fill its hunger.

So a wild boar weighing more than 100 catties was sufficient to consume and last for a day. After all, the whole boar didn't have much meat left over after excluding all of the bones. Moreover, even if they couldn't finish off the boar, Wu Hao could always share the remaining meat with the golden eagle's family; located on the other side of the mountainous wall.

After Wu Hao slaughtered the wild boar, he quickly deboned the meat while at the same time, separating the head, feet, and the internal organs.

After he finished separating the meat, Wu Hao then went to the nest of the golden eagle's family, opposite of the cliff he was on and said, "These internal organs and bones, I will leave them here for you all to slowly clear off!" Wu Hao didn't care whether the golden eagle understood his words or not. After finished talking, he just threw the internal organs and bones, which he had separated earlier, towards the side of the nest.

In fact, this place was already full of animal carcasses. Obviously these were all the end products of the previous prey hunted by the golden eagle.

As for Wu Hao himself, he carried the boar meat and heart back to the camp site. Parts of the meat and heart were naturally prepared for the young little eagle. The remaining meat would then be used for his own rations of the day.

Besides the meat of the wild animals, the heart was also a nice treat. Usually, when the golden eagle went out for a hunting trip, it would usually eat the best part of the meat and the heart before bringing back the remaining scraps for the young ones to eat or just keep them for the next meal.

“Alright, I will only feed you later. Eating everything at once is not good for you!” Looking at the way it acted while it was eating the meat, Wu Hao also found such a scene to be interesting. However, he wouldn’t let it eat too much at once.

After he finished feeding the little young eagle, Wu Hao began to prepare his own breakfast. His breakfast for today was very simple. Simple wild boar meat with some tiny mushrooms on top and a pot of porridge. If it was like before, Wu Hao definitely wouldn’t dare to pick up any mushrooms which grew inside of the mountain range.

This was because if you weren't an expert in this area, by blindly picking up mushrooms for consumption, that was just courting your own death. After all, those fungi in the wild, most of them were toxic. But now, it was just a simple task for Wu Hao to identify whether they were toxic or not.

He just had to use his spiritual perception to analyze these little fungi, he would then be able to understand their mode of growth and the main components in them.

Therefore any poisons would be detected by him with just a glance.

In addition to fungi, there were also many delicious wild vegetables which could be consumed. Whether in their nutritional value or taste, they were all incomparable to those from farms.

“En! This tastes really good!” Swallowing a spoon of congee, Wu Hao also couldn't help but to point out its delectability! Then, he began to finish the congee.

Because his metabolism rate was now much faster than before, his body's needs had also increased several times over. Thus, he now had to eat several times more every serving. Thus for this pot of congee, he easily finished it all up.

“Alright, back to work!” After becoming satisfied with his meal, Wu Hao then took all of the tools needed and flew to the site where he worked yesterday.

Yesterday, he had already settled the wooden plank for his wooden house. He not only prepared those for the house but also for the furniture like chairs, tables, and a bed.

For the furniture, he would have to use giant Chinese redwood. At first, he actually wanted to use red sandalwood but due to its rarity in the Qinling mountains, he didn't try forcing it. Anyway, when he happens to have the opportunity to do so then, it still wouldn't be late to do so.

At worst, when he was free, he could always go to the Yunnan Province or some mountain in Southeast Asia to get all the red sandalwood that he needed. But for such a plan, he would have to delay it for the future.

Arriving at the open space which he had cleared for the wood, Wu Hao first smoothed all of the wood planks. Then, he made sure that the beams for the wooden house were properly convexed.

After completing all of the tasks, he went ahead with the surface carbonization. Although this wood had just been recently cut down and their moisture content was still high, Wu Hao's requirements weren't that high.

Just a simple surface level carbonization would already satisfy him.

With his telekinetic ability to control it, naturally the whole job was finished quite quickly. At the same time, Wu Hao controlled various tools to give the final touches to the wooden planks. A few hours later, he had finished smoothing the wood and the groove which he was supposed to open, he had cleared them as well.

As he completed these tasks, Wu Hao didn't immediately go ahead with the carbonization process. Instead, he put them on top of dry stones, letting them dry even further.

This was because the weather for today was just too good, with the sun shining and everything. Plus, he still wanted to open up the mountain wall on the cliff, thus there was still time for the wood to dry.

It wouldn't be late to carbonize the wood after he finished the opening up the mountain wall for a cave.

Moreover, he should go back to the young eagle right now and feed his empty little belly.

“How nice would it be if there was a drill right now? Then opening up the mountain wall for a cave wouldn't be such a hassle!” With Wu Hao's ability controlling the stone cutting tools, he found that cutting the mountain wall in such way was too inefficient.

If only he had a 30 cm drill, it wouldn't take him too long to drill out a cave from the mountain wall.

After all, his telekinesis could replace the force needed for the motor drill to work. With his telekinesis, the drill, without doubt, would be more stable and efficient.

It was too bad that in the previous trip, he didn't take the opportunity to buy a large scale drill. A drill of only a few centimeter wouldn't be of much use to him.

However, although using his current tools would take him quite a lot of time, it was still faster than manually using his hands.

If normal manpower was to be hired to open up the mountain wall for a cave, the difficulty would be extremely high. For example, during the ancient times and in some scenic places which now had wooden planks as a pathway for humans to walk, this was the method used in opening up the mountain wall for caves. Only then, by planting wooden planks onto the cave would it assume the shape of a pathway for humans to walk on.

But for the current Wu Hao, he wanted to build a wooden house in the cliff, on the mountainous wall. Directly cutting up the mountain wall was definitely better than planting wooden planks in cave as it was much deeper and bigger.

By the way of Wu Hao's planning, each cave would have to be at least 1.5 meters in depth, this was the only way to support the wooden house outside.

Time flew by, after several continuous hours of hitting the wall, six caves with a diameter of more than 30 cm and depth nearing 2 meters were successfully made by Wu Hao.

“This really is a costly way of living. In the future if I am to do such work, I will definitely get myself a drill. These primitive tools are too slow to work with.” After he finished digging all the caves, Wu Hao then started his next job with his telekinesis, it was also the most boring of all the other jobs.

Chapter 40 - Trending Video

Noticing that the time was still early, after Wu Hao finished had finished a few caves, he went a few kilometers away to the piled up wooden planks. They were ready to start carbonization on the surface of wood before transferring them behind the camp on the cliff.

In that case, the wooden house would be fully built by tomorrow.

This was because the main structure for the wooden house had already been completed. The only thing left to do was to fix the structures in place and everything would be done.

The rest that he needed to do required more details, such as the production of wooden furniture to fill up the house.

However, as Wu Hao was busy working on his wooden house deep in the mountains, the Internet community in China was breaking with hot news!

That day, Wu Hao's post in the forum had reached more than thousands of messages. As for Tieba which only had several thousand active users originally, now had multiplied several times over. Now the total number of users had exceeded ten thousand.

Reaching such a result was mainly due to the users who kept sharing the post. As for Wu Hao's video in Youdou, the video also went viral. At the bottom of the video, the comments reached several thousands as well. And this video was now at the top of the home page.

Besides these two platform where Wu Hao himself posted the pictures and video on, once other network new stations received the news, naturally one by one, they would reprint and publish the report.

In just a mere period of 24 hours, the news had almost spread to every main social media network. Even CCTV and some television stations in certain provinces began to air the story.

“I think this should have been done by a professional team with high-tech aerial photography equipment. If not, how could a human get that close to wild beasts?”

“Stop explaining what everyone already knew.”

Besides the argument by Internet users, some experts naturally wouldn't miss such a golden opportunity to share their expert opinions.

“Professor Zhu, I would like to ask about the South China tiger video which circulated on the Internet yesterday. What is your opinion about it?” Some random television channel launched an interview programme in a rush, the host was now asking a middle-aged man.

This expert is one of the higher-ups in the national wildlife protection research institution. At this moment, facing the question from the host, his face was somehow solemn.

“First of all, from the photos and video released by the unknown person, they are indeed an actual adult South China tiger living in the wild. When I first got the news, I was in total shock and disbelief.”

“This is because our country’s relevant organisations and World Wildlife Research and Protection Agency had organised a joint operation ten years ago to inspect the area where South China tigers could live.”

“But through our study, there was not even a single trace of showing the existence of South China tigers. Today, to be able to see an actual South China tiger, indeed it shocked me but at the same time, I felt very pleased.”

“After all, this is a species which we humans thought to have already gone extinct but still exists today. Then, we must work even harder to protect their natural habitat. Right now, taking this opportunity, I would like to appeal to the audience out there to cherish the beautiful environment that remains.”

In addition to the several TV stations organising talk show, the national cybersecurity department had been urged by National and International Wildlife Research Associates to find the identity of the individual or organisation that released the video and pictures.

“Leader, I’m sorry. In regards to the one who was responsible in releasing those pictures and video, the account was only made yesterday. The information on the account is all fake. It is through these random sites that the person succeeded in registering.”

“So, I am pretty sure that the one who released all of these things is definitely a super hacker.” In a building at the capital, a computer technician reported to his executive.

“Super hacker!” A middle-aged man frowned. After pondering for a moment, he voiced out, “Alright, I know. From now on, I want you to arrange two people to monitor the movement of these two accounts. My sixth sense is telling me that this guy will definitely appear again. Also, inform those research organisations that we are investigating and ask them to go back to wait for our news!”

“Understood, leader!”

When Wu Hao registered the account to upload the video and pictures, he had already taken into account that he would be investigated. Thus, he had already cleaned every trace of his existence. To find any hints from these two accounts was absolutely impossible.

Although they had monitored these two accounts, it wouldn’t bring any impact to Wu Hao. Not to mention that they now knew that Wu Hao might be some super hacking monster, naturally they would increase their attention towards these accounts.

If they were able to use these accounts to sniff out Wu Hao, that was their aim the whole time!

They didn't have any malicious intent when they wanted to find him. After all, Wu Hao didn't violate any national laws by releasing these pictures and video. Actually they only wanted to know more about the story and bringing Wu Hao into their organisation.

However, there was no way to achieve his idea of theirs. Wu Hao never had any ideas in joining any government or individual organisations.

Even if he now had super abilities, he didn't have any plans to get involved with any government organisation. He just wished to be an invisible wild explorer which sometimes got their attention, that would be more than enough.

When Wu Hao had finished bringing over all of the wooden planks, which had already been carbonized, all the way to the camp, only now did he have the time to open his laptop to take a look at the situation.

“En. Not bad! The online discussion is quite hot! Hehe, I will wait a few days before making a documentary for you guys!” Being able to share what he saw yet not having to worry about identity being exposed, this was naturally a happy occasion.

Thus, Wu Hao who was now in a good mood and decided that after he completed his wooden house tomorrow, he would take his video camera and travel around the mountains to film a wild animal documentary.

For this documentary, Wu Hao already had his own ideas. Based on his intention, he intended to use a first person point of view combined with an aerial view. The documentary would be divided into two big categories: plants and wild animals.

And this process would naturally take up a lot of time. After all, according to Wu Hao's plan, he wanted to film every animal and plant on Earth which were hard for ordinary people to see.

During this time, Wu Hao would obviously visit all sorts of natural environments to get the first person point of view during his adventure.

Of course, his first person point of view, he himself would naturally not appear in the video. He would wear a cap equipped with a high-definition action camera which would follow him around in the mountains during his exciting adventures.

Chapter 41 - The Idea Of Filming A Documentary

For the aerial shots, he would use his telekinesis so that the audience would think that the documentary was shot by a professional wildlife filming team.

If this documentary of Wu Hao's started to make name, it was possible that it could even bring him a huge fortune!

It was worth mentioning that the usual market price for these kind of wildlife films were not cheap. Media organisation, like the internationally renowned BBC, would be happy to spend big money to get the copyrights to the documentary.

Moreover, those wildlife films on the Internet now, with their quality, Wu Hao simply couldn't look up to them.

The one he wanted to shoot was none other than a 360 degree documentary of the target. Plus with the range of his spiritual detection, right now his full range covered a 1 km radius.

With such a wide range of detection, it could be said that all the animals within his range wouldn't be able to hide from his eyes. Whatever he wanted, he could just film it as he liked.

“Hehe! I have a hunch that when I launch this documentary, it'll seriously go viral!” Thinking of this, Wu Hao laughed in happiness.

As long as this documentary became popular when he launched it, the works that followed would certainly be able to help him generate money.

As for how he was to collect the profit, this wouldn't be a problem for Wu Hao. He could just transfer the money from the Internet into nameless foreign bank account.

And then through some finagling, he would transfer it into his name. That account obviously wouldn't hold a lot of cash. As long as it was sufficient enough to support normal expenses, that should be more than enough. If necessary, he could pay directly through the nameless foreign bank account. (E/N: Nowadays it's called bitcoin haha, who needs a fake bank account.)

The next morning, after Wu Hao finished had prepared the food, he began to formally build the wooden house.

The first thing that he wanted to do was to take those six carbonized wooden boards, which were six meters in length and more than 30 cm in diameter, and plant them into the caves at the cliff.

These caves weren't level but had a slight slope. The reason for such a design was to allow the wood to be fixed on properly.

After all, all of the wood contained quite the amount of moisture. When the moisture had evaporated, the size of the wood would definitely shrink. If the caves were built horizontally, there was a possibility that the wooden boards would slide out.

And with a certain degree of incline, such a possibility could be completely avoided.

At the cliff, the six caves were separated from each other by a meter. With six caves in a row, the total length exceeded eight meters.

However, the wooden house that Wu Hao planned to build had a width of three meters and a length of seven meters. As for the remaining one meter, that would be his balcony.

In other words, the entire base of the wooden house was eight meters in length, four meters in width.

As for these six wooden pillar which were more than 30 cm in diameter and six meters in length, they sloped nearly two meters in depth on the cliff. The bearing capacity was fully able to support the entire weight of wooden house.

Since these wooden pillars and planks were made yesterday, the entire process for today was moving forward smoothly.

First, Wu Hao cut a cone shape at one end of the pillars. Then with his telekinesis to control the wooden pillar, he used all of his strength to nail it into the caves.

The reason to shape one end of the pillar into a conical one was none other than to make the pillar even more stable and solid by nailing it to the ground.

Since each pillar had undergone the carbonization treatment and Wu Hao even went ahead in adding the finishing touches to the surface with paint; the entire process moved along smoothly. Besides that, such actions ensured the longevity of the wood as it prevents the wood from being corroded after implanting onto the mountain wall.

After these six wooden pillars had been nailed onto the mountain wall, Wu Hao then took the wooden planks that were about 10 cm in depth to fix them towards the six wooden pillars.

In order to ensure each wooden plank sustain a uniform amount of force, any extra parts of the wood were flattened out. This was to ensure that after fixing on the wooden planks, the structure would have even more stability.

As for the original problem of the slope near the cliff, Wu Hao had already calculated the degree of the slope for the pillars. Then for parts that was closer to the cliff, each pillar had a wooden extension added to it to produce the appropriate slope.

And these wooden extensions that were combined together with the pillars had been specifically made into convex structure to ensure that the installation would be firm and strong.

It could be said that after Wu Hao's careful calculations, the entire wooden house's details and problems had been taken into account. After all, with Wu Hao's current computational ability, these calculations were just a piece of cake.

Don't even mention a wooden house, even with a much more complex structure or operation, Wu Hao could quickly utilize his brain and discover the best solution.

Thanks to the mysterious black stone unlocking previously inaccessible regions of his brain, Wu Hao was able to gain powerful abilities.

It was not an exaggeration to label Wu Hao as the one and only human geek in this world. A super genius, the amount that his brain could compute definitely wasn't worse than any of the supercomputers on Earth!

In other words, if Wu Hao was now to go and learn new human technology, after a short amount of time, he would be able to master the essence of that technology. With some research, he could even come up with better technology.

In the movie, when the heroine only activated up to 30% of her brain, she could already master every human discipline at an extreme speed through the Internet.

In fact, with the current development of Wu Hao's brain regions, he should be at around 35%. However, each person would differ from others due to a wide variety of brain structures.

Wu Hao's brain to be able to develop to such extent, and first and foremost, the main improvement was in his telekinesis. As for the plot from the movie, although the protagonist could control human body, it wasn't with telekinetic force.

But it was through controlling the magnetic fields within one's body that she could stop the body's movements, easily killing the person and so on.

From the very beginning, when Wu Hao opened the door into developing the regions of his brain, the first abilities which had received were telekinesis and spiritual perception. As for his super memory and analytical abilities, it was through the mysterious black stone that these two additional abilities had activated.

In fact, regarding this black stone which allowed the secondary development of his brain, Wu Hao could somehow guess the origin of the stone. From the shape of the cave at the mountain wall, this stone should be a fragment from a meteorite from outer space if he wasn't wrong.

However, as for the content and specific material composition of the stone, the current Wu Hao had no way to identify and confirm them. After all, the whole stone had already been completely absorbed by him. Even if he wanted to do research and analysis, there wasn't any way to start!

Chapter 42 - The Limitations Of Flying With Telekinesis

After the site of the wooden house's floor was completed, the remaining walls and supporting beams were easy to install. This was because all the components had been made beforehand. As long as they perfectly fit together, everything would be fine.

Since all of the wooden planks were made by Wu Hao using his telekinesis to control the tools, when the wooden planks combined with one another, there wasn't much risk involved.

Plus, the fact that each wooden plank was made into convex surface shaped and coupled with a layer of tung oil coating, when every piece connected together, it was completely airtight.

In addition to the carbonization on each wooden piece, the originally bright color was no longer present and had changed into a dark brown color.

After finishing the four faces of the wall and beams, the next step would be to finish the pyramid shaped roof. As for the roof, the wood chosen by Wu Hao had the same width and specifications as the wooden planks for the wall.

Both side of the roof had a width of 90 cm and was 6 m in length. In the middle separating both sides, there was a strong beam.

In order to prevent the roof from leaking when it was raining,

Wu Hao specifically shaped each piece of the wood with a certain degree of curvature. This design was to prevent the rain from leaking through the gaps between the wood.

Although each piece of wood used in roof construction also was shaped into a convex shaped surface and layered with tung oil, Wu Hao wanted to do a better job at this. He deliberately installed a 30 cm width wooden plank with a convex surface in between the gaps of the roof pieces in order to seal it off.

This completely avoided any possibility of water leaking through the gaps. And at the middle of the roof, it was the same 30 cm long wooden piece being fixed into a triangle shape. When both sides of the roof were completely built, Wu Hao just needed to fix the roof on the wooden house's pillar and the process would be done.

For all of these tasks, Wu Hao used his telekinesis to complete them. Thus the whole process of building the wooden house only took an hour to complete.

That also included the balcony and surrounding fences. After he finished this task, the next step would be to start building the furniture for the interior decoration. Such work need delicate and fine movements and Wu Hao had never done this before.

However, with his current analytical ability and telekinesis to control it, a double decker wooden bed, wardrobe, table, and two chairs were quickly set up.

This was because all of the furniture had already been planned yesterday. Today, he just had to fix all of the pieces together.

“Finally, everything is done! Next, I just need to buy some nice mattresses, quilts, and etc and no longer need to use the tent and sleeping bag.” Admiring the success of his house, Wu Hao was quite pleased and satisfied with his work.

Although this wooden house didn't emphasize much on patterns and designs, overall, it gave off a very strong, stable, and simplistic impression.

Just the thickness of the wooden wall, it was already about 5 cm. Using such thick wooden planks to build a 3 meter wide and 7 meter long wooden house, it had completely fulfilled a very high standard.

The windows of the wooden house, Wu Hao built them at a height of 1.2 meters and 3 meter in width. However, the window only had wooden frames. There was no glass installed in.

For the glass window, Wu Hao intended to wait until night before buying it when he was on the way to the city buying his necessities. Moreover, this time, he also intended to get himself some high-powered solar panels and several cameras for the documentary.

Before this, he only had one camera. To shoot from a variety of angles for the documentary, one camera definitely wouldn't be enough to do a good job.

After all, if he was to capture those animals living in caves, he not only needed a night vision camera, but also a mini camera. Only by getting this equipment ready would he be able to shoot a documentary that he could be satisfied with.

As for the purchasing solar panels, in addition to supplying electricity for the light bulbs for the house, he also needed to charge his laptop and cameras.

“This time, my purchase list isn’t that long. There are still a few hours left before the sky darkens. I will first buy it online at INternet then when the time comes, I can go straight there and take care of everything at once. Then, I won’t have to go searching everywhere for the items.” Thinking of this, Wu Hao immediately opened up his laptop. Sitting on top of the chair which he had just made, he began to search for the items he wanted.

First of all, Wu Hao found one shop in Chang’an City which sold photography equipment. Since this store also did business online, Wu Hao quickly selected all the video equipment that he wanted.

After paying a deposit, he told the store that he would get them later at night.

Then Wu Hao ordered several solar panels which would cover the entire wooden house’s roof. His order also included the batteries, wiring, and other things.

In general, he had made orders for the items which were more important. As for the daily necessities, he could just drop by some random stores later on and pick them up there. Anyway, he had no requirements regarding this.

Time passed by quickly. When the time was 6 pm, the sky gradually turned dark. After all, it was now November. In another month, the mountains should probably have snow.

And Wu Hao waited until the sky turned completely dark before he started his journey to Chang'an City. The flight towards the city was much easier this time since he had gone there before.

Reaching the suburban region, Wu Hao didn't immediately go to collect his items. Instead, he first rented a small truck and went to the store to pick them up.

When the truck passed by a shop selling glasses, Wu Hao asked the driver to stop for a moment. He bought three sets of glasses before they continued driving towards the mall.

Just like that, the entire shopping trek took nearly three hours. Only after Wu Hao had picked up all the items on his list did he ask the driver to drop him off in the suburban region.

When they arrived at the place where he was first at, he started to unload the items. And the driver also helped him move the goods from truck. Looking at the pile of items in front of him, Wu Hao began to have a deep thought.

“Should I get myself some equipment to store all of these items.

After all, if these items were scattered around, that would affect my flying speed!” Currently, Wu Hao’s telekinesis could control up to 1 million kilograms, if he was to fly at his highest speed, he was able to reach 1000 km per hour.

Of course, this 1000 km per hour was not Wu Hao’s limit. If he didn’t need to save up his energy to protect himself, using exactly everything to support his body weight to fly, his flight speed would at least be Mach 3 and above.

It is worth noting that the world’s largest engine thruster, only had a thrust force of about 15,000 kg. Even if two of these engines were equipped, it would only have a total thrust of 30,000 kg.

But don’t forget, in order to carry such a high-powered engine thruster, the weight itself would at least be 20 tons.

Thus 30,000 kg thrust, since they were able to carry objects that weighed more than 20 tons to fly at Mach 3 and above. Thus, with his telekinesis with a force of 10 tons, it was absolutely possible to carry his current weight of 100 plus kg to fly past Mach 3.

Chapter 43 - Producing The Documentary

It was just that during the process, there were many factors to be considered. For example, such as speed, how long could Wu Hao maintain it for?

Plus, he also needed to deal with problems like high pressure, heat, and other problems too.

There were so many reasons for Wu Hao to fly at his top speed of 1000 km/h. It was almost the same speed as normal aircraft.

With this, he still had energy in reserve during the process of flying in sky with his telekinesis to power up a shield to surround him. This shield would protect his body from being affected by the high heat and pressure.

That was the very reason why he couldn't utilize all of his energy to increase his flight speed. He would have to divide a huge portion of his energy to maintain the shield around his body.

After all, if he wasn't being protected by the shield, not to mention 1000 km/h, even at 200 km/h, it wasn't something a human's body can handle.

If he really fly at 1000 km/h without any protective shield, it was very likely that his clothes and then some would be shredded. His skin would be torn apart and there would be smoke coming out from him due to the friction.

In other words, if it wasn't for the protective shield, the moment he exceeded 200 km/h, it would be very difficult for his body to withstand the strain.

Although his physical attributes were much better than ordinary humans, it still wasn't tough enough to endure pressure!

“This aerial shot idea isn't bad. However, for the specific details about it, I still need to properly plan ahead. Well, let's get all these things back to camp first before thinking about it!” Wu Hao's mind recovered from his internal monologue and he immediately began to transfer his items inside some of the mountains.

Although he bought a lot of stuff and it covered a huge area, the total weight was only about two tons.

Carrying back so many items, although his speed couldn't be too fast, overall it didn't really affect his flying.

Therefore, it took him about an hour to carry all of these items back to the platform beside the wooden house.

Back at the camp, Wu Hao began assembling the solar panels. The solar panels he bought were the best on the market right now.

Although the power generated by original products didn't satisfy Wu Hao, he had already prepared to modify these panels since he bought a lot of accessories and tools for this modification.

The current learning ability of Wu Hao, when he ordered the products in afternoon, he had already thoroughly analysed the technology behind them. With his brain's super computational power, he was soon able to find a way to enhance the efficiency of the solar panels.

Therefore, not only did he purchase the finished products of the solar panels, he also bought lots of accessories, necessary materials, and others things from his shopping list.

With such a heaven defying ability, coupled with his brain's super computational power, all the materials and tools automatically found their purpose in the right spots. The ones that needed to be combined would be combined. The ones that needed to be modified would be modified. In a harmonious way, the tools and materials acted together automatically in being modified.

Now, the wooden house's roof had been completely covered by the black solar panels. On one corner of the wall inside the wooden house, the corresponding batteries, transformers, and a variety of circuits were neatly fixed there.

“Alright, done. Now not only have I solved the problem of charging my laptop, I could even use the excess electricity to cook. With this, I no longer need to eat roasted meat everyday until I get sick of it!” Regarding these modified solar panels, Wu Hao himself was quite satisfied with his work.

The current modified solar panels could generate 40% more energy than before. It could be said that Wu Hao had raised the abilities of these solar panels to the limit.

Improving the efficiency, even if it was cloudy right now, they could still generate a lot of power to be stored in the batteries. At the very least, it could last for a few days of cooking, charging the laptop, and using light at night without much difficulty.

Also, when the weather was clear, these panels would be able to charge the batteries to full. As long as Wu Hao didn't use any high-powered equipment, it should be sufficient for daily use.

A few days later, the news of Wu Hao releasing the South China tiger's pictures and video began to cool down. After all, today was the age of Internet. News disseminated quickly and was also gone at the same speed.

However, at least now the country and world wildlife protection organisations were aware of the point that South China tigers were not extinct.

Regarding the news on the Internet, Wu Hao naturally took a look at it. Thus, today he was once again ready to make some publicity for his self-produced documentary.

“En, These days, I have filmed nearly every animal in the Qinling Mountains. These should be enough for several episodes for the documentary. Let's get started with the first episode then!” The main character of the documentary would be this particular South China tiger. In order to let the world know more about how this tiger survives in wild, he specifically took a filmed it for a whole day.

From how it hunted and all of its various habits to the smallest details, Wu Hao even went out of his way to catch a prey for it to pursue in order to capture the scene of this tiger hunting. After playing a cat and mouse game for several minutes, finally Wu Hao allowed the tiger to successfully catch the prey.

In addition in spending the whole day alone with this adult South China tiger to know about its life habits, Wu Hao continued filming for the next few days.

Giant pandas, golden snub-nosed monkeys, takins, crested ibis, gazelles, wild boars, black bears, musk deers, small muntjacs, hedgehogs, bamboo rats, flying squirrels, swine badgers, great civets, small civets, clouded leopards, and etc, more than 20 different kinds of animals.

These animals weren't filmed in great detail like the South China tiger however, the quality was still much better than the current available documentaries being aired.

After all, Wu Hao's current filming techniques could be said as the best if not one of the best in the world. During the process of filming these animals, he also accidentally met some rare insects and snakes.

Of course, this was just the first series. Wu Hao's second series would focus more on cold-blooded animals and underwater fishes.

Soon, Wu Hao extracted copies of the videos into a video editing software. And this video software, the most mainstream one had been tinkered by Wu Hao to bring a better optimisation.

Using a large number of intelligent programs, the videos files could easily be edited and cropped out before using the most appropriate methods to link them.

An hour later, this series which had a total of 9 episodes, each episode about 35 minutes in length, had all been completed.

“En, next these videos should be synchronized with reasonable introductions with text and sound effects.” The text descriptions were very easy. In just a few minutes, Wu Hao had sorted out all the appropriate textual descriptions.

Then followed by the smart voice reading software, the text on display was read aloud.

Chapter 44 - Releasing The Trailer

Speech recognition technology had long been used in various fields. Even on the Internet, there were a variety of speech recognition software which could read out the inputted words.

For example, many novel readers used such functions to read the text directly.

However, these human voice packs felt very rigid as they read out the context. Since they were without any human emotions or feelings, it sounded very awkward.

Thus, Wu Hao tried to improve the voice recognition software to make up for this deficit.

First of all, he recorded every English and Chinese documentaries currently available, the style and tone were all taken into consideration as they underwent multiple calculations and analysis.

Then after finished the calculations and analysis, he then tried to match all the words and meaning with his documentary text.

By now, Wu Hao could be considered as having completed the preparation for the voice recognition software to dub the documentary. Why he did he have to work that hard to dub the documentary?

In fact, it was actually very simple. After all, even the same words used by human didn't sound the same in different scenarios which then brings a different meaning altogether. This is the so-called human.

For the currently available speech recognition software, the reason why people complained that the sound was awkward was all because it didn't perform well in this department.

But this documentary of his, Wu Hao had recorded and taken the tone and words from currently available documentaries for his own usage.

By doing so, Wu Hao's own version of voice recognition software naturally had a nice and corresponding tone.

After all, no matter what kind of documentary, the tone and content was almost the same. That was why Wu Hao was able to produce his documentary so quickly with his own version of his speech recognition software.

Completing the voice recognition software, the following sound effects would be very easy. First of all, a documentary itself didn't require many sound effect. Usually, it would only appear during the introduction and conclusion.

Moreover, the sound effects were generally the same as the other documentaries. However, Wu Hao didn't copy the sound effects exactly as they were. Through an audio synthesis software, he had made several corresponding versions of them.

“Alright, I’m done. Today I will release a trailer then. The official documentary will be released on the following week. Then every week I will release another episode!” Looking at his masterpiece, Wu Hao felt satisfied.

The title of his own self-directed documentary was called “The Original Adventure: Beast of Legends Vol I”.

This first series was divided into a few episodes. For example, the first episode was called “The disappearance of the South China tiger”. In this episode, Wu Hao had specifically filmed the daily living habits of the South China tiger. From morning till night, he had done a detailed introduction.

Second episode, third episode, and so on were emphasized on different kinds of animals.

Wu Hao would keep doing this series. It could be said that it was a hobby of his, also at the same time, he was making up for the lack of such high quality documentaries.

In addition to this series, Wu Hao of course would still do other series like marine life. Also those mysterious geographical environments, he would definitely add them to his checklist.

However, these were all plans for the future. After all, he had only completed filming the animals in the Qinling Mountains. There were still many wild animals that he hadn’t captured on film yet.

Within the beast kingdom, besides giant beasts, snake and insects were also popular amongst viewers.

This was because Wu Hao was going to use a shooting angle which nobody had used before to share the life of such animals in the jungle.

After completing the three minute trailer, Wu Hao logged onto the Youdou video site and released the documentary trailer.

For now, Wu Hao didn't intend to sell whatever copyrights he had. Even if he wanted to sell it, he would have to wait for several episodes to be released and become widely circulated before considering such a thing.

In fact, if Wu Hao wanted to earn money, there were numerous other ways for him to do so.

For example, the software which he had modified for his video and audio editing, if he was to sell them to some companies, he would be able to obtain quite the sum of money.

Moreover, these products were just something which Wu Hao randomly improved upon without getting serious. If he wanted to spend more time studying the other aspects of the software, it would definitely earn him more!

However, Wu Hao simply didn't have any such ideas right now.

Thus, he naturally wouldn't care to bother himself with such things.

... ..

Within a huge building in Beijing, a national security cybersecurity team, who was responsible for monitoring Wu Hao's network account, noticed that there were some movements and quickly reported to their leader.

“Leader, that guy has appeared! However, he only released one video before he logged out.”

“No! He didn't leave behind any traces of his trail.” Several members of the group sighed as they replied.

“Leader, look at it for yourself!” One of the members immediately played the video content on the monitor.

On the monitor, the video started with some exciting background music, some clips of various animals appearing followed by ten seconds of the South China tiger hunting a prey. At the most critical moment when the tiger was approaching the prey, the video was cut off.

Followed by brief introductions of various animals, it finally ended with the official launch date and an email address as the point of contact.

“This is the world of wild animals?” Having finished watching the trailer, the team leader felt surprised at the scene within the video however, he still didn’t understand much about the trailer.

“It should be some kind of documentary of the animal world. Since the title is ‘The Original Adventure’, all the shots are really from the wilderness!”

“En. Didn’t that guy leave behind an email address? Leave him a message that we are from national security cybersecurity team and we need to meet him for some things!”

“Leader, I think that the probability of that guy replying back is very small!”

“There’s not much hope but we still need to try! Since that guy has such mysterious technology in his possession and didn’t do anything to harm the nation, this shows that he is not a black hat hacker. If we could use such talent for our nation’s benefit, it is definitely something to be strive for.” Since Wu Hao didn’t cause any impact to the national security network, the organisation wouldn’t casually take any measures towards him.

Moreover, even if they wanted to do something, there was no way to do so.

This was because they simply couldn't find even the smallest trace of Wu Hao.

Chapter 45 - Flying Device Project

The next following days, Wu Hao continued to shoot videos within the Qingling Mountains. Although all of the Qinling Mountains covered a range of over 1000 km, Wu Hao still hadn't encounter anything unique as he travelled deep into remote regions.

If he was to insist on anything unusual, it would be that two days ago, he met a 16 meter long python in a pool of a canyon's wetland.

As the main goal of Wu Hao's current trip was to find cold-blooded animals in the forest, when he saw the snake for the first time, he was also surprised.

Because this 16 meter long python from his visual point of view, it looked extremely fierce. Even for a beast like a tiger, if it was to encounter such a large python, it would still have to take a detour.

As a note, currently, the largest discovered python in the world was only 14 meter long. As for those uploaded images of a python being somewhere between 40 to 50 meters on the Internet, they were a complete hoax.

But now, Wu Hao was able to find such a python in this humid canyon. Of course, Wu Hao never thought of this being the world's largest python.

After all, the well known python paradise was located in the mysterious Amazon Forest. Wu Hao believed that if this world really had pythons tens of meters long, then the only place they would exist would be in the Amazon Forest.

As Wu Hao stumbled upon this stripped python, he naturally wouldn't let this chance pass by. He specifically filmed it for a long time and even out of his way to find a prey for it to swallow.

Wu Hao spent the whole day filming this python. However, this time, he divided his filming into several sessions.

As this python was definitely an animal who had lived for a long term in this deep and dark canyon, this canyon was enormous and engorged a large area, there were also a number of large herbivores.

This python was definitely the king in this canyon. In fact, even from the scope of the entire Qinling Mountains, it should probably be at the very top of the food chain.

“After all these days of filming, it can be said that I've covered nearly all of the rare species which the world hasn't seen. All those animals and plants, I've already filmed them all.”

“These videos should be sufficient enough to edit into another ten episodes. Then my next step will be taking a look at other places.” This night, Wu Hao had to work within his wooden house. While he was finishing the editing process for the videos, he began to consider his next plan.

Currently, his documentary series had about twenty episodes ready. According to the schedule of one episode per week, it would require a total of five months to completely air them all.

Therefore, the following time, besides visiting other place, there should be enough time for him to do something else too.

“Perhaps I should really consider making a flying device. After all, the next time when I have to travel to other places, I would have to carry all sort of equipment around. Although they aren’t heavy, not having a fixed container for them makes it quite inconvenient.”

“Also, once I carry a lot of stuff would also affect my flying speed. Even if I am to fly at a low altitude at night, the possibility of being discovered by others is quite high.”

“As for flying in higher altitudes, I’m certain I would be detected by the radar for carrying this much stuff around. Seems like I have to first solve this problem before anything else.” Wu Hao secretly thought to himself and made a quick decision.

He needed to build a flying device which wasn’t inconvenient to carry around and wouldn’t be detected by the radar.

In fact, this flying device that Wu Hao wanted to build could be considered simple yet complicated.

First of all, the main purpose in Wu Hao building this flying device was to easily store all of his things such as: daily necessities, his backpack, the camera equipment, his laptop, and other such items.

As for this flying device, it must be lightweight and during high altitude flight, it had to have the ability to avoid the current radar detection.

In other words, this “cloaking” device needed to have two simultaneous kinds of ‘invisibility’. First, it needed to prevent detection from infrared radars. Secondly, it needed to be able to refract light so as to make the user look invisible to the naked eye.

At present, some European and American research institutions made good progress in this light refraction stealth technology. Although it still couldn’t achieve a perfect state of invisibility, it was still able to achieve some kind of translucent state.

As for radar detection, a lot of countries with their new generation of jets already used such technology. However, due to the aircraft engines and other various factors of its aerodynamic design, they still couldn’t achieve 100 percent untraceability.

However, the flying device that Wu Hao wanted to make didn’t have such factors. This was because he didn’t intend to install any engines on the flying device.

Therefore, he was able to adopt the aerodynamic design closest to perfection in his flying device— reducing the possibility of being detected by radar signals.

If this flying device was to be coated with a stealth material to prevent radar detection, it could definitely escape detection from any radar in this world.

Of course, if Wu Hao wanted to make his project perfect, he needed to take into account the light refraction requirements too.

However, it looked easy but the material required for the flying device was a major problem too.

After all, Wu Hao's first requirement was that the flying device needed be lightweight and required room to place all of his things.

After all, the power source for this flying device would be his own telekinesis. If the flying device was too heavy and then including the weight from his stuff, it would be too cumbersome.

Therefore, in addition to ensuring the material strength and cloaking factors, Wu Hao also needed to make sure that the overall weight would be below 1 ton.

As for the space in the flying device, he could make it slightly bigger so that it could fit goods with weighed between 2 to 4 tons.

This was the flying device that Wu Hao needed which fulfilled all of the requirements.

However, to make such a flying device, Wu Hao needed to research for a new lightweight and sturdy material.

This material definitely wouldn't be metal. It needed be some kind of composite material which hadn't appeared in the world yet.

“Seems like it won't be easy to make this flying device! However, I still need to try to know whether it's possible or not.” Thinking this, Wu Hao's eyes grew brighter and brighter. It seemed that there was still a tiny hint of excitement there.

“Alright, then this will be the plan.”

“Then the next step would be gathering a large sum of money and getting myself a variety of materials and equipment!”

“En. Yea, if I want to build a flying device, I have to find a secluded location. Big cities and places with a lot of people definitely won't do.”

“If I am to do my project in some remote area away from the cities, that shouldn't be a problem. But, in the test flights, it could be easily exposed to many people. I definitely don't want to be targeted by relevant departments.” Wu Hao considered all sort of problems. Soon, within Wu Hao's mind, a detailed plan was slowly formulating.

Chapter 46 - Unrestrained Purchasing

The next day, Wu Hao woke up early to hunt and bring back a large prey. In addition to preparing the meat for his meal, the rest of it was naturally to be left for the little carnivorous golden eagle for its feast.

However, Wu Hao planned to leave here for several days. Thus, he definitely couldn't feed the little bird personally.

And after half a month of feeding the bird, there wasn't much of a difference with its current size compared to its brother, “Well, little guy, for now, I can only send you back there.” Ignoring the chirping of the little bird, Wu Hao held it securely and flew towards the other side of the cliff.

As Wu Hao had given some food to the golden eagle's family everyday, the parents were no longer afraid of Wu Hao when they saw him. Instead, the moment that Wu Hao stepped into the cave, the eagles flew back into their nest.

“This animal is for you. It should be enough for all of you guys to eat for two days. I will leave this little guy in your care too.” Wu Hao didn't bother whether or not the golden eagle was able to understand his words as he said to himself.

However, he knew that even if the golden eagle didn't understand his words, most likely it should have understood what he meant.

As for Wu Hao carrying this little bird over, the golden eagle would naturally understand his intentions. After all, Wu Hao lived just opposite from the cliff here!

With its vision, by casually flying in the sky, it would clearly be able to see Wu Hao with the little bird. Plus the fact that Wu Hao kept bringing them food everyday.

Animals also had their own consciences. In regards to who was good to them, they would be able to differentiate that as well.

The big prey that Wu Hao captured today was a giant takin that weighed about 700 pounds. And this takin still wasn't fully grown. As it reached the peak of adulthood, it could even weigh more than 1 ton. Thus, describing it as a giant wasn't an exaggeration.

Because Wu Hao caught such a large prey, it was more than enough for the golden eagle's whole family to eat for several days. With the current weather, it wouldn't be easy for the meat to spoil. For the eagles, it simply wasn't a problem for the meat to last two days.

And in accordance to the changes in the weather, Wu Hao felt that this area would probably begin to snow in few days time.

Later that night, Wu Hao took advantage of the dark sky to fly towards the southwest. This time, the place that Wu Hao was heading to was Myanmar. His main purpose there was to invest by buying jade rocks.

After all, if he wanted to make a flying device, he needed quite a large sum of money. And the fastest way to collect enough money was through purchasing rocks and cheating with his spiritual perception.

It wouldn't matter because the rocks he would buy will definitely be valuable, what else could be faster in accumulating money than by investing in purchasing jade rocks!

All the way towards the southwest, halfway through his journey, Wu Hao stopped to rest for a while. After spending a few more hours flying in the middle of night, he finally reached the second largest city of Myanmar, Mandalay, a world famous city with a jade marketplace.

He casually looked for a hotel room to stay in for the night. The next day, Wu Hao headed straight towards the jade marketplace.

“Boss, how much is one of these rocks?” Wu Hao had arrived at a shop selling authentic jade rocks and casually asked. Just now, he had already scanned through this pile of rocks with his spiritual perception. As a result of his scan, there were a few jade rocks which weren't bad.

“1 for 10,000!” The shop owner replied in a simple manner.

As Wu Hao heard the price, he didn't even plan to bargain. Instead, he immediately took some jade rocks away and directly paid for them.

“Mister, don’t you want to extract them? If you buy rocks from my shop, you’ll get extraction services for free.” The shop owner felt that Wu Hao’s actions were strange because he was eager to leave his shop.

“Nope, I will do it myself later.” Wu Hao smiled. It wasn’t a joke to extract these rocks on the spot.

It was because at that moment, it would definitely attract a lot of onlookers. This wasn’t something he wished to be a part of. Being inconspicuous was definitely better.

Plus, this jade marketplace was quite large. You could see shops selling authentic rocks everywhere. Although Wu Hao’s current capital wasn’t large, there wasn’t a need for him to spend so much to buy expensive rocks. Spending money on the rocks that they misjudged was enough.

Just like that, Wu Hao walked a few laps around the marketplace. Offering double the price to the rider of the passing by trishaw, the back of the trishaw that he paid for became filled with small and large rocks.

“En, I guess this should be enough. At this moment, a few people have already begun to mark me.” After coming out from a shop, he stopped his spending spree. On one hand, his account was about to go empty and on the other hand, the trishaw wasn’t durable enough to load any more rocks.

After all, these rocks were heavy. For the trishaw to hold that many rocks was already quite demanding.

However, as Wu Hao was about to leave the marketplace, a Chinese looking middle-aged man with a few of his followers smiled at Wu Hao and walked towards him.

“This mister, you’re also Chinese right?! This is really fortunate, fortunate! I am Zhou Hong from ‘University Jewelry’. This is my business card. May I know how to address mister?”

Wu Hao immediately understood this man’s intentions. He must have seen Wu Hao buying a lot of rocks yet didn’t get any rocks extracted.

However, Wu Hao didn’t refuse. After all, the rocks that he bought were originally going to be exchanged for money.

“Nice to meet you. My family name is Wu.” Wu Hao casually smiled.

“It’s nice meeting you too, Mr. Wu. I see that Mr. Wu bought so many rocks yet didn’t get any extractions. You must have planned to extract them in one store, all at once. If Mr. Wu doesn’t mind, I have a warehouse nearby to help you to extract the rocks.”

“Of course, I believe that Mr. Wu understands what I mean. I just hope that you can sell some jade to me after the extractions.” Zhou hong had been engaging in this business with more than ten years of experience. He would naturally be able to properly size people up. Noticing Wu Hao, who seemed to randomly buy rocks from various shops, he knew that Wu Hao definitely had his own hidden agenda.

In recent years, jade production was on the decline. Plus with the fact that the competition within this field was getting more intense, whether or not he could obtain more jade and high quality ones, that would greatly affect his company's overall performance.

“En. I have my own place to extract the rocks. I won't have to trouble Boss Zhou with this. But, you don't have to wait for me to finish extracting them all. If there is any jade harvested, it wouldn't be too late to find Boss Zhou at that time.” Wu Hao smiled and politely declined his offer. This was because Wu Hao knew the gross value of this pile of rocks.

From all the rocks he bought, there wasn't one that was empty. Inside the rocks, they either contained a large amount of jade or were of good quality.

If he went to the warehouse that was offered, then without a doubt, he would be exposed!

Moreover to extract the jade from the rocks, even if it was done by a master with several decades of experience, it still wouldn't be as precise as him.

As for Wu Hao's refusal, it wasn't something that Zhou Hong was surprised about. Politely returning the smile, he replied back, “If it's like that then thank you Mr. Wu. If you get to harvest any jade, just give me a call. As for the price, you don't have to worry. What I offer won't be lower than market price.”

Chapter 47 - Being Considered As A Big Fish

Hearing this, Wu Hao could only politely add some good words and slowly ride the trishaw out out the marketplace.

At the moment when Wu Hao had left, a bodyguard beside Zhou hong spoke out, “Boss, how do you know that the rocks that he bought surely have jade? I saw him buying those defective rocks for a cheap price.”

This man must have followed Zhou Hong for many years. Being close to Zhou Hong, that was why he dared to question Zhou Hong.

“Hehe! With my decades of experience in sizing people up, and with his actions of randomly buying rocks at a cheap price, I’m pretty sure that he must have some secret technique or ability.”

“In short, you only need to know that anybody who randomly buys these rocks, they might not be ordinary! But, I wonder whether this man will get through the pit in front of him!” Zhou Hong’s eyes slightly squinted as he looked towards the direction of Wu Hao’s disappearing figure.

In this marketplace, having people staring at Wu Hao to mark him was a norm. Naturally, Wu Hao was aware of this. Thinking of the situation in this place, he felt that it must have been a common thing.

First of all, Wu Hao came here by himself, to buy the rocks. Plus, the strange thing was that he bought rocks which were thought to be defective and sold for cheap. Also, he didn't request for the stones to be extracted. Such actions were really hard to not get marked by people!

Hearing this, the bodyguard naturally understood what Zhou Hong was talking about.

On this piece of land, everyday was filled with countless muggings and murders. After all, men were greedy in nature and it wasn't something which we could deny.

The fact that jade was something which could make people rich overnight, and each store in this jade marketplace sold valuable jade, if a merchant bought jade from here without a deep background or enough security, he would definitely become the target of the underground forces.

Even if you had a significant background and manpower, if the value of the products was too high, where people couldn't even imagine it, there would still be some who would take that risk.

Wu Hao, who was riding the trishaw out of the marketplace, stopped at the roadside halfway through his journey. He bought a few sacks and inserted the rocks behind him into the sacks.

At that moment, at the roadside store, he bought several blades for a grinding machine and a polishing machine. Together, they were inserted into an empty sack.

Leisurely, he travelled on the road, heading towards the outskirts of the city. However, due to the heavy load on the trishaw, the travel speed was extremely slow, like a climbing snail.

“Boss, our target has ridden the trishaw out of the city.” Behind Wu Hao, a local Myanmarese person reported in his local language through the phone.

As for Wu Hao who was in front of him, he knew since a long time ago about the movements. But he also knew that he was still within the city. There were still quite a number of pedestrians on the streets.

Thus, even if these people wanted to make a move towards him, they wouldn't choose a place like this.

“Hehe, so many people have considered me as a big fish.” Wu Hao secretly laughed as he leisurely rode the trishaw.

For these people who followed him and considered him as a big fish, Wu Hao naturally didn't pay them any heed.

They were patiently waiting for Wu Hao to reach a deserted location by himself before acting. But Wu Hao had a different idea in mind!

Of course, Wu Hao's principle was to avoid making any moves as much as possible. But if the foes insisted in sending themselves towards their deaths, then he could only help them to fulfill it.

This was because if these people dared to act against him, that also meant that these situations happened here quite often. Dealing with such scumbags, he naturally wouldn't have any unwillful feelings.

Just like that, after riding for half an hour, Wu Hao finally reached a place outside the city without many vehicles. Behind Wu Hao, the van that was obviously following him also began to do something new.

“Boss, let's make our move now. If not, he might be ambushed by the Shark gang in front. Faster, speed up and stop our target.” Within the van, a man with a small head hung up and quickly instructed the driver.

“F*ck, this daddy can't wait any longer. This brat was riding so slowly.” The driver's face was showing a dark expression as he complained. In fact, tailing Wu Hao the whole way really tested his driving skills.

In fact, driving slower was proving to be harder than driving quickly.

“Finally, you're going to make a move?” Wu Hao, who was in front, noticed that the van that was tailing him since a long time ago, and finally sped up towards him. That was a sign that they were about to make a move.

However, this was according to his wishes. On the side of the road, there was a slope of a dozen meters. The bottom of the slope was filled with rocks. If this van was thrown towards the bottom at a speed exceeding 100 km/h, naturally the end result could be imagined.

And in this place, there was only one small path ahead of them. As long as his trishaw endured the distance to enter the path, then its job would be done.

As a result, in the van which had six people in it, each of them were talking about the members of the local underground forces. When the van accelerated to block the Wu Hao's path....

Suddenly, the steering wheel of the van became completely uncontrollable. Not only was it heading towards the slope, it even mysteriously increased its speed.

The men in the van didn't even have enough time to scream. Their bones were ripped to pieces as the van rolled several times. Due to the leakage of the fuel tank, it created a beautiful sparkling explosion.

And during the explosion, Wu Hao directly increased his speed and quickly got onto the path. That sudden increase of speed was even faster than a sports car's acceleration.

Entering the small path within a duration of several seconds, Wu Hao used his telekinesis to carry the sacks of rocks along and entered the nearby woods. After reaching the depths of the woods, only then did he settle down.

“There’s nobody within a one kilometer radius. Well, let me extract these rocks here then!” The little accident just now didn’t affect Wu Hao’s mind. After all, since these people were involved in such activities, they must always be prepared to face the consequences.

Soon, Wu Hao used his telekinesis to control the blades and began the process of extracting jade.

There were at least one hundred pieces within these sacks. However, the largest was only about 40 cm in length. As for others, they were within the range of 10-20 cm.

The sellers originally considered these rocks as garbage and waste. Although the price was cheaper than normal rocks, they could still be sold for tens of thousands.

“En! Ice type, there are exactly forty-six pieces in total. Plus, their size is quite big. As for the emperor greens, there are three pieces here. As for the others, although they can’t compete with the ice type and the emperor greens, but adding them altogether, that is still quite the profit.” After two hours, with Wu Hao’s careful attention, these one hundred or so rocks had been cut down into pieces.

After this was done, the next step was to find several potential buyers for the jades.

Chapter 48 - Documentary: Primitive Exploration

The following day, Wu Hao, through a variety of ways and disguises, exchanged these hundred some jades to several domestic companies and Hong Kong buyers. Exchanging them for US dollars, Wu Hao had long ago prepared an anonymous Swiss bank account for this.

And these hundred plus pieces of jade had brought him a full 1.5 billion US dollars. Such speed in making money was really god-like.

Investing in jade stones, in just one night, it brought the best outcome for Wu Hao.

Of course, no one in this world would have such cheat ability like Wu Hao. In a sense, Wu Hao's current ability was even more formidable than that childish x-ray vision.

Because what x-ray vision could do, Wu Hao could do the same thing too. And he could even see better! And what x-ray vision couldn't see, his ability wouldn't have such problems.

“With this 1.5 billion US dollar, it should be about enough to buy the appropriate equipment and materials. And this investing in jade stones, doing it once is enough! If I were to continuously repeat this, it would only bring more trouble for me instead! Moreover, my documentary would bring me a nice income too.” Wu Hao was very clear about this trip of his in Myanmar. It was the same as gambling in casinos, such methods could only be utilized once.

Even if you were to repeat them many times, unwanted problems would definitely arise.

For example, this time Wu Hao only took action for the first time and several people had already marked him. If he was to come again, even with some disguises, he would still be marked.

This time, he met with someone who made their move secretly. Perhaps the next time he wouldn't meet with such opponents. After all, in Southeast Asia, all kinds of dark forces and mercenary organisations infested the other side of the land.

Especially the mercenary organisation which offered services for money, you could get all sort of guys from there. Although Wu Hao's current ability was formidable, he wasn't completely invincible.

Bombs and other similar weapons were still a threat to him. But if he were to face ordinary firearms, he could naturally and easily resist them.

With such money, Wu Hao's next task was to purchase corresponding materials and equipment through a variety of channels . Also, he would have to look for a suitable location to establish a base.

For such a place, first it must be a secret spot and be able to avoid all sorts of detections and satellites. For any location to meet such conditions, it is without a doubt amongst the vast mountains.

In the jungle within mountain ranges, with various human detection devices, the effects they brought were simply negligible.

This was because the mountains were full of magnetic fields. These natural magnetic fields were more than enough to render the world's most advanced satellites and detection tools useless.

However, to build a base which met all the requirements to manufacture a flying device within the vast mountain, it was obviously not a simple matter.

First of all, in addition to the difficulties in building the base, after the completion of the base, there was one factor which needed to be considered, a power supply.

This was the root of all problems in modern industries. Only by solving the energy supply problem would all operations be able to proceed smoothly.

“En, I will have to explore around Qinling to find any suitable spots to build the base. If not, then I will look for it in the southern region, Shenlong or the Kunlun Mountains in the west.”

Although Shenlong wasn't as big as the mountain ranges of Qinling, its level of mystery and diversity of wild animals is not any less than Qinling. Instead, its mysteriousness is even one step higher than Qinling.

After all, Shenlong was located at the so-called mystical 30° north latitude. In this dimension line, there were countless magical events that occurred here.

As for the peaks of Shenlong, most of them were at 1500 meters above sea level. The highest peak recorded was more than 3000 meters. Other than for concealment purposes, the other aspects also seemed to be good.

Of course, if Wu Hao decided to build a secret base in Shenlong, which was far from here, he definitely wouldn't visit the highest peak.

As for the Kunlun Mountains in the west, although there was no beautiful scenery of green mountains and rivers, most of such region was occupied by huge rocks.

However, to be named as China's Ancestral Dragon Vein, that was clear enough to highlight its magnificence. Moreover, since ancient times, there were countless myths and legends about the Kunlun Mountains and were widely known as the 'Paradise of Immortals.'

(E/N: For those of you who don't know Chinese mythology, Kunlun is like the boundary between the heavens and the earth, so it's half like Avalon and half a gateway into the divine.)

The Kunlun Mountains belonged to plateau region. The weather was very cold and always covered in snow. Lacking green plants as cover, it wasn't an ideal place to hide from detection. Therefore, compared to Qinling, the Kunlun Mountains were considered as a final option.

Just like that, after he finished dealing with the jades, that very night, Wu Hao flew to Qinling. Along the way, he did rest for a while. A few hours later, he began to head out again to travel across thousands of kilometers back to his wooden house.

After he left for two days, the takin that had been eaten to only the bones was left by the golden eagles. There were only some incomplete parts with the fur intact like the head and legs which didn't have much meat.

It is worth mentioning that the appetite of golden eagles were quite huge. In these two days, because of this huge prey, the two adult golden eagles didn't go out and hunt. It could be considered as a rare two days break for them.

In the usual scenario, unless the weather was extremely bad because of pouring rain, the golden eagles would fly out of their territory everyday to hunt for prey.

After all, although they were at the top of the food chain, as an avian predator, the chances for miscalculations were still not small.

If they weren't hard working enough, they might have to face the risk of hunger. If the bad weather continued for a long time, their physical strength would be greatly affected. Hence, the success rate in hunting would be lower too.

“If I keep providing prey for this family of golden eagles, will they eventually become domesticated animals?” Wu Hao gave some thought to this. Although his idea seemed to be justified and made sense, it was still impossible to turn them into domesticated animals.

At most, he could only make them become familiar with him. Besides giving some simple orders, the nature of these birds as predators wouldn't change.

That was unless they were kept in a cage. However, doing so would eventually cause their death not long afterwards due to being unable to adapt to such an environment.

Back at his wooden house, Wu Hao first uploaded the first episode of his documentary 'The Original Adventure' to Youdou, a video site.

(E/N: Think Youtube for China.)

Because today was Friday, this was the day when his plan officially launched.
